LABOR OF LOVE — The contrasting sides of this old building next to the San Geronimo Presbyterian Church display a before-and-after look as a group of visiting teen-agers works with a will to fix it up. The youngsters from San Diego have spent a week in Marin rehabilitating church properties in Point Reyes Station and San Geronimo. During yesterday's stint they described their "working tour" as a labor of love, an expression of Christianity.

MARIN CHURCHES RENOVATED

27 Youths 'Enjoy Helping Others'

By PAT PERRY

With glasses sliding down her nose, tiny Molly Pollock shoved a long-handled paint roller up and down the ancient wooden siding of the former railroad station at San Geronimo yesterday afternoon.

The diminutive 14-year-old was spattered with yellow paint and dust as she puffed: "I really enjoy helping other people."

Up on a ladder, 17-year-old Steven Whyte was painting the five-foot-wide eaves. It was very hot and he had yellow and brown paint from head to foot. So what was a nice boy from San Diego doing in a place like this?

"I am a Christian. I just wanted to help other people," he called from the ladder.

Molly and Steven and 25 other high school students from east San Diego have spent this week working on the San Geronimo and Point Reyes Presbyterian churches.

They call it their Working Tour and that is exactly what the boys and girls have done.

The small church at Point Reyes (the congregation there numbers only 14) has been repainted inside and out.

At San Geronimo, they have cleared four-foot-high weeds from the perimeter of the Presbyterian church, exposing handsome junipers. They have cleaned up the children's playground, earting away loads of debris that had fallen from the pines and eucalyptus above.

They have removed the cross which leaned askew on the hill above the church and cementedit upright.

They dug up, drained and cleaned out the septic tank, put in a new pipe and got the whole thing working again.

They pulled out old dead ivy and shrubs in front of the Christian Education building and leveled the area with loads of stones. Then they constructed a 15-foot wide stairway of concrete blocks up the bank so children won't slip and slide in winter muds on their way to Sunday School.

Not to mention completely stripping the shabby shingles from the former railroad station next to the church, sanding down the original Victorian boards and painting them in authentic primrose and brown.

The teen-agers are all members of Trinity Presbyterian Church in Spring Valley, San Diego. Each paid $20 to join the working tour, money they had earned by working at $1.25 an hour for members of the congregation.

Other expenses of the tour were met by fund raising projects throughout the year.

They are accompanied by two men and two women and two college student advisors.

Lynn Failing, the church's youth director, said the invitation to work in San Geronimo was the result of 200 letters he sent to Northern California Churches. Last year they went to Monte Rio on the Russian River.

The students live in the church itself as sleeping bags stretch wall to wall and tables and chairs line the rear.

They work from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day and take showers at the San Geronimo Valley Country Club. The two women cook meals, the youngsters perform K.P. duties.

"Everyone in the community has been great to us," said Failing, praising the club for opening its facilities. "A girl rode by on a horse one day, got talking and the next thing we were all invited to use her family's swimming pool every day."

Sewer Plant Decision Ends Population Curb

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District Board voted unanimously last night to increase capacity of its sewage treatment plant, thus paving the way for continued development in the valley.

The board's action came after nearly four hours of discussion and months of controversy in which some residents maintained the district should limit sewage treatment capabilities as a means of controlling population growth.

However, board members appeared in agreement last night that the district should be prepared to accommodate future growth as called for in the soon-to-be released Countywide General Plan.

Board approval, in effect, authorizesthe district's consulting engineer, Warren E. Nute of San Rafael, to submit expansion plans to the Regional Water Quality Control Board for approval.

The plans call for about $250,000 worth of improvements with about 80 per cent to be paid by the federal and state governments.

Nute's plans will ask control board endorsement for expanding plant capacity from the present 2.25 million gallons of waste treated each day to about 3 million.

Nute was told by the board to gear his plans toward a future population of between 30,000 and 40,000 residents — the actual number to be set by the countywide plan.

Currently the valley has about 27,000 residents scattered primarily among the small communities of Marinwood, Terra Linda, Santa Venetia and Lucas Valley.

Increasing the treatment plant's capacity — an interim measure required by the control board pending a complete overhaul of sewage treatment in Northern Marin — will also improve water quality.

Nute told the board the existing treatment plant, serving 27,000 residents, removes about 85 per cent of the impurities which feed on life sustaining oxygen in the water. The expansion, serving the same 27,000 residents, will remove about 91 per cent of these impurities. However, as population and the amount of sewage increase, water quality will decrease at the rate of about 1 per cent per 5,000 new residents.

Thus, if valley population

$23 Million Marin Ferry Net Passes

Construction of a $23 million high-speed ferry system — with a big "if" — was voted today by Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

The 13-3 vote to build the system was conditioned on approval by the federal government of a grant covering two-thirds of the cost.

A $12.6 million bid to build the first three ferries expires, however, on Aug. 21, allowing only 10 days for government approval of the grant.

The vice president of Campbell Industries of San Diego, the low bidder, told the Independent-Journal he doubted his firm would extend the deadline. "We've already lost out on other business waiting for this one," Jack G. Allen said.

District officials, however, predicted the federal grant will be approved before the contract deadline.

Today's vote capped five years of district study of its ferry system.

Each of the ferries would be 165 feet long and carry 750 passengers at 25 knots. Each would be powered by triple gas turbines and propelled by triple

CAB Approves Air Fare Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board today authorized a 2.7 per cent increase in domestic air fares.

The increase is optional, not mandatory.

A spokesman for the airline industry said the airlines probably would file their fare increase proposals within a week. If there is no objection from the CAB, the new rates normally would become effective within 30 days.

Shriver End-War Claim Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Secretary of State William P. Rogers accused Sargent Shriver today of engaging in "political fantasy" by saying President Nixon failed to take advantage of an opportunity to end the Vietnam War in 1969. (See page 2 for Shriver story.)

Shriver, Democratic vice presidential candidate who was U.S. ambassador in Paris at the time, said Thursday Nixon "blew it" by not seizing what Shriver called a "historic opportunity" to make peace the year he took office.

At a news conference, Rogers was asked to comment on Shriver's charge. He said he had noted the candidate's remarks with "some interest — and I think it's political fantasy". Rogers said he had found no evidence of Shriver referring to any "historic opportunity" during thorough checks of all communications from Shriver up to and including his letter of resignation as Paris ambassador.

'NO MENTION'

Rogers said he also talked with Henry Cabot Lodge and all members of the U.S. negotiating teams in Paris and that all of them said that Shriver never mentioned any such opportunity nor suggested any solutions "which we were not pursuing." Lodge is former U.S. ambassador to the peace talks.

If Shriver ever knew of any such chance, he failed to mention it to President Nixon, the secretary of state, or any other official, Rogers claimed.

Rogers also came out swinging at critics of the President's Vietnam policy, speaking with an intensity and fervor quite unlike his usual, calm delivery.

He also accused former Attorney General Ramsey Clark of "contemptible" action in broadcasting over Hanoi radio a criticism of Nixon's policy of bombing North Vietnam.

He said he had listened to recording of a broadcast that Clark allegedly made while in Hanoi and "I am frank to say that I was shocked."

'BEYOND BELIEF'

Rogers said he was "surprised that he went to North Vietnam." But he added, to hear the voice of a former U.S. attorney general, "a man involved in the decisions which sent a half a million men to North Vietnam", now criticizing Nixon's policy while American airmen were still being killed in action, "to me was contemptible —to me it is beyond belief. I would think the American people would be shocked."

As for Shriver's remarks, Rogers said Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has told him Shriver informed him in 1969 that he supported Nixon's Vietnamization program.

Prior to Rogers' blast —an unusual foray into partisan politics for a secretary of state — the White House had refused to comment on Shriver's allegation, saying the "appropriate place to address questions about ambassadors is at the State Department."

Saigon Tells Victory As U.S. Unit Leaves

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese infantrymen alerted by a captured Communist soldier today smashed a half-naked North Vietnamese commando battalion which attacked the large Lai Khe base 30 miles from Saigon, military sources said.

The attack at Lai Khe by blackpainted guerrillas wearing loin cloths was the main point of a sudden offensive in which Communists bombarded towns all over South Vietnam today and launched commando raids as close as 22 miles to Saigon. Fighting also quickened in the Quang Tri area where South Vietnamese said they killed 234 Communists in the 24 hours ending at noon today.

The ground war became exclusively South Vietnamese today as the U.S. Coommand announced the deactivation of the last American ground combat unit in Vietnam — the 1,043-man Battalion of the 21st Infantry Regiment. U.S. air and naval support continued, however, with 44,000 servicemen in Vietnam.

The commando raid on Lai Khe was doomed at the start. A high military source said a South Vietnamese patrol two days ago captured a North Vietnamese reconnaissance soldier who had been separated from his unit near Highway 13. The source reported the soldier decided under questioning to join the South Vietnamese under the "Chieu Hoi" amnesty program, and in doing so told all the details on the planned Lai Khe assault.

The South Vietnamese said that in a little over 24 hours ending at dawn today the guerrillas shelled at least nine towns and followed up with ground attacks on five of them.

The heaviest fighting reported in South Vietnam was in the Quang Tri-Hue area in the northeastern part of South Vietnam where marines have been fighting to recapture Quang Tri city from the North Vietnamese.

In tha air war over North Vietnam bad weather held U.S. jet strikes to about 200 sorties Thursday, most of them well below the Hanoi area. Navy pilots reported destroying a locomotive and 12 boxcars.

Today's withdrawal puts American troop strength in Vietnam at 44,600, none of them ground combat troops. There are 40,000 other Americans aboard U.S. warships offshore, another 50,000 at air bases in Thailand and 10,000 on Guam where some of the B52s are based.

Marin City Redevelopment Nears: 450 Homes As Start

By PAT ANGLE

Something is stirring in Marin City.

For nearly 15 years, the windswept acres in the heart of Marin City have lain vacant, a desert in the midst of flourishing Southern Marin.

Here is open space, not the kind conservationists fight for, but the barren vistas created by failure to turn unused, unwanted land into something better.

Long ago many governmental agencies and individuals promised residents that a total, self-supporting suburban community of homes, schools, stores and businesses would rise.

But years of inaction, disappointment and vain attempts to develop the community have soured the promises and dimmed the hope that Marin County Redevelopment Agency was capable of transforming Marin City.

Now it appears that the agency's past failures may be redeemed.

On Aug. 25, five development firms will present detailed proposals to the agency board for between 450 and 600 homes, to be built on part of the remaining 60 acres of redevelopment land now controlled by the agency. About 40 acres are earmarked for subsequent commercial and recreational development.

There have been proposals by developers before, but chiefly from firms which did not have the money to put their plans into practice. And, until recently, the redevelopment agency was incapable of accepting any offers which happened to come from serious, financially stable developers since it did not possess clear title to the redevelopment lands.

The title had been turned over to the community's first developer, California Development Co., in the agency's early days.

Despite its failure to complete its development contract, Cal Development had held title to the lowlands in a death grip until this January when in a

Consultants Propose Closed Smog Sessions

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Consultants to the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District have recommended that all district business first be screened behind closed doors in committees of district directors before public airing.

The recommendation is a reversal of the consultants' own finding several years ago that the district's suppression of information about polluters continues "to plague the district and may be contributing to a credibility gap of some degree."

The new proposal of secret meetings also would be at odds with a superior court ruling in June that the state's law against such meetings, the Ralph M. Brown Act, applies to committees of public agencies even when they meet with less than a quorum of the parent board.

The recommendation came in the final version of a $45,000, three-month study of the district by the San Francisco management consulting firm of Cresap, McCormick and Paget Inc.

The final report, paid for with public tax funds, was delivered to district offices on Wednesday. This made the report a public record under California law, but district officials refused to let it be seen publicly until copies were delivered to all district officials.

The report was stamped: "Confidential and intended solely for the information and benefit of the immediate recipient hereof." No copies are available for the public to have, but copies may be viewed at district offices, 939 Ellis Street.

The board of directors will hold an all-day hearing on the report starting at 9:30 a.m. Thursday in the district offices.

Fischer Has Three-Point Chess Lead

REYKJAVIK (UPI)—Bobby Fischer, refusing to concede a draw, today defeated Boris Spassky in their 13th and longest game to date to take a commanding three point lead in the world chess championship.

Spassky, who spent the night studying the adjourned position to try to find a way to gain a draw, almost succeeded but made a mistake on the 69th move to give Fischer the winning advantage. The champion resigned on the 75th move.

The Russian's second, Nikolai Krogius, who had earlier beamed and confidently predicted a draw, looked at his pocket board in the corridor following the 69th move and said, "Now it's hopeless."

"He made a mistake in the 69th," Krogius said. "He should have moved his rook up to bishop's three to check instead

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

New Flood Fear

MANILA (UPI) — Two new storms threatened today to bring more rains and floods after a week-long spell of sunshine in the Philippines' Central Luzon disaster area.

As Luzon's main MacArthur Highway became passable to all overland traffic with the receding floodwaters and relief work gained momentum, the weather bureau raised warning signals over the eastern section of the country with the approach of the two storms.

The death toll in the Philippines' month-locg floods which abated only last Sunday rose today to 544. The Red Cross listed a total of 289,733 families or 1,665,967 persons as flood victims.

Hair Spray Hazard

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Food and Drug Administration (FDA) doctor says the ingredient in hair sprays that helps keep hair in place may be causing lung disorders.

Dr. John M. Gowdy, who works in the FDS's cosmetics division, said Thursday hair sprays had been suspected for 10 years of causing thesaurosis, or "storage disease." But he said the evidence is limited because chemical tests are not sophisticated enough to spot the ingredient in the lungs.

"But there are some suspected cases that we have seen over the last 10 years at FDA," Gowdy said. He reported his investigations in the current issue of the Archives of Environmental Health, a professional journal.

Viet War Expense

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon has estimated the cost of the Vietnam war during the fiscal year that started July 1 at $5.8 billion.

A defense spending study issued yesterday predicted the total cost of the war for the United States during the current year would be $7.1 billion. But the report said the "incremental" cost was $5.8 billion, because the other $1.3 billion would be spent anyway on salaries, ammunition and fuel.

The highest cost of the war for a single year was during fiscal 1969 when the incremental cost was $21.5 billion and the total cost $28.8 billion.

Nixon Decides Press Strategy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon believes the performance of the news media should not be an issue in this year's presidential campaign.

Ronald L. Ziegler, the White House press secretary, was asked Thursday if Nixon had directed his supporters to "cool" attacks on the press.

Ziegler said the Administration had never conducted a concerted attack on the news media.

Fonda Probe Asked

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jane Fonda says she welcomes a Justice Department investigation of the "Hanoi Rose" charges against her, indicating she would base a defense, if needed, on the Nurenberg war crimes doctrine.

Miss Fonda, criticized for broadcasts from the North Vietnamese capital, issued a statement here following a vote on her case in Washington by the House Internal Security Committee.

The committee turned down a move to subpoena her, but voted 8-1 to request a complete report from the Justice Department by Sept. 14 on what Miss Fonda did in Hanoi and whether she may have committed a federal offense.

The motion to subpoena the activist actress came from Rep. Fletcher Thompson, R-Ga., who has referred to her as "Hanoi Hannah."

Voters' Holiday?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Election day Nov. 7 would be a national holiday under legislation approved by the Senate yesterday.

Promoters of the step argued it would significantly increase voter turnout. The measure, however, faced a doubtful future in the House.

Also approved by the Senate was a proposal to keep polling places open for the same 12-hour period across the nation. Its sponsors said the system would prevent voters in the West from being affected by broadcast projections of the election outcome.

Polling places would be open from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. EST in the East, from 10 to 10 in the Central time zone, from 9 to 9 in the Mountain time zone, and from 8 to 8 in the Pacific time zone.

Shriver: Nixon Had Viet Piece In His Lap In '69

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver believes President Nixon "blew it" when he failed to take a "historic opportunity" to end the Vietnam war in 1969.

Shriver contended Thursday that Nixon had the opportunity the year he took office to end the war on better terms than he can get now.

"President Nixon had peace in his lap handed to him," Shriver said. "I cannot imagine why he blew it."

SARGENT SHRIVER
'He blew it . . .'

"I think we could have gotten better terms in 1969 than he (Nixon) can get now," Shriver said. "I can assure you it (the terms) would have been as good or better."

Nixon could have offered the Vietnamese Communists the same terms then that he is offering now and they would have been accepted, Shriver said.

"I thought he had one of the great historic opportunities of my lifetime," Shriver said. He said failing to take advantage of the opportunity was "one of the great tragedies of the Nixon administration."

One reason the climate was better for negotiations in 1969, Shriver said, was because the United States still had hundreds of thousands of troops in Vietnam.

He did not say what American terms the Communists might have accepted in 1969.

Nixon's latest offer of May 8 would withdraw all U.S. forces from Vietnam within four months after U.S. prisoners are released and an internationally-supervised cease-fire is put into effect.

Shriver, the former Peace Corps director, who was chosen by Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern to replace Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton on the ticket, said he believed the economy would be one of the most important issues of the election.

He said Nixon's policies were "the worst example of fiscal irresponsibility in my lifetime."

Nixon Veto Seen On $30 Billion Measure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Engaging in an argument it knew it would lose, Congress has sent President Nixon a $30.5 billion health, education, welfare and labor appropriation that is $1.7 billion over his budget.

Now it awaits his veto.

The veto was freely predicted and seen as inevitable even before the Senate approved the bill 62-22 Thursday night in defiance of Nixon's hold-the-spending pleas.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he welcomed the challenge of a veto—and said the Democrats would take the isuue to the country.

Mansfield said the Democratic-controlled Congress had displayed its sense of priority in killing, two weeks ago, a $1.7 billion bill to provide military aid to allies and then providing that same amount in unsought spending for schools, hospitals job training and health research along with a host of other social projects.

"The issue where the government spends its money is one I think the Congress is willing to take to the country," Mansfield said.

Nixon warned on July 16 that he would veto appropriations bills which exceed his budget. He is trying to hold government spending to $250 billion this fiscal year, an amount that will produce a deficit in excess of $30 billion.

Twenty-three Republicans joined 39 Democrats in voting for the bill and 18 Republicans and four Democrats voted against it.

The House passed the bill Wednesday 238-166 — a margin not wide enough to provide the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto.

That means Congress will have to start from scratch in toning down its spending in a new appropriations bill to fund programs of the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare. The measure also carried $45 million to run the Corporation for Public Broadcasting during this fiscal year.

The bulk of the increases were for health and schools—26 per cent more than Nixon sought for such programs as health research and hospital construction and 23 per cent more for aid to poverty schools and those near federal installations.

Nixon vetoed a smiliar bill in 1969. Congress failed to override him.

Sen. William V. Roth, R-Del., was defeated 47-38 on a motion to send the measure back to a House-Senate conference a $2.5 billion spending ceiling on what many in Congress call a "runaway" program.

Proxmire Asks Two-Sided Demo HQ Break-In Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today there should be an independent, two-man investigation of the burglary of national Democratic headquarters that led to the arrest of men connected to the Republican party.

Proxmire suggested the appointment as investigators of former Republican Sen. John J. Williams of Delawa re an former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg, a Democrat.

"These men are scrupulously honest, have a rugged independence of mind and wear no man's collar," Proxmire said.

Five men, including a former CIA official who worked as chief of security for President Nixon's re-election committee, were arrested in the offices of the Democratic National Committee at 2:30 a.m. June 17. Police said they carried electronic surveillance devices.

Proxmire complained the incident currently was being investigated by men in the Justice Department and FBI who were appointed by Nixon.

The Washington Star and Daily News reported Thursday that at least $114,000 in contributions to the Nixon committee was deposited in the bank account of another of the suspects, Bernard Barker of Miami.

Clark MacGregor, Nixon's campaign director, said Thursday it was his understanding that Barker was given a $25,000 check byOP finance chief Maurice Stans to cash and that the money was returned to Stans and spent in the campaign. But he said he had no information on the additional $89,000 that the Star-News said went into Barker's account.

Proxmire contended the developments showed that Stans, a number of former White House aides and consultants, and a number of persons connected to the Nixon campaign were "directly involved in key aspects of the break-in..."

No-Fault Defeat 'Not Discouraging'

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Insurance Association, a group of companies that pioneered no-fault automobile accident insurance, said today it is not discouraged by the Senate's 49-46 defeat of the Federal no-fault bill.

"In fact," said the AIA's general counsel, Robert N. Gilmore, "we agree with President Nixon that no-fault insurance legislation ought properly be the province of the states.

"Our principal interest in the Senate bill just defeated was that we hoped a favorable vote would spur many legislatures to enact sound no-fault bills in order to head off ty need for a federal law."

"I think perhaps the states now have their last chance to enact sound no-fault laws and if they don't public opinion will compel Congress to do so."

In San Francisco, the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws approved a no-fault plan and agreed to push for its passage in every state.

The commissioners, a group of judges, lawyers, professors and officials representing each state, agreed 33-11 to accept a comprehensive insurance plan similar to the one shelved by the Senate. It would compensate accident victims for all their economic losses regardless of who was to blame.

Big St. Louis Crowd Welcomes Eagleton

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., received a tumultuous welcome Thursday night on his first visit to his hometown since being dropped as the vice presidential candidate on the Democratic national ticket.

Eagleton was mobbed by supporters as he stepped off a plane at Lambert Field, and he told the crowd, "I've been in politics 16 years, and your coming out here is worth the whole 16 years."

Eagleton, mounting a makeshift platform to speak to the crowd of about 2,000 persons pressing around him, said, "I'm going to write a book about the events of the past few weeks, and I'm going to tell what no one else knows, not even my closest relatives. I'm going to say that no one could have treated me with greater understanding or greater compassion than George McGovern.

"One or two members of his staff tried to do a hatchet job on me—there's always divisions on a political staff," Eagleton said. "But Sen. McGovern proved to be the decent man I have always known him to be."

Eagleton said he intended to campaign in Missouri for Democrats running for statewide offices, then added, "And to use President Nixon's cliche, let's make it crystal clear, I'm also here to work for George McGovern for president."

The crowd gave a listless cheer to the remark about the Democratic presidential nominee, and many were shouting, "No, No, No." One man yelled of McGovern, "He's a hypocrite."

One of the many signs in the crowd said, "Eagleton for No. 1 in '76," and Eagleton told the crowd, "I'm not going to be relegated to a footnote in history."

Air Force Sergeant Guilty Of Espionage

TYNDALL AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (UPI)—Air Force Master Sgt. Walter T. Perkins was convicted by a military judge today of stealing defense secrets and attempting to pass them to a Soviet agent.

Perkins, 37, faces a maximum possible sentence of 26 years in prison and a dishonorable discharge from the Air Force where he has served for the last 18 years. He took the verdict without visible emotion.

Col. Joe E. Peck, a hawk-faced military judge who heard the week-long trial without a jury, returned the guilty verdict on all five counts at 10:20 a.m., EDT, with these words:

"Master Sergeant Walter T. Perkins, it is my duty to inform you that this court has found you of all specifications and charges, guilty."

Without a word, Perkins and his defense attorney sat down and Peck kept the court in session to make some legal "findings" on several technical points the defense may use in a possible appeal of the verdict.

Peck, a blond, cool and efficient military judge from California's Travis Air Force base, began deliberating Perkins' fate at 10 a.m. Thursday. He recessed the court overnight and returned to the chore at 8 a.m. today.

The defense did not deny the charges against Perkins. Instead, it contended he was an alcoholic and not responsible for his acts, due to temporary insanity.

After hearing appeals for leniency and mitigating circumstances, Peck will deliberate Perkins' sentence.

Perkins, the former top noncommissioned officer at Tyndall's Intelligence Section, was specifically charged with stealing national defense information, attempting to deliver that information to an unauthorized person, falsifying reports on the destruction of secret information, falsifying leave records and a general charge of unmilitary conduct.

During a brief recess Rothblatt said he was "not surprised by the verdict. I figured we'd either win or lose all the way. I didn't expect anything in between.

"The whole case was tried with the expectation of an appeal and carrying it through all the appellate processes. If we had won here, it would have just been a pleasant surprise," Rothblatt said.

CHURCH

ElginOrcutt family — has been deeply appreciated, since the boys and girls admit to being exhausted at the end of their work days.

They have informal Bible study sessions after supper each night but these are not restricted to the church. One evening this week they were scattered over the neighboring golf course reading the Bible in clusters when the sprinkling system came on.

They leave San Geronimo Sunday and, as their last project, will conduct the morning service.

criticisms of the district presented July 12 in a preliminary report. It declared that the district directors frequently do not know what is going on and do not know what they want to do or how because they spend too little time at their jobs and get too little help from the staff.

It also said that the district's top administrator, D. J. Callaghan, has too much power and should share some of it with subordinates. It reported no need for Callaghan's proposed addition of a new range of "middle management" to the district's staff.

Missing from the copy of the final report available at district offices were results of the consultants' survey of staff attitudes. The report noted that at the request of board chairman Robert B. St. Clair, a San Mateo County supervisor, these results will not be submitted to the board until next Thursday's meeting. No reason was given for excluding the results.

The consultants recommended additional staff at a cost of up to $111,600 a year plus upgrading of some existing staff at an annual additional cost of up to $69,300.

The recommendation for secret committee meetings came in a proposal for "informal and closed workshop meetings between the committee members and district staff. These sessions would be strictly preliminary and would be dedicated to information transfer and dialogue only."

The consultants said that "several competent legal authorities, including the temporary legal counsel of the district, have advised the consultants that this two-stage approach is legal under the laws of California. In fact, the right of the public at large to disclosure of the affairs of the district would be doubly protected under the approach," they claimed.

Their report said that this "protection" would be assured because no committee could take final action and no committee would have a quorum of the whole board.

The June 20 ruling by San Francisco Superior Court Joseph Karesh declared that "all standing committees are subject to the Brown Act and must be held in the open regardless of the fact there may be less than a quorum present." The ruling came in a case involving the San Francisco Human Rights Commission, which was conducting its meetings in the same manner as proposed by the smog district's consultants.

The Brown Act declares that it applies to deliberations as well as to actions by public agencies. "The people insist on remaining informed so that they may retain control over the instruments they have created," the act states.

Marin City Redevelopment Nears; 450 Homes Set

(The development company had purchased the 167-acre ridge for $441,000 in 1962 from Marin County Housing Authority. The authority, not wishing to turn over the ridgeland to a company which had defaulted in its contract to complete redevelopment, held the firm's final payment on the ridge in escrow for more than two years until the compromise swap in January.)

After regaining control of the property, the agency devoted several months to finding development firms willing and able to build attractive homes on the land. They also sought companies that would work with the Marin City community in planning construction and that would provide some benefit in the form of jobs and training for local residents.

Now the agency believes its search is ended, according to Douglas C. Myers, a San Jose consultant retained by the agency to handle its real estate matters.

He said five solidly-based companies will present proposals to the agency later this month. They are: Subsidized Housing Inc. of Beverly Hills; Mid-Cities Development, Washington, D.C.; Inland Steel Corp. of Chicago; Barry Slatt Mortgage Co. of San Francisco, and Larwin Corp., of Los Angeles.

"These are very serious development proposals," said Myers, who specializes in consulting work for governmental agencies engaged in development. "The cost of making the submission they intend to make Aug. 25 is from $5,000 to $30,000, so you know these companies are serious about coming into Marin City."

Although details of the various plans are not completed, Myers said he expects the proposals will be for 450 to 600 units of apartments, cluster condominiums and separate single-family dwellings.

All will be market rate — rather than low cost — housing, according to the consultant. (Despite protests from some residents that housing construction should be within the financial reach of persons now living in 300 units of public housing in the community, the agency has set itself against additional low-income dwellings in Marin City.)

Once the agency staff receives the proposals, copies will be forwarded to Marin County Planning Department staff and to the agency's project area committee, a group of Marin City residents chosen to advise in redevelopment matters.

On Sept. 7, the agency board will meet to study development plans and recommendations and analyses from staff, the area committee and the planning department.

Selection of a developer or developers is scheduled to take place at the board's Sept. 25 meeting.

Myers said competition for development rights will be based both on architectural excellence and the developer's ability to provide jobs, training for jobs and investment opportunities for community residents.

"The firm's intention to provide jobs and job training to minority and poor people will be a very serious part of the consideration," he added. "We have asked each company to present us with their plans for doing this."

After the agency chooses its developer, the proposals will be presented to Marin County Planning Commission for approval.

"We expect no problems with the planning commission since the staff will have our plans a month ahead of the meeting. We are hopeful all problems can be ironed out by the time the commission considers the plans," Myers said.

The next step will be contracts between the agency and the developers, which he said should be signed as soon as county approval is forthcoming.

To avoid the kind of problems the agency had with Cal Development, each contract will contain a clause giving the developer a certain time to begin building. If that deadline is not met, title to the land will revert to the agency.

If all goes well — and Myers seems confident it will — construction of the first units should begin next spring and be finished before September 1973, the deadline set by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Commercial development will come later, after the housing, according to Myers, and does not have to be completed by next September.

"Until the stir of new residential development occurs, nobody will be interested in that commercial land," Myers said. "It would be impossible to support 40 acres of commercial development from existing homes in Marin City, but the new housing will stimulate commercial growth.

"Once it moves, it goes very fast."

The three aluminum-hulled ferries along with the existing Sausalito ferry will carry some 5,000 commuters a day between Marin and San Francisco, according to district projections.

The first ferry is to be delivered in April 1974, with the next two to be delivered within the following eight months.

The low bid by Campell Industries was more than $4 million above the estimate by the district's naval architect, Philip F. Spaulding of Seattle. The difference was explained largely by the growing cost of labor.

Director Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco, the prime mover for ferry boats for many years, promptlq distributed cigars to the other 12 who voted to go ahead on the ferry system.

Fischer left the stage after almost every move while Spassky sat silently in thought, sometimes his chin resting on a hand. Only once did the Russian leave the stage to get a glass of milk as though he were preparing for a long stay.

At one point Spassky's seconds, Ivo Ney and Eyfim Geller, put on their coats as though to leave. But two moves later the coats were back over their arms and they strolled the corridors discussing the possibilities.

He was a retired laborer and was a member of the First Missionary Baptist Church.

He is survived by his wife, Blanchie Goins of Marin City; three daughters, Mardell Green of Marin City and Ella Johnson and Julia Johnson of San Francisco; two sisters, Josephine Brown and Essie Williams of Chicago and five grandchildren.

Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

KEVIN BARDWELL

Because of a computer malfunction, circumstances surrounding the death of Kevin Bardwell were obscured in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Bardwell, 14, drowned Wednesday while participating in a swimming class in the pool at Cedars Development Foundation of Marin in Ross.

According to an official of the school, a teacher noticed he was absent from the group and found him face down at the shallow end of the pool.

MELVIN SOMERS

Private funeral has been held for Dr. Melvin Ralph Somers, who died at his home Sunday after a long illness.

Dr. Somers, a psychoanalyst, had been a resident of Marin for 20 years.

He is survived by his wife, Hertha O. and a sister, Mrs. Everett Wood of Glendale.

MRS. PORTAGUESE

Funeral for Irma M. Portaguese, mother of Alan Porter of San Rafael, has been held in San Rafael.

Mrs. Portaguese died Wednesday in a local convalescent hospital. She was 83.

She was born in Washington and lived in California for the past seven years. She moved into Marin County a year ago.

In addition to her son, Mrs. Portaguese is survived by a daughter, Jean Kauffman of Sacramento.

She was buried at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

MRS. ALEXANDER

Private service for Louise D. Alexander of Woodacre was held today in San Anselmo. She died Wednesday in a local hospital after a short illness.

Mrs. Alexander, 74, was a native of Louisiana and had lived in Marin for six years. She was a 45-year resident of California.

She is survived by a daughter, Evelyn Alexander of Truckee and a sister, Hilda Smith of Woodacre.

Entombment will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Two Burglaries Bring Sentence

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court yesterday sentenced Dennis Kirk Smith, 19, of San Rafael, to the California Youth Authority for two burglaries.

Smtih had been convicted last month by a jury of stealing a circular saw in November 1971 from the garage of a San Rafael woman.

The second burglary was of a car parked in San Rafael early in the morning of Feb. 10.

SEWER

grows to $35,000 he said, the plant will operate at 89 per cent removal, which is better than present operations.

Expansion of the plant drew little opposition from the audience last night. Speakers urged the added capacity be used primarily to improve the quality of sewage dumped in the bay.

Board member Sesto F. Lucchi, while he agreed with expanding the plant, opposed establishing a three-million - gallon per day figure, saying that figure should remain flexible to meet the actual population demands as established in the countywide plan when released. To provide more capacity than necessary could encourage excessive growth, he said.

Other board members disagreed, saying capacity excess — if any — would improve water quality, and the vote was 3-1 for firm figure.

About 80 persons attended the meeting, half of whom stuck it out to the end.

Ronald Marinoff of the Lucas Valley Homeonwers Association urged limited growth. "We have never been antidevelopment," he told the board. "We're pro-quality development."

Board member Gene H. Dyer said he felt expansion to accommodate a future population of about 35,000 was a reasonable compromise since it would allow some development and still improve water quality.

In other action, the board voted 3-1 to seat Calvin B. Colt of 353 Shasta Drive, Lucas Valley, to a vacant board seat. Duckett dissented.

Attempts to fill the seat last week from a slate of eight candidates ended in a deadlocked vote with Solomon and Lucchi supporting Colt and Duckett and Dyer for William E. Brook of 41 Mount Foraker Drive. Dyer switched his vote last night for Colt amid charges from some residents that the eight candidates — one a woman — had not been given equal consideration.

Board members denied the charges.

$10 Million Reserve Fund For Bridge District Fails Approval

A bitterly divided committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors yesterday rejected a proposal that district reserves be at least $10 million.

The staff warned that such a reserve could force either cuts in transit operations next fiscal year or increases in fares and tolls.

The joint transportation and finance-auditing committee instead voted 7-4 to hold reserves at $7.5 million at least until the end of next fiscal year, a level the staff said would not interfere with transit or affect fares or tolls.

The demand for the $10 million reserve came from several San Francisco supervisors, who then took their campaign yesterday afternoon before their own streets and transportation committee. There they won a quick endorsement of their own resolution and sent it to the full board of supervisors for ratification at 2 p.m. next Monday in City Hall.

The bridge district apparently would be stymied if the $10 million level is adopted as policy by the San Francisco supervisors. San Francisco has nine of the 18 votes on the bridge board, thus giving it effective control because it takes 10 votes to approve expenditures.

San Francisco's legal advisers have claimed that its representatives on the bridge board must vote in conformance with policies of the board of supervisors, thus they would be obliged to halt bridge district spending when the $10 million level was reached.

District reserves stood at $20.5 million July 1, but will drop to $14.26 million by next July 1 because of heavy transit deficits and purchase of ferries. The reserves will drop further to $8.22 million by the end of next fiscal year, according to staff projections.

The district will be broke by 1976 unless expected state and federal transit funds become available, the staff found.

The $10 million reserve limit was proposed by San Francisco supervisors John Molinari, Robert Gonzales and Quentin Kopp.

Director E. J. Guidotti of Sonoma County exploded, saying he was "damned sick and tired of this board catering to the San Francisco supervisors. What the hell do they know about running the bridge?"

Marin County Supervisors Michael Wornum, a bridge director, added, "If the San Francisco Board of Supervisors wants to tell us how much reserve to have, they better take over this bridge."

Wornum attacked Molinari's proposal for requiring toll and fare increases "just so we can have a $10 million reserve. We are not a banking organization, we are a service organization," Wornum said.

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring, who two weeks ago had recommended a $5 million reserve, or twice his projected total for any unlikely emergency expenditures, yesterday said the figure could go to $7.5 million.

Fare and toll increases may be necessary in five years, he said, but may have to be imposed much sooner if the reserve is held at too high a figure.

The bridge committee's recommendation will go to the full board on Aug. 25, almost two weeks after the issue may already have been decided by the San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

Representatives of the Greater San Francisco Chamber of Commerce supported a reserve of about $10 million.

The Golden Gate Bridge District's joint transportation and finance-auditing committee also:

CHARTER BUSES — Renewed its contract with Franciscan Lines for charter bus clubs subsidized by the district for commuters between areas not served by the district's transit system. Service will be added soon between Petaluma and Hunters Point Naval Shipyard in San Francisco and between other Sonoma and Napa points and San Francisco.

LABOR — Met behind closed doors to instruct staff negotiators on wage increases being sought by district employees.

MARIN — Postponed review of a dispute between the county of Marin and the district over the county's share this fiscal year for local bus service pending further staff negotiations.

Mrs. Shriver Given Checkup

A hospital spokesman said Mrs. Shriver checked out of the hospital at 8 p.m. Thursday. He said the tests showed no problems and "everything's fine."

Mrs. Shriver, 51, sister of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, was admitted to the hospital Wednesday evening for an examination which was scheduled a week ago.

6,000-Acre Mendocino Fire 90 Pct. Contained

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Firefighters reported 90 per cent containment today over a 6,000 acre brush and timber blaze in the rugged Mud Springs area of Mendocino County that resulted in one death and two injuries.

Meanwhile, an 870 acre fire in Plumas National Forest destroyed $1 million worth of timber, according to a spokesman for the U. S. Forest Service.

A brush fire eight miles north of Yreka blackened 1,000 acres.

Complete containment of the three fires was expected soon, spokesman for the forest service and the State Division of Forestry said.

Winds died down Thursday, easing the struggle waged by the 570 men fighting the flames in Mendocino County. Air tankers and helicopters joined in the battle.

Fire crew foreman Lloyd A. Shellabarger, 42, Crescent City, died of a heart attack while on the fire line Thursday at Mud Springs.

Two bulldozer operators were injured when their rig tipped over on the south slope of 4,233-foot Cahton Peak.

The lightning-caused blaze in Plumas National Forest burned 17 million board feet of timber, a spokesman said.

Fire boss Howard Hawkins predicted complete "control by mid-morning Saturday."

About 600 men, backed by seven air tanker and three helicopters, were fighting the fire.

Wage Board Cuts New Plumber Pact

About 150 plumbers in Marin County learned this week that their recently negotiated 84-cent per hour wage hike has been cut to 25 cents by the federal government's Construction Industry Stabilization Committee.

The contract, which covers plumbers in San Francisco, Sonoma and Mendocino counties, as well as Marin, was negotiated in April between Plumbers Local 38 and three plumbing contractors associations.

The wage board ruled that the plumbers' pay and fringe-benefit package should be cut from $12.91 to $12.32 per hour.

The decision —reported in a letter dated Aug. 7 — was reached after the board heard testimony in Washington, D.C. last month from the executive manager of the Plumbing, Heating and Cooling Contractors of Marin, Sonoma and Mendocino Counties and the plumbers union's national president.

The originalcontract between the plumbers and contractors called for an 84-cent per hour pay hike, including an increase of 50 cents on the hourly wage; eight cents for health and welfare; nine cents for pensions; five cents for holidays and vacations; six cents to apprenticeships and six cents in other benefits.

A spokesman said he plans to seek a rehearing before the wage bgard.

According to White, the contractors and plumbers will now begin distributing the 25 cents per hour increase permitted by the wage board between wages and fringe benefits.

Bedroom Tax Hike Sought By Panel

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission last night recommended that the city council more than double the city's "bedroom tax" on future construction of dwellings.

The commission said that the tax should be hiked from $30 to $75 per bedroom and that the $60 tax per mobile home unit also be increased to $75.

All bedroom tax funds are used for public recreational facilities, according to Andrew J. Snyder, recreation director. He said that the tax insures that new residents pay a fair share of the cost of city services.

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission also:

PAY RAISE — Reaffirmed the policy of granting part-time recreational personnel a 10-cent per hour raise after 300 hours of service.

APPOINTMENTS — Announced that the terms of commissioners Robert Schoen, Norma Wall and Fred E. Jensen will expire in October.

GOLDENAIRES — Announced that a $1,000 grant by the Bank of Marin had brought the senior citizens' Goldenaires building fund to $10,000.

BOYD MUSEUM — Rejected a request by the Boyd Natural Science Museum that an unused $2,500 grant be carried over to the new fiscal year.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Sept. 14.

Labor Union Chief Robbed Near Home

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The president of the San Francisco Building Service Employes Union was beaten and robbed outside his home early today.

Herman M. Eimers, 61, president of the union's Local 87, told police three men jumped out of a car as he returned home from a meeting, knocked him to the sidewalk and escaped with several dollars and a wristwatch.

Board Asks New Waste Standard In Contra Costa

OAKLAND (UPI) —The San Francisco Regional Water Quality Board has proposed stringent new requirements for six refineries and four chemical plants in Contra Costa County.

But industry officials claimed the effort to upgrade waste water discharges could cost millions of dollars.

A Standard Oil of California executive said a $25 million system at its Richmond refinery might have to be scrapped if the proposals are adopted.

The board does not plan a definitive order at least until its Sept. 26 meeting. The delay will give interested parties further chance to comment.

Fred Dierker, the board's executive officer, said new requirements are needed because of schedules agreed upon by the State Water Board and federal agencies.

The board also issued a ban Thursday on sewer connections in San Bruno and South San Francisco for new or expanded industry.

Measles Law Signed In Illinois

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (UPI)— Brides-to-be must take a test for German measles after October 1 in Illinois.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie Thursday signed into law a measure requiring the test before wedding licenses are issued to prospective brides.

If a woman is found susceptible to the disease—also known as rubella—the state can urge her to be immunized but it can't call off her wedding.

If, however, a bride can't produce a physician's affidavit showing she underwent the test for German measles, the county clerk will refuse to give her a wedding license.

$268,000 Budget For Bolinas-Stinson Schools

A $268,754 budget for 1972-73 was adopted last night by Bolinas-Stinson School District trustees.

Trustee John Harris said the spending plan is $16,512 less than last week's figure and will leave unchanged the district's total tax rate of $2.13 per $100 assessed valuation. Harris noted the district has lost nearly $1 million worth of property from its tax rolls to Point Reyes National Seashore.

He said the board agreed last night to restore the positions of three teachers' aides eliminated for budget reasons during earlier budget sessions and to add a part-time clerk for the fall semester.

The spending program includes: administration, $16,150; instruction, $150,182; plant operation, $19,000; plant maintenance, $10,348; fixed charges, $24,000 and capital outlay, $12,426.

The capital expenditures include payment on the three-quarter acre Bourne property adjacent to Bolinas School and minor improvements to site and buildings.

The board accepted the resignation of teacher Curtis Spurlin, who had taught fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

The New King Of Scofflaws

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Charles Fragapane, 46, has abdicated as king of the scofflaws. Long live Tillman K. Saylor.

Fragapane appeared before Chief Magistrate Robert E. Dauer Wednesday and asked for more time to raise $1,640 in fines on 110 parking tickets. He was granted an extension to Aug. 25.

In the next case, Saylor, 23, came before the magistrate and paid a $1,911 fine for 154 parking tickets.

Nixon Spending Program Given To The House

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said today federal spending "is spelled t-a-x-es" and that when it is not held in check, higher taxes is the penalty.

Shultz said that President Nixon is seeking to put a $250 billion ceiling on federal spending because he wants to hold taxes down.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, together with 129 other Republican congressmen, introduced in the House Thursday Nixon's spending-limit proposal.

The President originally proposed to spend some $246 billion this fiscal year. But budget advisers have told him that outlays were rising so fast — partly because of congressional appropriations —that they likely would go far above that level without a ceiling.

Descendants Of Tyler In Capitol

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A group of descendants of President John Tyler toured the White House today and got a special greeting from Mrs. Richard M. Nixon.

Among those taking the tour and meeting with the First Lady in the Map Room were Lyn Gardner Tyler II, grandson of the 10th President, and his wife, as well as great grandson David Gardner III and his wife.

A great granddaughter, Susan Tyler, and great, great grandsons David Gardner IV and Watt Gardner, were also present.

Mrs. Nixon planned to go to Camp David, Md., later today with the President for the weekend. Also going along will be their daughter and son-in-law, Tricia and Edward Finch Cox.

School Discussion

San Anselmo School District staff and parents of Yolansdale School children will meet at 7:30 p.m. today at the Gary Sebring residence, 1306 San Anselmo Avenue, to discuss recent staff and curriculum changes at the school, Frank R. Elliott, district superintendent said.

Irregularities Charged In Program

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Irregularities, including mismanagement of funds, have been discovered in a federally funded program for Mexican-Americans at Sacramento State University, it was reported today.

The Sacramento Union reported that accounts of the irregularities are contained in a previously unpublicized report, now nearly five months old, on SSU's project set up to train teachers to work with Mexican-American children.

Meanwhile, both the chancellor and the Board of Trustees of the California State University and Colleges have begun reviews of the Mexican American Education Project at SSU, an official of the 19-campus system said Thursday. He said the review was started three weeks ago.

The report on the project was prepared by Eugene E. Morris, director of the SSU Foundation, a campus-community agency that administers outside funds received by the university.

Under the project, 56 undergraduate students reported to be working toward teaching credentials have been brought to the campus. They are paid, tax free, $230 a month plus $40 for each dependent.

"One individual has his stipend delivered to the county or city jail while he was reported to have satisfactorily met program requirements," Morris' report said.

"Two other individuals went to Cuba to 'pursue their studies' after receiving the monthly stipend. Both students were dropped from the stipend during their visit to Cuba, but one was placed back on the stipend upon his return."

The report made these comments on some of the uses of what amounts to $1.5 million in federal funds in the project:

—During the summer of 1971, nine students receiving stipends of up to $700 each during July for attending project activities and classes fulltime were employed fulltime in out-of-town locations. The employment was through the Butte County Superintendent of Schools Mini-Corps Project on federal funds.

—Inquiries from the Sacramento County Welfare Department indicate some individuals being paid those amounts in the project had requested welfare for themselves and their families.

—Students have been permitted to drop classes within the last week of instruction but still receive 100 per cent stipend. Other students have been permitted to enroll in classes and receive retroactive stipends.

— There is "documented evidence" that instructors have been absent for extensive periods without filing for absence with the college.

—Partly from project funds, "one speaker received in excess of $1,000 for four hours of discussion." While not identified in the report, the newspaper said the speaker was farm labor organizer Cesar Chavez.

Darrell J. Inabnit, administrative vice president of SSU, said that since the irregularities were discovered, control of the project has been tightened.

"The flexible days are over," he said. "Everything's been tightened up."

UBAC Representation May Be Expanded

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The United Bay Area Crusade board has been advised to reduce the size of its governing bodies while expanding representation to include consumers.

The recommendations, which will be voted on by the board before the end of the year, were presented Wednesday by the crusade's technical assistance committee, composed of representatives from crusade-supported agencies, minority organizations and disadvantaged citizens, and crusade donors.

The committee proposed that a Bay Area-wide nominating committee name a 165-member board of trustees, which in turn would elect a 24-member board of directors with 10 additional appointees.

Currently, the crusade membership, composed of all persons who have donated $1 or more in the previous campaign, elects at the annual meeting a 550-member board of trustees which in turn elects a 30-member board of directors with 40 additional appointees.

The committee plan suggests that the 165-member board of trustees be composed of 85 donor representatives and 30 consumer representatives based on recommendations made by each of these three groups.

The present 550-member board of trustees is composed of 135 county trustees based on population ratio, trustees representing each of the some 200 crusade-sup ported agencies plus about 200 trustees elected at large.

The committee recommends the board of trustees elect 24 of its own members to serve as directors, plus 10 additional directors who are standing committee chairmen, for a total of 34 directors.

At present, 70 directors consist of 30 members at large elected by the trustees, plus officers, standing committee chairmen, the chairman and vice chairman of each of the five county boards of trustees and 10 representatives appointed by and to the Bay Area Social Planning Council.

Crusade president Peter E. Haas of Kentfield said the board will vote on the commit tee's report before the end of the year. In the interim, an ad hoc committee will discuss the new governance plan with various crusade groups.

Board Gets Flack OVER Sign Law

The Cotati Planning Commission last night heard businessmen complain about restrictions in the proposed sign ordinance.

The ordinance is based on the sign ordinance used in Carmel, stresses use of natural materials and encourages soft lighting for signs.

Businessmen complained that the three-month conversion period to make signs comply with the ordinance would not be long enough and asked that it be lengthened.

Commission Secretary Donna Olsen said real estate salesmen also complained about the provision that temporary signs must be approved by the city council and said time would be wasted before "for sale" signs could be put up. They also asked that restrictions on size of signs be loosened.

The commission said it would meet with the city council to discuss the objections after the next planning commission meeting on Aug. 24.

In other business, the commission set an Aug. 24 public hearing for the proposed tree ordinance. It would require that plans for developments include what trees must be removed and encourages developers to replant or replace lost trees.

211 Million Bottles And Jars Recycled

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 211 million used glass containers have been reclaimed and recycled into new bottles and jars during the first three months of 1972, it is reported by the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute.

This compares with 96 million bottles and jars collected by the public in the January-March quarter of 1971.

Tax Rise Seen In New Ross Budget

A tentative budget for the 1972-73 fiscal year of $330,542 was approved with little comment last night by Ross Town Council.

It was the first time the full council had met to review the spending program, which was recommended by the panel's finance committee.

The budget, if adopted at a special meeting next Thursday, will require a 17-cent increase in the town tax rate from $1.66 per $100 assessed valuation to $1.83. It is an increase of $126,196 from the 1971-72 budget, including $15,000 for town hall improvements, $5,500 for consultant work to bring the community master plan into compliance with new state planning laws, and $4,500 for legal work arising from the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

Town hall improvements will include exp ansion of police headquarters and the town clerk's office.

Councilman John H. Chase, finance committee chairman, said that in past years the town had been "blessed" with increases in assessed valuation of up to 25 per cent that offset increased expenses, but that the boost for this fiscal year was expected to be less than 2 per cent.

The spending program also includes 5 per cent cost-of-living pay increases for all employees, and 5 per cent merit boosts for most.

The council took no action on requests for a $1,200 to $1,500 increase for recreation programs being drawn by the town's new recreation advisory board and for an arrangement with San Anselmo to use its streetsweeper in the Winship Park area. Mayor Frederick S. Allen said the council has not received word from the recreation advisory group on its needs, while noting that a study of consolidation of governmental services in Ross Valley made the streetsweeper plan shortsighted at this point.

The Ross Town Council also:

FIRE DEPARTMENT — Gave a vote of confidence to the town fire department in the face of a barrage of complaints by C. J. Bradley of 3 Madera Avenue about alleged fire hazards in the Winship Park area. Bradley failed to appear last night, or at a recent meeting of town officials called to discuss his complaints. A state fire marshall has toured the area, with his report expected soon.

U-TURNS — By emergency ordinance, banned U-turns at Shady Lane and Lagunitas Road. The council approved a resolution with the same intent at its last meeting, but found an ordinance was needed.

HOMES — Conditionally gave architect Van Norden Logan permission to construct a house on a lot having a slope in excess of 30 per cent at 261 Woodhaven Road; conditionally awarded a use permit to Logan to renovate a barn on Fernhill Avenue for office use; denied variances for building expansion sought by Albert and Norma-Jean Bordalempe at Lagunitas Road and Willow Avenue and by Owen L. Jones at 36 Shady Lane.

Bill Planned To Ban Smog Unit Tampering

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — A bill to prohibit tampering with automobile pollution control devices will be introduced Monday in the House of Representatives by Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, and about a dozen coauthors.

The bill amends the Clean Air Act to extend the prohibition to all individuals, including car owners, independent mechanics and tune-up specialists.

Present law forbids tampering with the devices by any person before the sale and delivery of vehicles to purchasers, and also prohibits manufacturers and dealers from tampering with them after sale.

Milliard said the loophole had permitted "the increasingly widespread practice of removing emission control devices from automobiles." He cited increased sales in kits to modify auto distributors which previously have been adjusted to control emissions.

San Pedro Road Work To Cut Traffic Lane

Traffic on South San Pedro Road in San Rafael betwen Bayview Street and Main Drive will be restricted to one lane only for the next month because of road widening work there.

Ghilotti Brothers Construction Co. is widening a stretch of the roadway from Lochinvar Road to Peacock Gap from two lanes to four lanes, a project which began last May and will be completed in late 1973.

Nixon Gains On Drive To Curb Busing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Anti-busing forces are rallying around an administration bill that would ban cross-town busing of elementary school children and sharply restrict transporting of students in general.

The House Rules Committee, on a 10-5 vote Thursday, cleared President Nixon's so-called "guidelines" bill for a floor vote on Aug. 17, one day before Congress recesses for the Republican National Convention that gets under way the following Monday.

The bill would set guidelines courts must follow in issuing school desegregation orders, with busing as a last resort. Pupils in the sixth grade and below could not be bused, under any circumstances, past their second nearest school.

The measure would also earmark $500 million a year for two years to improve educational opportunities in inferior schools, concentrating mainly on big city ghetto areas. The money would come from the $1 billion a year already authorized by law, but not yet appropriated, to help schools pay the costs of desegregation.

Secretary Elliot L. Richardson of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare immediately praised the action and said the administration would work to restore a provision that would allow schools now operating under desegregation orders to reopen those orders and make them conform with the new guidelines.

The reopening clause, stricken from the Nixon bill in the Education and Labor Committee on a 19-16 vote, is needed to maintain southern support for the measure.

Married Students Take Longer

MUNICH (UPI) —Married students take longer to graduate from university than single ones.

So says an analysis by the Bavarian State Statistics Bureau, which determined single students graduated after an average of 5.3 years. But married students without children required an average 5.6 years and married students with children needed 5.7 years before final exams.

Nixon Gets Twin Victory In House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon has scored twin victories in the House for his Vietnam policy and military aid program. But neither is yet out of the congressional woods.

Members approved a $2.1 billion arms authorization Thursday after a coalition of Republicans and dissident Democrats rolled back a drive by doves to retain an antiwar provision in the bill.

By a vote of 228 to 118 the House deleted from the measure an amendment by Reps. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., and Charles Whalen, R-Ohio, that had been added by the Foreign Affairs Committee.

The section would have directed the President to cease all military operations in Indochina and pull all U.S. forces out of the area by Oct. 1, conditioned only upon a release of prisoners, an accounting of the missing and a limited cease-fire to accomplish a safe withdrawal.

With the antiwar issue disposed of, administration supporters felt free to pass the aid bill. It carries nearly $1 billion in military assistance for South Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos and Thailand to wage the Indochina war. The bill also contained $350 million in aid for Israel, most of it in the form of long term credits with which to buy American weapons.

The funds for the U.S. allies in Southeast Asia as well as money for South Korea, Greece and Turkey is not so secure. The Senate last month killed a $1.7 billion version of the military aid bill when long time opponents of military assistance teamed up with conservatives who were angered by a Senate decision to include an amendment cutting off funds for U.S. forces in Indochina within four months, subject to a return of the prisoners.

The House bill now goes to the Senate where administration supporters hope that some way or another will be found to revive the subject. If not, they will try to continue the military aid program through what is known as a continuing resolution, a device for sustaining federal programs for which Congress has not yet completed funding.

But Senate doves are likely to balk at that procedure, especially if it is to be used to cover any length of time.

Romney Attacks Shapp Over Demonstration

SCRANTON, Pa. (UPI)—U. S. Housing Secretary George Romney said Thursday Gov. Milton J. Shapp was a "destructive and disruptive" influence on federal flood operations in Pennsylvania.

He offered as proof a demonstration by local flood victims which he said was "staged" by the Democratic governor and his supporters.

Romney was sent to the flood-ravaged Wilkes-Barre, Pa., area to help cut the red tape which residents complained prevented them from finding temporary housing.

He clashed with Shapp and became involved in a shouting exchange with flood victims Wednesday upon announcing the federal government would not finance mortgages on property destroyed by the floods from Tropical Storm Agnes in June.

Shapp said he was "diametrically opposed" to the decision. He said the federal government should assume all water-logged mortgages. Romney accused Shapp of "political demagoguery" because he knew Congress could not allow it.

Romney accused Shapp of helping plan the confrontation Wednesday with a group of flood victims led by Mrs. Min Matheson.

The citizens interrupted a news conference and shouted and cursed at Romney about federal red tape in finding temporary housing.

Romney said Mrs. Matheson was a "professional agitator and organizer who worked actively on behalf of Gov. Shapp in his previous political campaign."

Shapp said he met the 63-year- old retired union official three weeks ago.

"Ironically," he said, "she was picketing me. She felt I was not doing enough for people living in the south side of Wilkes-Barre."

Mrs. Matheson, contacted at a motel where she has been living since the flood, said she had met the governor for the first time three weeks ago.

She said she had moved to Wilkes-Barre six months ago after she retired from a national post with the International Ladies Garment Workers Union.

"When Mr. Shapp ran for the first time in 1966 and the second time in 1970, I didn't even live in Pennsylvania. I was in New York. I had nothing to do with his defeat or election."

She also denied a charge by Romney that she is a McGovern campaign worker.

Planning Board Approves Units

The Rohnert Park Planning Commission last night approved the architectural design of four four-unit apartment buildings to be built on Country Club Drive.

Commission Secretary Sandra Nelson said the commission was pleased with extensive landscaping as proposed by Patrick Taylor and Olaf Gross. She said plans include a large amount of planting on the portion of the property that will eventually face the city's planned civic center.

The commission also granted the request of Robert E. Maves to operate a furniture reupholstering business from his home at 700 Liberty Court.

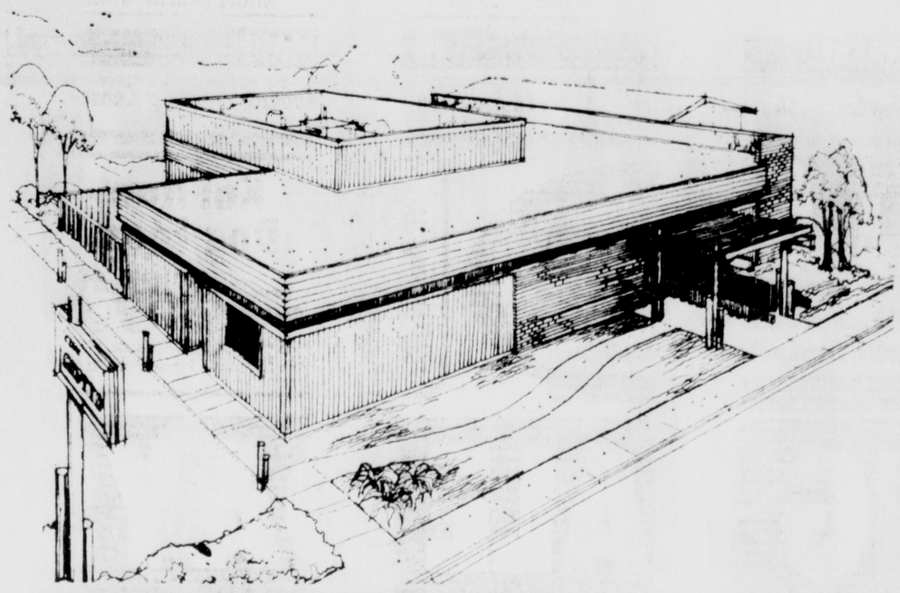
Marin Dining And Wining



NEW RESTAURANT PLANNED — Approval will be sought this month for the Grotto's new seafood dinery to be located on Tamalpais Avenue where it serves as the west frontage road Highway 101 near Northgate. Plans are by Hageman-Eklund, Inc. Construction will be by Eugene McGillicuddy.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

New Grotto Site Is Seeking Approval Of County Planners

If approved by Marin County planners, Stan and Ursula Valan, owners of the Grotto restaurant in San Rafael, should have this thriving seafood business in a new location by the first of next year.

They have focused their eyes on an off-highway spot near Northgate to erect a new building designed by Hageman-Eklund, Inc. and to be constructed by Eugene McGillicuddy.

The chosen location is on Tamalpais Avenue (the service road at the west side of Highway 101) close to the new R.B. furniture store. Situated on a half-acre plot, the restaurant will be modern in every respect with more adequate seating and offstreet parking for all comers.

It would represent a major change for the Valans, who have been at 909 Lincoln Avenue for nearly five years. But the Grotto has been one of San Rafael's busiest little downtown restaurants during that time. And the Northgate area has been expanding in every direction with consequent demand for more eating establishments nearby.

No construction can begin, of course, until all the preliminary details are settled and planning commission approval is received. If all this shapes up, Stan and Ursula will continue on Lincoln Avenue until the last moment, which is expected to be early in 1973.

And Ursula will continue to explore all the ways of serving new fish dishes and look for new ideas in cocktail lounge hors d'oeuvres. (Her latest offering in the latter category is some delicious smoked salmon).

SAN RAFAEL does treat its enterprising restaurateurs kindly — I mean those operators who not only choose a favorable location, but give value received in food and service, with that little additional something which tempts customers to come back for more.

A favorable location can often be a sleeper spot which may not seem to possess any of the necessary qualifications for a successful restaurant.

Take McKee's — also on Lincoln Avenue, but far removed from the downtown area. About 10 years ago Jim and Jean McKee saw possibilities in what was then known as the Lincoln Avenue extension in the fast growing industrial section.

True, it had a lot of wide open space — but that was misleading. It also had a mid-day population of working people in automotive service, small factories and similar projects, who had no nearby place to eat.

The McKees stepped in with a bar and hofbrau operation that immediately attracted customers from the neighborhood. And it wasn't long before customers began to move in from more distant areas for lunch and then for dinners. Many wore neckties instead of jumpers.

The food was good then, and still is. This is quite a nice little place where you sidle up to the counter with a tray before an array of roast beef, ham, turkey, pastrami, salads and other accessories and choose your own combination. It's a fascinating way of selecting a meal that goes back to the days of the cafeterias and Americans love it.

Now, McKee's has an additional attraction for diners from 4 to 10 p.m. — choosing their own steaks before they are cooked. Top sirloins go for $2.25 and rib eyes for $2.95 — nice tender meat, fortified with onion rings, French fries or baked beans, green salad and hot rolls. If you are a steak man you should definitely not pass this by.

On the other hand, if you get all the steaks you want at home and other items have more appeal, try either the specials of the day or maybe the corned beef or the roasts. And don't be surprised if you meet someone there you know who tells you, "Why sure — I eat here all the time."

WHILE WE ARE on the subject of Lincoln Avenue eating places, watch for the opening of the Jess Coleman Restaurant and Recreation Center at the southwest corner of Lincoln and Third Street. Exact opening date hasn't been specified, but the inside work is nearly complete and a private party held there this week indicates that its introduction to the public isn't far off.

This will be the combined operation of Jess Coleman, who has the Charcoal Pit in Kentfield, and Don De Surville, who has Town and Country Billiards in that same community. These same names will be featured here.

Their San Rafel project is in the former National Parts Co. building which is quite spacious and well suited to the combined billiards and food idea. It is intended as a family-type place, where all members can come for an evening of entertainment and dining at a nominal cost. However, it will be open for lunches, dinners and snacks from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. seven days a week — later on Friday and Saturday nights.

Dan Pfennig was the interior designer. And Jess and Don did the hand hewn work on tables, bar and counter. Tiffany-type lamps, lush carpeting and a few other clever touches add to the decor.

There are 16 tables for those handy with a cue or anxious to improve their skill.

A charcoal broiler will turn out rib-eye steaks and burgers. One of the food innovations will be onion rings sold by the foot — measured by the height they will stack when impaled on a stick. Wines and beers will be sold and a raised bar and cocktail area overlooks the billiards section.

LIKE GARLIC for flavoring? But not too strong?

Then plant the clove instead of chopping it up for your food. Point it end up in a small pot and keep the soil moist. It will sprout in a few days and send up a slender green stalk. Chop this up for salads or minced butter for garlic bread. Each clove is good for three or four trimmings — more than the original mileage.

AT THE LION'S SHARE in San Anselmo, Country Joe McDonald and Steamin' Freeman will be featured for entertainment tonight through Sunday.

THE NEW DINNER MENU at Pier 15 in East San Rafael is finding great favor. It's a more extensive menu than it used to be and includes such dishes as veal scallopini, chicken burgundy, chicken chablis, New York steaks, top sirloins and pepper steaks, lamb shish kabob, beef brochettes and sea foods (scrampi is a good choice here).

And the dinner sandwiches are still going strong.

WHY ARE ROSE WINES in clear bottles and other wines not?

The reason is that most vintners like to show off the color. And rose wines should be, and generally much, consumed before too much aging. Colored bottles are intended to filter out the light from wines that are meant to age longer.

More U.S. Food Due For Bangladesh Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States will send an additional 150,000 tons of wheat and 25,000 tons of edible oil to Bangladesh, the State Department said Thursday.

A department spokesman said the foodstuffs were valued at $19.2 million and would bring U.S. contributions to Bangladesh relief to $286.4 million. The wheat and oil would feed about 2.7 million Bengalis for about four months, the spokesman said.

Inverness Festival Will Open Tomorrow

The eighth annual Inverness Music Festival under the direction of Sandor Salgo will open tomorrow at St. Columba's Church and Amphitheater overlooking Tomales Bay.

Major attraction in the two-weekend festival featuring the music of Mozart will be the opera "The Magic Flute," semi-staged in English with piano accompaniment.

Opening event tomorrow at 3 p.m. in the amphitheater will be a Mozart Concert by the Festival orchestra conducted by Salgo. Performed will be the overture to "abduction from the Seraglio" and "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik"; the Concerto in D Minor for Piano and Orchestra with virtuoso pianist Julian White as soloist; and the Symphony in E Flat Major, No. 39, K 543.

Tomorrow night white will present an all-Mozart recital at 8 p.m. in St. Columba's Church. He will play the Sonata in C Major, K 309, Sonata in B Flat Major, K 333 and Fantasy and Sonata, K 475, K 457. This concert is sold out.

Sunday "The Magic Flute" will be presented in the Amphitheater at 3 p.m. It will be repeated at the same time and place on Sunday, Aug. 20. Among Marin singers featured in the cast are sopranos Gwen Curatilo and Margot Power.

The Marin Civic Ballet under direction of Leona Norman will perform on Saturday, Aug. 19, at 3 p.m. in the amphitheater. The program includes a "warm-up" ballet to music of Mozart: "Pas de Quatre" and "Paquita."

The evening concert on the same date will be a Harpsichord recital presented by Margaret Fabrizio at 8 o'clock in the church. She will play Sonata in G Major, K 283, Mozart: Sonata in A Major, C.P.E. Marsh Purchase Fund Launched

The Greenbrae Improvement Club last night seeded the Heerdt Marsh Acquisition Fund with $2,000.

The Marin Conservation League established the fund to purchase the marsh on the south shore of the mouth of Corte Madera Creek as open space, according to Edith Witt, club secretary.

She said that a slide presentation on the marsh was available to groups interested in aiding the marsh preservation campaign.

Hub Rec Panel Denies Landscape Fund Waste

Charges by a landscape architect that San Anselmo has wasted thousands of dollars by removing plants from two downtown areas have been denied by the city's parks and recreation commission.

The commission, which toured downtown planting beds before its Wednesday meeting, declared that plant removal from beds near the Cheda boardwalk and across from the Tamalpais Theater was justified as preventive maintenance, according to Gary Hall, parks director.

The landscape architect, William L. Kapranos, had charged that removal of plants in the two areas was "needless destruction of adequate, healthy existing plantings," according to Howell.

He said his department had removed about $100 worth of plants, shrubs and trees from the beds because of disease and overcrowding.

Kapranos, who designed the city's master landscape plan six years ago, has estimated the cost of replacing plants removed from the beds at $3,960.

"We have no quarrel with his landscaping but we just don't know where he's getting his figures," Howell said, adding that the commission nevertheless welcomed the architect's advice and invited him to the Sept. 6 meeting.

The San Anselmo Parks and Recreation Commission also:

CARRIAGE HOUSE — Recommended that the city council approve an already budgeted expenditure of $2,116 for refurbishing the Carriage house in Robson-Harrington Park. Work scheduled includes floor refinishing, lighting and window repairs and repainting.

TENNIS COURT — Recommended that $3,900 owed to the firm of Mallott, Peterson-Grundy for work on the Memorial Park tennis court be place in escrow until the firm repaints the facility and repairs grooves and soggy asphalt areas, according to Howell.

RULES — Put over consideration of rules and regulations for the city tennis courts until the Sept. 6 meeting.

PING PONG — Turned down a request by David DeMoss for use of the Robson Carriage House as the site of a proposed 55-hour Ping Pong marathon because the facility is scheduled for repair.

ADJOURNAMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Sept. 6.

'Head Tax' Is Banned By Bill

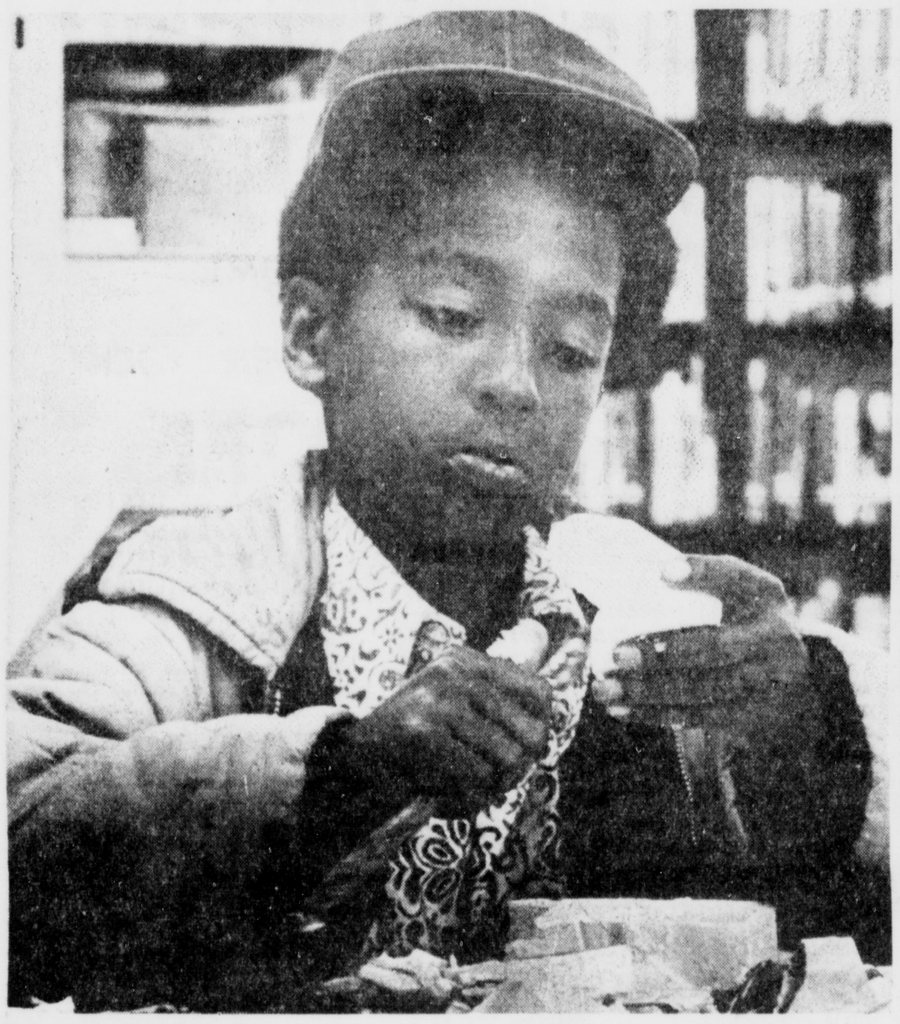
YOUNG ARTISTS AT WORK

Youngsters sprawl over the floor of the Marin City Library as they are given soap sculpturing lessons from Nelson Crutchfield, Mill Valley sculptor. Bars of soap, dull knives and imagination combine to make an assortment of artistic creations. There were ducks, guitars, faces and a jack-o-lantern as forty youngsters listened, carved and then took home their soap masterpieces.

(Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)



LOVE THAT SOAP — Derrick Hunt, 11, of Marin City carefully carves a bar of soap. He and about 40 other youngsters learned that soap can be more than something to wash with at a soap sculpture workshop at the Marin City Library. The workshop was one of the summer programs sponsored by the children's division of the Marin County Library System.

Governor Inks Two Behr BCDC-Related Measures

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Two bills sought by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission have been signed into law by Gov. onald Reagan.

One, SB 181, permits county supervisors serving on the commission to appoint any county official as an alternate. The present requirement that only supervisors may represent counties has resulted in low attendance at meetings and delays of commission actions.

The other bill, SB 793, extends the commission's jurisdiction up Corte Madera Creek to the Ross-Kentfield line. Its jurisdiction now ends at Highway 101, exempting from its controls creek property subject to development.

Both bills were introduced by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael. They will become effective by the end of March 1973.

Santa Rosan Injured

Good Report Is Given Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Herbert Stein, chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, told Nixon Thursday "the economy has behaved well" during the past year of administration wage and price controls.

Stein and other members of the Cost of Living Council conferred with Nixon for 90 minutes on the economic situation, including inflation and the current unemployment level of 5.5 per cent.

Stein told Nixon that "there is no question, when you look at all the figures in the last year, the economy has behaved well," Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters following the meeting.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Separate Bus Lanes May Be Coming Soon

Separate bus lanes on Highway 101 figure largely in the "phase two" report on plans for a "balanced transportation system" in Marin.

County planners who developed the report figure that a much-expanded bus fleet, using such reserved lanes, could carry half the Marin-San Francisco commute traffic with Marin population expanded to 285,000 by 1990.

The planners may be banking too heavily on use of buses and ferries in this projection. But it appears certain that use of buses can be increased if exclusive highway lanes are set apart for them.

And that should not wait until 1990, or 1980, or even 1975. It should be started now.

IT MAY BE, very soon. In fact, the Golden Gate Bridge District plans to start a limited trial of exclusive bus lanes next month.

The plan is to close two southbound lanes to automobiles and trucks during the evening commute hours, between the Golden Gate and Richardson Bay bridges. One of these would become a northbound lane for buses, with the other kept empty as a safety precaution.

The effect would be similar to that on the bridge itself, where barrier cones are moved to create an extra lane northbound for the evening commute and southbound for the morning commute. The initial bus-lane-only trial will be only during the evening commute, however, according to Dale W. Luehring, bridge district manager.

This is only a temporary device, to test how the system works. But if it works as expected, the bridge district will be lobbying for highway widening to permit exclusive bus lanes.

THE EXPECTED RESULT, of course, is faster time for the buses. And when they roll faster, they can be expected to attract more customers.

Actually, the bridge district's buses don't need any more commute customers. In fact, the district needs more buses to handle the commuters who already patronize it. But if faster buses result in more patronage, the increase in the bus fleet will follow. And with more commuters riding the buses, those driving their own cars will be able to make better time, too.

We doubt that this will prove the final solution to the Marin-San Francisco transportation problem. We think the county planners were remiss in not making more study of rail transit as compared with bus-ferry transit. Meantime, however — long before 1990 — exclusive bus lanes may provide a partial solution.

The Golden Gate Bridge District is to be commended for going ahead on a trial of this system — even on such a limited basis as that which is to start next month.

Right To Choose Funeral Almost Denied Californians

By RUS WALTON

Talk about the living end!

For awhile, last week, it appeared as though state government was about to join with "certified" funeral directors to tell you how you would bury your loved ones, and how much you would spend. It still may do just that.

SB 616 was carried by State Sen. Jack Schrade, R-San Diego. It was authored by Daniel Creedon, powerful lobbyist who represents the California Funeral Directors (and the Clifornia Brewers).

The bill was aimed at putting memorial societies out of business or into more expensive overhead. Its effect would have been to promote more costly funerals whether a family had the money or not, and whether the family wanted to spend the money or not.

About 50,000 Californians belong to memorial societies. The principal attraction of such a membership is that it helps reduce the cost of funeral and burial expenses.

THE SPECIFIC TARGET of Schrade's bill was the Telophase Society of San Diego. Individuals who do not care to have an expensive funeral can join the society for $15. When their time has come to depart this tired old globe, Telophase handles the burial details for a flat $250.

Telophase cremates the remains and distributes the ashes far out on the blue Pacific.

This may offend you; it may violate your religious beliefs. There are many who find solace in the frills of flowers and organ music, many who prefer the bronze casket, the long black hearse and the cemetery lot with marble monument and perpetual care.

That, of course, is their privilege. And funeral directors are glad to oblige. Special "package services" can run anywhere from $1,000 up.

But there are many who want only a simple burial; many who cannot afford or do not wish to spend money for a more lavish ceremony; many who do not believe that reverence, or love, must be equated with economics. For them, organizations such as Telophase perform a real service.

THE STATE BOARD of Funeral Directors and Embalmers, which is dominated by the "industry", pushed for passage of the Schrade bill. Its spokesman said the board was concerned about public health. Dr. Tom Weber, president of Telophase, produced a telegram from the San Diego County health office giving Telophase a clean bill.

Schrade's bill passed the Senate 25-0. It also passed the Assembly. But Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, called for reconsideration and waited three days to call for a second vote.

During those days, legislators were flodded with letters from irate citizens. Some legislators —who preach freedom of choice but who in this case voted for restriction of choice —suddenly found the courage of their constituents' convictions. (It is interesting to note that on the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, only three "liberal" Democrats defended the individual's right to go the memorial society route.)

When Sieroty did call for a vote on reconsideration of SB 616, defeat of the funeral directors' bill was assured.

ASSEMBLYMAN ROBERT Badham, R-Newport Beach, carried SB 616 in the lower house. Badham short-stopped its defeat by placing it on the inactive file. It will be considered when the Legislature convenes after the November election. That's when a politician is least susceptible to public pressure. I mean, once the lease is renewed for another two or four years, what's a voter?

Whoever gave government the right to use its power to help some special interest group erect private preserves or memorial cemeteries? Whoever said the state had the right to tell you that you must have a funeral which depletes your finances?

Citizens who care would do well to be on guard. The morticians and their lobbyists will be back in November. SB 616 is far from dead.

Punish Criminal; Don't Outlaw Guns

Your editorial of Aug. 1 regarding the restrictive use of handguns has a most familiar ring. Again, there is little or nothing said in regard to the person using them for criminal intent, nor the lack of prosecution when these persons are found to be guilty of these crimes, nor is there much said about laws already in effect regarding the use of such weapons, but as usual you blame the firearm itself, as well as every owner as a whole.

While you so liberally quote the speculations of Professor Zimring, you might also reveal the fact that in states where the most rigid laws regarding the possession of firearms are concerned; in these same states (New York is a splendid example), crimes involving the use of firearms are the highest in the nation.

The person accused of shooting Governor Wallace would never have been able to purchase a handgun if his previous sentence had not been reduced from a felony to a misdemeanor. Before you tell a hunter what firearm he may carry, or the private citizen what he may have in his home, why not emphasize keeping the criminal out of the streets? If you think that legislation denying the law-abiding citizen from possesisng handguns for his pleasure or protection will ever cause the criminal to dispose of his weapon, you really must be dreaming.

Joint Use Forum Proves Eye-Opener

Recently I attended a meeting of the San Marin Homeowners Association, brought together with the intention of discussing the proposed joint military-commercial use of Hamilton Air Field. It certainly was an eye-opener and eyebrow-raiser. I was already aware of such facts as the potential for an increase in noise pollution, an increase in traffic congestion, especially in the Novato area, and the probability that the commercial flights would, if economically feasible, not limit themselves to 40 operations a day. (That would mean 20 take-offs and 20 landings between 7 a.m. and 10 p.m.) Not to mention the question; Do We in Marin REALLY need the "convenience" of a commercial airport in our backyards?

But these things are all pretty self-evident. The more obscure factors brought up were things such as:

Hamilton will allow the commercial use of the landing strip only. That means hangars, terminal facilities, etc., will need to be built. Although this project is nobly planned with only the interests of the public at heart, unfortunately it will require the taxpayer to cover some of the initial costs. Original estimates ranged from 3 to 11 million dollars.

Proponents of the planned joint use also argue that it will broaden the tax base. Has anyone ever seen their taxes go down while the tax base was being broadened?

But, in case the airport runs into financial difficulty operating only commercial passenger flights, there is always the option of running cargo flights to Hamilton and then trucking the shipments out . . .

A pilot for a major airline also added a little excitement to the meeting by bringing up flight paths. The proposed flight path is one in which the aircraft would take off over Novato and swing out over the bay. But as a professional pilot, his opinion was that because of the usual prevailing winds and the already present air congestion out over the bay, pilots would, for the most part, take off over Novato, reaching an altitude of approximately 1,000 feet, and then go across Marin County out to the ocean and proceed from there . . .

It does take about 2 hours to get from the San Francisco Airport to Marin, especially Northern Marin. But isn't it nice to come home to a quiet place? I think that with any imagination, a resident of Marin could easily visualize the potential impact of the proposed joint use of Hamilton . . .

McGovern Cartoon Stoops Too Low

I realize, and appreciate, that many items, editorials, etc. printed in the I-J are subject to repercussions, and this must be taken with a grain of salt and/or expected — no one can please all the people all the time, however, I believe that the political cartoon that appeared in today's paper (Aug. 3) was far below the criterion that you have set up for your publications and your readers feel for the I-J.

I realize that all must make a living with what ever means that are available to a person, but "enough! Enough! f'God's sake . . . turn off the electric shock treatments!" as said in a caricature depicting Senator McGovern, is really digging deep and low to come up with a few dollars. If this is how Hugh Haynie must make his living, I pity him. To earn your money by ridiculing others' painful experiences is, in my opinion, no better nor no worse than the "pushers" who live off the "victims" they have addicted . . .

Novato Challenged On Sign Regulation

I feel that we have arrived at a point in the history of our 12-year-old city that at least one of the excesses of our "planning staff" should be exposed to public view.

I recently received a letter from them which stated, "Failure to comply with the conditions of the sign variances issued to you by July 24, 1972 will constitute grounds for a zoning violation." My reply to that letter was simply, "The only information I have on the subject is pure hearsay." Their response to that letter was a legal-size pink sheet with a big black block lettering "NOTICE OF ZONING VIOLATION" and listing the "PENALTY FOR FAILURE TO COMPLY."

The document has the appearance of an old-fashioned quarantine notice and is intended to scare the uninitiated into immediate compliance. The original of the notice was "served" on my tenant by two separate coteries of the Novato police.

Legal counsel advises me that this procedure is strictly illegal and the ordinance itself unconstitutional. I therefore challenge these young smart-alecks to test their case in a court of law and to quit harassing my tenant forthwith. I will abide by the judgment of the court but will never knuckle under to a gestapo-type directive.

Russian Departure From Egypt Again Shows Reds' Pragmatism

The most interesting thing that happened on the world scene over the last couple of weeks was the manner in which the Russians continued to take Russian troops out of Egypt. They went, not kicking and screaming and tossing back invective, but mildly and under the pretense that it was all happily prearranged.

That there was any prearrangement seems highly doubltful. There is no evidence known in the West that the Russians were either consulted or even informed in advance of the decision by the Egyptian government to reduce the number of Russians in their midst. But the Russians have preferred to try to present the withdrawal as the result of mutual agreement. Just being kicked out is harder to accept. It hurts one's ego.

THIS MAKES the second mess of humble crow the Russians have had to swallow in recent times. Their last previous meal of this delicacy has hardly yet been fully digested. It consisted of having to sit on the sidelines and do nothing effective while Richard Nixon's aircraft dropped mines in the harbor of Haiphong and bombs on the roads and rail lines into North Vietnam from China and so delayed the delivery of Russia's weapons to the hard-pressed armies of Russia's ally in the Vietnam war.

The men of Moscow sit on their hands and make restrained noises of protest at Washington. The noises are far more noteworthy for being restrained than for their vigor. The Kremlin is accepting an attempted military blockade of North Vietnam just as it accepts an order from Egypt's president to get a lot of their troops out of Egypt.

All of which merely helps to draw ever more clearly the picture of the kind of a world we live in now.

IT IS A WORLD in which Russia dare not treat Egypt as it once did Czechoslovakia. There were a lot of Russian troops inside Egypt. Russians manned the missile sites and air bases and the naval facilities. It is a reasonable presumption that if Moscow had given an order, the Russians in Egypt could have taken effective military control of the country.

How long the Russians could have held Egypt is another matter. There is the American presence in the eastern Mediterranean to give encouragement to the Egyptians had they chosen to rise. And there is the recent memory of British efforts to stay on in Egypt longer than they were welcome. In time, they had to go. The important fact is that the Russians, obviously, did not think seriously of attempting to enforce their control over Egypt by force of arms. When told to go they went, as told.

Of course, they went quietly for many reasons. They don't want a confrontation with the United States. They have to remember China at their back door. Russia never liked to get caught in a two-front war, or power struggle. Their east and west frontiers are too open and vulnerable. And the Kremlin, obviously, has decided to go along with Richard Nixon.

They seem to be confident that they can continue to do business with him and that they will have another four years in which to do it. (The manner of their going from Egypt itself confirms this calculation.) Of course, a similar calculation has been made in Peking. That was obvious from the moment they agreed to let Mr. Nixon go to the Imperial City.

LEFT UNCLEAR at this moment is whether the leaders in Hanoi are willing to accept the wisdom of the moment of Peking and Moscow. If they accept the fact that Mr. Nixon is the probable winner in November, they might make peace with him before November. What kind of stuff are they made of? Are they the last remaining true believers in the Communist world, who would rather go on fighting to the bitter end against all the odds?

Or are they on the verge of joining Moscow and Peking in the ranks of the new pragmatists who think it is better to survive and make do than to engage in perpetual struggle?

Shriver Fills McGovern's Needs; Strange He Wasn't Picked Earlier

WASHINGTON — It may seem inconsistent to say a man has a lot of gall suggesting himself for governor of a middle-size state, and then turn around to describe him as an excellent prospect for vice president. But it is not. I say so because that is just where I find myself in the matter of R. Sargent Shriver Jr.

Two years ago, when he was still ambassador to France, Shriver came back to the states to shop around for an outlet for his political ambitions. On that occasion, he thought he might like to be governor of Maryland.

Understand, please, that polictical ambition is no sin, and no disqualifying trait in a candidate for public office. It is the force that drives many men to equip themselves for higher things, to accept sweaty and thankless jobs as a means of accumulating credit with their party or their electorate. The rare politician without ambition usually is worthless, and that small group does not include Shriver.

AS LONG AGO as 1963, less than a month after the death of his brother-in-law John Kennedy, Shriver was being mentioned as a vice-presidential choice the next year for Lyndon Johnson. At that time, he might have been a reasonable selection, although his only important public experience had been two years as director of the Peace Corps. What mainly qualified him was his relation to the Kennedys, and the widespread feeling that some Kennedy tie was essential to Mr. Johnson's success as President.

However, President Johnson did not share that feeling so acutely. He chose Hubert Humphrey for vice president, and Shriver to run his war on poverty. But by 1968, Shriver's name was up in political circles again —this time in Chicago, where Richard J. Daley's friends were talking about him as a Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate seat then held by Everett Dirksen. Nothing ever came of it, but as during the 1964 vice-presidential gossip, Shriver was not going around issuing adamant denials of interest.

The Illinois non-episode made two points about Shriver: his rating among practical political outfits like the Daley organization, and the geographical flexibility he had acquired by being born and raised in Maryland and living and voting in Chicago, and thus being eligible to seek office in either state.

WHILE ROBERT KENNEDY was still letting Eugene McCarthy measure the scale of the anti-Johnson movement in 1968, Shriver accepted appointment as ambassador to France and went off to embellish his Washington bureaucratic background with formal diplomatic experience.

By 1970, Shriver was 54 and serving in a Nixon administration. His future in elective politics was getting to the now-or-never stage. So he came back and tested the climate in Maryland — whether to run in the Democratic primary against incumbent Gov. Marvin Mandel.

That outing was disastrous in concept and embarrassing in execution. Shriver, who maintained a home in the Maryland suburbs of Washington but had no acquaintance with the state's problems, put himself forth to replace a successful governor of his own party. Many Marylanders, myself included, called it preposterous. Fortunately for Shriver, he found Mandel's strength so formidable that he backed out, and as a face-saver undertook a 32-state fund-raising expedition for Democratic congressional candidates.

But he had disclosed the heat of his ambition. Thus when he took a New York law partnership, it was assumed in this town that he was setting himself up to run for something there. That is where he stood when George McGovern became the first presidential candidate to read down the vice-presidential list far enough to reach the name of Shriver.

ONE WONDERS now why it took so long. Bill Moyers once said Shriver "can clothe a liberal idea in the most respectable conservative language. He'll persuade them it's patriotic. He's like the Apostle Paul, 'All things to all men,' when he is interpreting an idea he is selling."

What more could George McGovern ask in a campaigner? Well, you might combine that with a Catholic with broad administrative experience in Washington, board acceptance among professional politicians, more foreign background than the No. 1 man on the ticket, in a man who has paid his party dues with unglamorous fund-raising work. In fact, in this decade of ambition, Shriver has managed to convert his Kennedy inlawship from his main qualification to an incidental addition to the record that makes him the obvious man on any Democratic national ticket.

Even Here In Marin County, Public Officials Seek Psychiatry

Is Sen. Thomas Eagleton the only candidate for public office ever to have had psychiatric treatment?

Not by a long shot! If a random sampling of Marin County psychiatrists is any indication, public officials are as prone to bare their souls during the 50-minute hour as television repairmen or real estate developers or dentists.

Most of the psychiatrists said they thought the experience on the couch might improve the man and the way he performs his duties.

"A LARGE NUMBER of people who seek psychiatric help are above average in competence," one psychiatrist said.

Said another: "I don't possibly see how it could disqualify a person from holding public office. Private industry uses psychiatry to evaluate workers and assist them with personality adjustments."

"Why shouldn't our leaders be fit?" another responded.

All but one of a dozen psychiatrists queried said they had first-hand knowledge, or had heard from colleagues, about public officials — including some from Marin County — who were in therapy.

One doctor was aware of a "clear-cut case." Another said he suspected a "reasonable" number of politicians were being treated in the Bay Area. A third said he knew of "many" now seeing psychiatrists.

One local psychiatrist said he had treated one of Marin County's elected officials.

SENATOR EAGLETON'S disclosure may have unleashed a flood of imitators.

Like the impact of television on electioneering, psychiatry might already have altered the way politicians conduct campaigns and present themselves to the public.

If honesty and candor are the order of the day this election year, what's to prevent an innovative vote seeker from extending the theme, declaring that since he has plumbed his psyche, he's a better choice than his unhappy neurotic opponent?

Like charisma and Kennedy haircuts, psychiatry could become a hot political fad. The day may not be distant when city councils adjourn to encounter sessions and planning commissions reform as T-groups.

Esalen could be booked for years with busloads of supervisors, city attorneys, and public works officials thirsting for insight.

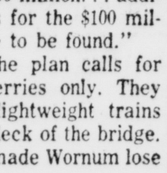
And if the trend continues to 1976, there could be stigma to not having been psychoanalyzed.

The next political scandal could involve a candidate forced out of the running because of a disclosure by columnist Jack Anderson that the man has missed most of his appointments with his doctor.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

'Balanced Transportation' Study Slower Than Commute Traffic



Well, it happened again. They do say that I had a birthday Tuesday — 84. It's been a short year, but I am very grateful to have been around and able to write for you. My memory starts when I was four and I wish there was time to write about those 80 years; a lot of interesting things happened in the world.

Now for tonight — first a correction: I wrote that Supervisor Michael Wornum first voted "no" on a planning matter, then wanted to grant a year extension and finally voted for a six-month extension. It was a personnel matter, not planning. I didn't catch it when I read over my copy.

He did rate a red banner line, though, in Wednesday's I-J. He told county planner Robert Harrison, who handled the transit study Phase II: "You've let the political controversy affect...a technical report...political decision should be left to the board."

That report was a honey. It wonders one as to just how Supervisor Arrigoni will handle a six-lane highway from San Rafael to Fairfax? Sort of seems like that's what he defeated the incumbent supervisor for district 2 with last time around.

IN CHECKING OUT the parks and recreation budget that I promised last week, here are some amounts: The total budget is $1,585,715. As has been stated before in news stories, open space $700,000, then Stafford Lake $40,000, service yard $59,740, tennis and swim center $75,000, trails $100,000 (that really makes open space $800,000).

The more one considers this "balanced transportation" study, clearer and clearer emerges the oldtime depression word — "boondogling." Random House dictionary: "Work of little or no practical value done to keep or look busy."

I am mailing today my check for a copy so that I may study it first-hand. The by-line report by Erik M. Ingram in Tuesday's I-J looks like he covered all the bases in good shape, but there may be times when I will want to use quotes from the report direct.

HERE ARE A FEW excerpts from hisqstory: The study was "authorized during 1968." (Now four years later they are starting on Phase III). Phase I with a population of "786,000 would have an expansion of Highway 101 to three times its present width." (What a foolish waste of time!)

The present Phase II "envisaging a population of 285,000 by 1990 is estimated at over $500 million. Known sources of capital funding may provide a little more than $400 million... additional sources for the $100 million will have to be found."

Basically the plan calls for buses and ferries only. They disregarded lightweight trains on a second deck of the bridge. This is what made Wornum lose his cool.

Fancy getting all the necessary done by 1990 — 17½ years! During the six years ending this fiscal year they have spent $1,724,570. What are their credentials for this type of thing?

Following the first round of the main Red Cross talks, which is ecpected to last four or five days, the second session will be held in Seoul, the South Korean capital, beginning Sept. 13.

Meteor Seen In Western U.S.

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) —A brilliant fireball that streaked across the northwestern United States Thursday was probably a meteor from the asteroid belt.

"It's a piece of debris from a minor, fragmented planet," said Dr. Mark Litman of Salt Lake City's Hansen Planetarium.

He said the object, seen in several western states and Canada, might have been "as large as a desk or a car or even larger." He added it could have landed in central Canada.

New Signs Hinting Wallace Recovery

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)— Gov. George C. Wallace has some feeling in the paralyzed lower portion of his body but his rehabilitation specialist says it's too soon to determine its significance.

Dr. George Traugh, the rehabilitation specialist, also said Thursday Wallace's release from Spain Rehabilitation Center, scheduled for late next week, probably would be delayed by a new abdominal abscess.

Traugh said he confirmed the return of "some sensation" to Wallace's buttocks and thighs while he was with the governor during the weekend.

"It's too early to tell what this means as far as walking again," Traugh said. "All I can say is that for some time now we've been saying that we were just going to have to wait and see if the governor had any return of feeling.

"And now we're seeing some early return of feeling."

About the new abscess, he said, "We want to treat this conservatively, without surgery, if we can. The governor does not have any fever now, and we are going to keep watch on that situation."

Wallace has undergone surgery twice for infection in the abdomen as a result of being shot May 15. One operation was performed in Maryland and one here after his admission July 14.

Traugh and Dr. George Hallenbeck, the surgeon, said the infected area that was operated on here has healed and that the new area was found in recent X-rays.

Sailing Ship Gets Coast Guard Help

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An American-owned sailing ship carrying 56 persons on a pleasure cruise was reported out of danger today. The barkentine had been battered for two days by a hurricane and was taking on water 1,100 miles out in the Pacific.

Coast Guard and Air Force planes Thursday dropped pumps which enabled the crew to drain the barkentine—the Regina Maris.

The 56 persons aboard—all Americans except for the English captain and a Dutch first mate—had stood by in life jackets in case she got into worse difficulties, said Greg Cook, owner of the vessel.

All aboard were "in good shape" and the ship would probably be towed to Panama for repairs, Cook said.

Cook, 27, of Palos Verdes, Calif., said the latest reports from the Coast Guard listed the major problem as a broken tail shaft.

The 144-foot, three-masted barkentine is registered in Malta and owned by Ocean Wide Sailing Co., which Cook said operates the vessel on pleasure cruises from Mexico and Los Angeles to the Polynesian Islands in the South Seas. The Regina Maris was returning from the Polynesian Islands.

Captain Paul Maskell reported that the ship was taking on 2,000 gallons of water an hour.

ABORTION'S EFFECT?

Birth Rate And Welfare Show Marked Decline

By CHARLES McFADDEN

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's liberalized abortion law has resulted in a steep drop in birth rates and a shrinking of welfare rolls, population researchers report.

"There is beginning to be a reduction in the supply of children who become — because of the circumstances of their parents — welfare recipients through government aid to dependent children and foster child programs," Kingsley Davis, chairman of the University of California's International Population and Urban Research Center at Berkeley, said today.

"We probably have the latest data of any state with a liberalized abortion law," Davis added. "I would assume that much the same thing would happen in other states given the same set of circumstances."

The state's Therapeutic Abortions Act, passed in 1967, allows abortions if the mental or physical health of the mother is endangered, or for rape or incest. There were 116,749 legal abortions in California during 1971, says the State Department of Public Health.

The UC center says in a just-issued report that illegitimate pregnancies dropped by 16 per cent in the nation's most populous state between 1970 and 1971 while legitimate births declined by 10 per cent.

Jack Thompson, executive secretary of the state Board of Social Welfare, agrees with Davis' conclusions, based "on tendencies and trends and on the basis of limited knowledge."

Thompson said the board has launched a study to try to pin down exact figures on declines in welfare rolls that can be directly attributed to legalized abortions. Such figures are not available now, he said in an interview.

Davis believes legitimacy affects welfare rolls because the proportion of persons less able to rear children is higher among unmarried than among married parents.

"In every country, the rate of stillbirths, deaths, adoption, dependency, neglect and cruelty is much higher for illegitimate children," he said.

California's abortion law, along with New York's, is considered among the most liberal in the United States.

The number of live births per 1,000 women declined by six per cent nationwide between 1970 and 1971 but there was an 11.6 drop in California during the same period, the report said.

Marin County reflected the drop in overall births as it dropped from 15.3 births per thousand in population (1970) to 13.9 in 1971.

"These and other findings . . . indicate that legal abortion has played, and can continue to play, a significant role in slowing the population growth from both legitimate and illegitimate fertility in this state," the report said.

The study was prepared by Berth Berkov, a public health statistician in the State Department of Public Health, and June Sklar, an assistant research demographer at the UC Center.

Other means of birth control such as contraceptives, tubal ligations and vasectomies must also be considered factors but "since it is the availability of abortions that distinguishes California from much of the rest of the United States, it may be presumed that abortion did indeed play a key role in reducing fertility," they said.

Mrs. Reagan Is Object Of Joke

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Fresno County Welfare Office form letter looked official, but Mrs. Nancy Reagan's personal secretary says the notice that the Mrs. Reagan's request for food stamps had been turned down was "another practical joke."

Mrs. Nancy Hetrick, who screens the mail addressed to the governor's wife, reported Thursday that the letter was sent to Mrs. Reagan a week ago.

"I wrote back and said, 'obviously there has been some mistake or the letter apparently was sent to the wrong person,'" Mrs. Hetrick said.

"I think it was just another practical joke," Mrs. Hetrick said.

She said Mrs. Reagan never saw the lettar, and added that Fresno County Welfare Director Reed K. Clegg wrote a letter apologizing for the incident and promising an investigation to determine if one of the county employes had sent the letter.

2 Pilots Dead In Plane Crash

NELLIS AFB, Nev. (UPI)— An F4 jet fighter smashed into the desert while practicing night strafing runs, exploding its rockets, bombs and cannon ammunition and killing the two men aboard.

The crash ocurred Wednesday night but was not made public by the Air Force until Thursday.

The dead were Capt. William Nelson II, 28, Cartersville, Ill., instructor pilot, and Capt. Richard Mucciano, 29, St. Petersburg, Fla., the Air Force said.

$1,100 In Demo Money Returned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jim Powell found $1,100 in a file cabinet used at the Democratic national convention and apparently surmised that the debt-ridden Democratic party needed the money more than he did.

Powell returned the money by mail with "a short note written in long hand because I was out on a job and didn't have a chance to get it typed."

Carol Lottman, a Democratic presidential campaign aide, phoned Powell to thank him for returning the money. She said Sen. George S. McGovern "would write him personally as soon as possible to thank him too."

McGovern Proposals Challenged

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The president of the nation's largest independent labor union describes as "nonsense" Sen. George S. McGovern's proposals on welfare, taxes, amnesty, busing and the Vietnam war.

Frank B. Fitzsimmons of the 2.1 million member Teamsters Union characterized the Democratic presidential candidate Thursday as an enemy of labor. Fitzsimmons, whose union has endorsed President Nixon, urged union members to spurn McGovern's efforts to win their votes.

Fitzsimmons was joined in lambasting McGovern by Nixon's campaign director, Clark MacGregor, who challenged the South Dakota senator to put his proposals to a Senate test immediately. MacGregor predicted they would be rejected "by a vote of 95 to 1." But MacGregor also said the Nixon campaign staff was working to combat overconfidence and was running the campaign as "if the President were one vote behind" despite polls showing Nixon far ahead.

While his critics spoke out against him, McGovern plunged into a three-state campaign swing through New England.

Fitzsimmons accused McGovern of "grossly distorting President Nixon's record while covering up his own performance in public life which is not one on behalf of those who labor."

The Teamsters president said McGovern's welfare proposals would bankrupt the federal treasury and wipe out the $750 per person income tax exemption. He said McGovern's proposals included one "to beg to Hanoi, thus embarrassing the United States in the eyes of the world."

"American working men and women did not labor and sweat through generations for this kind of nonsense," Fitzsimmons said.

Despite Fitzsimmons' blast, McGovern picked up the endorsement of another union Thursday—the Textile Workers Union of America. He also was endorsed by the Utah State AFL-CIO. With AFL-CIO President George Meany at odds with McGovern, the AFL-CIO executive council declined to endorse a presidential candidate this year, but several large member unions have endorsed McGovern individually.

G. M. Engines Pass Smog Test

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. says its entire line of 1973 passenger car engines have passed government required emission control tests—paving the way for production of the new models.

The Environmental Protection Agency, according to Ernest S. Starkman, vice president in charge of the General Motors environmental activities staff, certified the 1973 engines Thursday.

Engines for American Motors Corp., the smallest of the nation's big four automakers, were certified earlier this week, according to a spokesman for the company.

Chrysler Corp. and Ford Motor Co. engines have yet to be certified.

Diplomat Retires

BRUSSELS (UPI) — J. Robert Schaetzel today announced his resignation as U.S. ambassador to the European Common Market.

In a two paragraph statement, the U.S. mission to the Common Market said Schaetzel, 55, was returning to private life after serving as ambassador since September 1966.

Role For Wagner

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former Mayor Robert F. Wagner will be named chairman of the presidential campaign for Sen. George McGovern in New York state, the McGovern campaign organization said last night.

Wagner, 62, will replace Richard D. Wade who resigned in a surprise move last Sunday in order to promote "party unity" between the regular and reform factions.

FASHION RADICAL Courreges showed this blue brushed wool denim pantsuit at the Paris showing of fall and winter collections.

The Fall, Winter Fashions: Moderate Chic's The Result

By DIANA LOERCHER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

PARIS — Like politics, the Paris collections for the fall and winter season divide conveniently into three categories which can best be described as conservative, liberal and radical.

The net result is moderate chic, presented over the course of four densely packed days during which glassy-eyed women of the press fought for seats, cooled themselves with portable fans, daubed their eyelids with perfume, petted their dogs and snoozed.

The conservatives represent the venerable bastions of haute couture — Dior, Givenchy and Chanel. They also are the least innovative, choosing to play it safe with proven formulas that appeal primarily to the sophisticated woman over 30.

The liberals are a bit more experimental. They orbit around the norms but also go off on occasional tangents that make them appealing to a younger, brasher, 20-to-30 age group.

Finally, the radicals such as Courreges and Feraud flout conventions to design individualistic clothes, which in many cases only a teen-ager would have the nerve or the right to wear. Paris, indeed, separates women from the girls.

THE STRONG bid for power by these two secondary groups reflects the influence of the ready-to-wear industry, a dangerous competitor, on haute couture. Yves Saint-Laurent is a prime defector to this enemy camp. But spring sales figures discredit the predictions of the prophets of doom, at least for the time being, with private customers rather than retailers keeping haute couture alive.

General trends that cut across "party" lines are mixed fabrics such as rough or soft wools with suede, leather or fur; tiny leather belts around the waists; chemise dresses often with monotonous geometric prints; pleated, bias cut, or straight skirts under fitted jackets or three-quarter coats; baggy trousers; and more furs.

Some designers such as Dior, Givenchy and Balmain regrettably persist in using snow leopard, ocelot and seals.

Plaids, tweeds, and gray flannel (often double-faced), chiffon, and black velvet are fabrics favored by all the designers, and pleats and ruffles are the preferred decoration. Sleeves — belled, capped, short, bishop, leg of mutton or not at all — are another ubiquitous obsession.

While the conservative silhouette is basically loose and sedate with a lowered waistline, a blouson bodice over a skinny little belt, and lengths to the knee, the other two groups raise the waist through elasticized belts or ribbing on the jackets, with a fitted bodice. Pants are also tighter and skirts fuller, shorter and bouncier for a more youthful message underscored by the rock or jazz background throbbing away during the shows.

The news in shoes is platform soles with varying degrees of heaviness and height with fairly thick heels.

Here are the conservatives:

GIVENCHY: The highlight of Hubert De Givenchy's line is his tunic coat with cap shoulders with which he garnishes pants, suits, and dresses in contrasting fabrics. He plumps for subdued tweed suits for daytime and princess-style dinner dresses — one of which has a perfectly joined latticework print that reminds you that couture means quality.

His evening wear is spectacular, with dazzling black pantssuit with sequins or mirror mosaic borders and sinuous pajama suits with an exotic leopard print.

DIOR: Marc Bohan for Dior is reliable, but this season his cautiousness is disappointing. His most interesting contribution is the gray flannel suit with matching hat, double-faced in bright colors (coat lining is virtually nonexistent this season except in fur).

Chemise dresses with little pleats, dropped waist, and a blouson bodice are understated to the point of ennui. For dinner his best is a short pleated chiffon with a double skirt, and for later sultry halter or one-shoulder gowns. He covers some of his soft evening clothes with rather grotesque rough wool or suede jackets and insists on tossing a fur boa over virtually everything.

DIOR DID this short coat worn over full-length printed dress.

THE HOUSE of Chanel created this tweed dress in the unmistakable and classic Chanel tradition.

RICCI: Gerard Pipart for Nina Ricci has gone Anglophile. British plaids and tweeds, especially herringbone and Prince of Wales, are the fabrics for her very slim, very tailored line. There is a very businesslike look about her clothes that makes them ideal for the woman who doesn't want to look self-consciously stylish.

CHANEL: There will always be a place for the Chanel suit in any woman's wardrobe, but unfortunately there is no more Chanel. Still, Gaston Berthelot is doing his best to carry on the tradition, with a dazzling array of tweeds cut a little fuller and a little longer than she might have wished. Skirts are straight and pleated and blouses soft and loose. Sometimes the two are combined in a dress. For evening it's a regalia of ruffles.

Here are the liberals:

UNGARO: Emanuel Ungaro's collection has caused one of this season's sensations, especially in sportswear. Double-faced cashmere and mohair coats with wide lapels and drawstring belts open to reveal lush angora dresses with elasticized waists and wrists and flared skirts. The softness is not only in the fabric but the cut. Like the Americans, Ungaro has a taste for separates, which he gives disarming chic in his stunningly coordinated pants suits. His forte is his understanding of cloth, which he molds like a sculptor.

LANVIN: Jules-Francois Crahay has blown a breath of life into clothes. Mixed fabrics, long fuzzy bathrobe coats, white with brightly colored Matisse, splotches, knee-length pants, and short warm-up jackets ribbed at the waist and wrist all give a youthful panache to his sportswear.

One of his most bizarre innovations is the short-sleeve coat cut like a smock, enticing in itself but rather peculiar when paired with long wool knit gloves.

CARDIN: Pierre Cardin is something of a borderline case, insofar as he could just as well be placed in the next category. Many of his styles are too adult for the young and too wild for anyone older. His tunic dresses with exaggerated shoulders over body stockings are loud — the kind of dress no one ever forgets, unfortunately. His dinner dresses are more reasonable and "classic," but moving into the wee hours, the picture again grows weird with drooping sleeves, mincing sheaths, or chiffon petal skirts slashed in V's that you could wear only in a school spring pageant or to a pagan ritual.

Here are the radicals:

COURREGES: Andre Courreges, who started his career as a fitter for Balenciaga, has come a long way in a different direction. He draws heavily on sports for inspiration, and the question is whether his clothes are for women who wish they were little girls, or even little boys.

His evening wear tends toward the denude, as the French say, and is tempered by appliqued flowers, feathers, and ribbons. It's terribly gimmicky and unwearable except by the young, but it's fun.

FERAUD: Louis Feraud is tame in comparison, though his mini and maxidresses in psychedelic Swedish flowered prints would seem to belie it. His sportswear is fitted canvas and wool with leather appliques in safari or 1940-s styles, sometimes with convict stripes. Skirts are flared with rounded pleats, and pants high-waisted and belled.

ESTEREL: Jacques Esterel is a maverick designer who, like Cardin, doesn't really belong anywhere — but for different reasons. Protesting against the "fascism" of industrialization, Esterel is experimenting with clothes that cannot only be worn by anybody, but made by anybody. He borrows from primary geometric shapes —the rectangle, the triangle, and the rhombus —for jumpers, tunics, and ponchos that cover the body while giving it a dramatic configuration. His is the simplest and most avant-garde form of dress to be seen in the collections and a do-it-yourself solution to the dilemma of what to wear.

Cocktail Party Is Planned To Honor Son, Daughter

By MOLLY MARIN

A cocktail party will be given on Aug. 19 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dovre C. Jensen of Marin Country Club Estates to honor their son and their daughter and her family, who are visiting Marin.

The son, Second Lt. Dovre C. Jensen Jr. is home on a 12 day leave from service with the Army 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, N.C.

The Jensens' daughter, Mrs. Leonard J. Tracy, her husband and daughter Theresa Marie, are visiting the Jensens from their home in Kansas City, Mo.

A CEREMONY at the home of the bride's parents in Lodi united in marriage Mona Jeanne Cross and Robert Joseph Sherry of Ross on July 29. The couple are driving to Pittsburgh, Pa., where they will live. Robert, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sherry of Ross, will be a medical student at Duquesne University. Both he and the bride are graduates of California State University, San Francisco. Mona is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Cross of Lodi.

Robert is the brother of Regina, Paul and Stephen Sherry of Marin and Vincent Sherry of San Francisco.

IT WAS the ideal marriage as far as the third graders at Pleasant Valley School in Novato were concerned. Their teacher, Patricia Anne Mazzini, and their former teaching assistant, Clark Philip Rosen, were married July 22 at South Lake Tahoe.

The bridegroom is now a teacher at La Tercera School in Petaluma.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Mazzini of San Rafael, Pat graduated from Marin Catholic High School and Dominican College prior to her teaching career.

Clark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rosen of San Diego and the brother of Larry Rosen of La Jolla. He is a graduate of the University of California at San Diego and received his teaching credential from Sonoma State College.

After a wedding trip to Mexico the couple will live in San Rafael.

MR. AND MRS. Roger Atkinson of Tiburon entertained guests at a swimming party and barbecue to honor their daughter, Melissa Anne. Among the guests were Marcia Hart and Lee Anne Hitchcock, both of whom bowed with Melissa at the San Francisco Debutante Ball in June.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Are Spoilsports Tactless, Or Just Plain Catty Persons?

DEAR HELEN:

Are some women born tactless or are they just plain mean?

In almost every gathering you'll find one who just can't give a compliment that doesn't have an implied slam.

For instance: I'd lost weight (after much effort). Daisy (we'll call her) listened to others telling me how well I looked, and agreed, "Yes, isn't it wonderful to finally be rid of that old middle-aged spread?"

She's the same one who told me my new hairdo was great because the bangs covered "all those wrinkles" in my forehead. I hadn't been aware of them, before.

She likes someone's dress because "the color helps a sallow complexion." Or, at a dinner party: "Isn't Terry (the hostess) wonderful? I wouldn't DARE use chuck steak for Stroganoff, but SHE makes it taste like sirloin!"

DEAR CONNIE:

They're aware! But if you accuse them of cattiness, they'll go kittenish with, "But I was just trying to say something nice."

Put the loaded compliment down to jealousy. And laugh! I know a woman who collects them because they make such good conversation pieces. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Please, once again, can you give us the name and address of the little magazine that lists tips on money saving grocery coupons, refunds, special savings, etc. which food and household goods companies offer to increase sales?

So often I hear about cash refunds for box or can labels, but by the time I find out all the details, the offer has expired.

I read in a magazine (which got thrown away before I copied the address) that this monthly saves grocery shoppers $100 or more annually and only costs $3.00 a year. — HOPEFUL

DEAR HOPEFUL:

I believe you're talking about Quicksilver. You can subscribe, or obtain further information about it by writing to Eggleson Enterprise, Milford, New York, 13807. Quicksilver describes itself as "a monthly bulletin listing manufacturers' offers, special cash refunds, wholesale purchasing sources and other money-saving information." And it can save housewives quite a lot! — H.

Louis-Jones Rite In St. Anselm's

Linda Frances Jones of Kentfield and Samuel Robert Louis of Paradise Valley, Ariz., were married at St. Anselm's Church in San Anselmo on Saturday afternoon.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Jones of Kentfield, chose her sister, Barbara Jones as honor attendant. The bridesmaids were Cathy Oberto, Kathleen English, Mrs. James Jacobs and Karla Kinkel.

After the nuptials a reception was held at the Jones home. When the couple return from a wedding trip to Hawaii, they will live in Phoenix, Ariz.

Linda is a graduate of San Domenico School for Girls, attended the University of Oregon and received a degree from the University of San Francisco. She took graduate studies at Arizona State University. She was a 1968 Marin Debutante.

(Linda Frances Jones)

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Louis of Paradise Valley, Ariz., are Samuel's parents. The bridegroom was graduated from Brophy Prep School and the University of San Francisco. He also has been a graduate student at Arizona State University.

PRINCESS GROWING UP

Sports Lose Out To Dates

By MARGARET SAVILLE

LONDON (UPI)—Any parent will recognize the symptoms. A daughter who has lived for sports alone suddenly appears to discover there are other interests in the world for a girl — especially a young, rich, attractive and very eligible girl.

What is the diagnosis?

In the case of Princess Anne her own parents, Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, have probably already made it.

The Princess will be 22 on Aug. 15. The early 20's are "the marriage zone" for royalty and the Princess has begun to look upon boy friends with the interest she has been lavishing on her jumping horses.

Princess Anne made a great and gallant effort to achieve the 1972 Olympic team. She showed the courage and the ability and lost out when her horse suffered an injury. She hid the heartbreak behind the promise, "there's always 1976."

LATELY SHE's stopped using the phrase. It may have occurred to her that she might be married before then which presumably would rule out the 7 a.m. practice rides, the strict diet, early-to-bed-no-parties regime she had to follow in training for the British riding team.

There is no special boy friend on the scene at the moment. A few have dropped from her circle because they can't stand the publicity and the limelight and the Scotland Yard detective who always makes it a threesome on dates.

Many people still think Princess Anne will marry Crown Prince Carl Gustav of Sweden. The 26-year-old Prince was once quoted as saying he did not intend to marry Anne, but when she was in the hospital for an operation he telephoned her regularly and sent her masses of flowers. Although seemingly cool to each other at the Shah of Iran's fabulous 2,500th anniversary party last autumn, court circles say they're back on a friendly footing again.

THE COUPLE met informally in london recently. Prince Carl Gustav always calls at Buckingham Palace as a relation. They will inevitably meet at the Olympic Games at Munich and again when he comes to London in November for a big family celebration of the silver wedding annivarsary of Elizabeth and Philip.

There is speculation that Princess Anne may be given the title of Princess Royal by the Queen on her birthday. The title is customarily bestowed on the eldest daughter of the sovereign. It would confirm her precedence as the third lady in the land behind the Queen and Queen Mother Elizabeth.

Space Suit Has Found Uses

The space suit worn by Apollo astronauts is a 65 pound (earth weight) garment in which all the viable and life supporting elements of earth are contained. In space it weighs nothing and in the lunar gravity it weighs 10 and a half pounds.

The development of space suit technology has also contributed to better methods for protection and survival of persons exposed to the hazards of earth. Space underwear contains fine tubing through which water flows at regulated temperatures.

The same vari-temp garment has been adapted for use by blast furnace operators, miners, firemen, Navy deep-sea divers and meat packers in cold storage plants.

ON BEING BLACK

Mixed-Race Adoption Spurs Spate Of Differing Ideas

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"What's exotic abut changing soiled diapers, cleaning up spilled oatmeal and rushing to the hospital emergency ward at 3 o'clock in the morning?" writes an indignant white mother of an adopted black child in response to a comment (which appeared in this column several months ago) by a black person that "some whites consider a black child an exotic curiosity — a contemporary piece."

The mother continues, "Believe me, my dear, the adoption of any child is simply a labor of motherly love. Exotic, indeed!"

The problem of adoption of homeless children surfaces periodically, but it is a subject that remains in need of constant concern and attention.

Adoption practices have changed considerably over the years, and transracial adoption, along with singles and subsidy adoptions, has surfaced as a viable solution for "unadoptables" — minority and racially mixed children.

WITH OUR ever-present racial hang-ups, which thankfully many of us are outgrowing, transracial adoption is still a controversial issue. Reader response to the adoption column was heavy. Along with expressions of indignation that some blacks could dare not subscribe to white families adopting black children came many personal transracial experiences and suggestions of ways to handle some of the problems that arise in multiracial families. Some responses follow:

From California: "We are an interracial couple and, like several other mixed couples we know, have adopted a mixed child. We are striving to give our new son the best of two worlds."

From Arizona (where the American Indian child is often the minority child): "In considering the welfare of the child, there seems to me to be two ways of testing the sincerity of whites who wish to adopt minority children. For one thing, it is better to adopt two than one of any minority group. The two might not like or prefer each other, but at least they may appreciate the mirror reflection. And the other: The sincerity of the adopting parents can be judged by whether they have adult friends of the same race as the child. The young of any country can be appreciated, but to be fair to them, you would have to like what they might become as adults."

FROM SEATTLE, Wash.: "The thought of a black child remaining in an institution until a qualified black family comes along to adopt him is appalling. Of course, black people care about their own, so do whites. But some whites see a problem that isn't being solved fast enough. Homes are a very important part of a child's growing up. They need love and human contact no matter what color the person is."

From Massachusetts: "We are foster parents to a racially mixed child and have been attempting for two years to adopt him. If subsidized adoption became an accessible reality, these children (unadoptables) would have a greater chance of having a home and family, and the low-income family like ours would have the security of knowing medical and other expenses can be met. Since one of our sons has seizures and his expenses are high, we can only afford to adopt one child. We truly would like more children, and so would others. If subsidized adoptions were used discreetly and wisely, it would be a practical solution to a great problem."

From Ohio (a social casework director): "Gut of my deep identification with black babies, I am writing to express my hope that your column can be used to explore some of the social issues involved. Several questions arise. Why is it that black people have ignored responsibility to black unmarried mothers and their babies? Why have our adoption agencies not been challenged about the quality of care which black babies receive? Where is the black indignation about the fate of lovable, loving babies such as the one you describe in your article? I hope you can use your position to challenge all of us to creative thinking and to make it impossible for us to forget that these tiny human beings desperately need our help."

FROM ILLINOIS: "Loving parents and sisters and brothers are more important than matching hair, eyes and skin color! Of course, there will be problems, but how the heck can any parent expect to raise kids without problems?"

The flow of letters was fantastic, indicating that the issue of transracial adoption hit a nerve ending (of both blacks and whites). May homeless children — the handicapped as well as minority — continue to move people in just this way so that loving homes may be provided for them all.

New Way To Send Message

At the end of the International Jubilee Rally in June in Redding, Conn., the troops launched 127 helium-filled balloons. Each carried a post card with a girl's name, age and return address.

Twenty days later, Brownie Scout, Debbie Connell, and Junior Scout, Leslie Hawley, received a post card from Luxembourg, dated June 18, 1972. The translated message reads: "Dear Leslie and Debbie: Today I was walking on Liberty Avenue — what a surprise when I saw a balloon alight in front of me.

When it came down the balloon was very tired, but do not worry because I gave it fresh air — it is resting — already it seems to look bigger. These post cards were sent a long distance — I congratulate you. Au revoir. Signed Joe Viamonte."

Tablecloth For Picnics Is 'In'

Both indoor and outdoor picnic tablecloths are the "in" thing with hostesses these days, with entertaining emphasis on low-cost picnic foods served on an unusual table cover.

Some people are serving hot dogs and beans indoors on heirloom china and some are taking the easy route with paper service all the way, but the table cloth is the eye catcher.

DESIGNER NORMAN NORELL

Fall Collection Stresses Subdued Checker Patterns

By GAY PAULEY

Almost all of his daytime clothes, the coat and dress and jacket and dress costumes, play checks against solids and all are done in neutral shades, the spectrum running from eggshell white to pale beige to deep beige, gray, caramel and deep brown.

Norell uses the fiber from the South American llama-like alpaca in its natural state, apparently getting the contrast of checks in weaving the various neutrals. He said the fibres were not dyed.

Almost every collar was eight to 10 inches wide, pointed and designed to be worn standup around the throat, or flattened down only slightly.

With the coats, Norell showed skinny sweater dresses, most of them with a circle of fabric riding high on the throat, but not rolled like the classic turtle.

Some of the big-collared coats were reversibles. Dresses would be in solid beige, or occasionally picking up the same checked pattern as the coats.

THE VETERAN designer showed other checks and solids in variations of a jacket he's made almost his trademark—copies of the Navy's pea jacket. Norell liked it, single-breasted, closed with center buttons and wrapped like a mini bathrobe with self-fabric tie.

The whole silhouette with Norell is lean, either for day or evening, with the exception of the big coats. Sweater dresses cling, unbelted little chemises in sleek wools ride against the body but don't hug it. He occasionally breaks the line of a chemise with patch pockets on the bodice, with long sleeves gathered and cuffed.

For evening, the slinkiest numbers are his sequined group that look like the siren gowns of moviedom's femme fatales of the 1930s and '40s.

MORE OFTEN than not, the pace -setting designer topped the long formals with equally long coats in fleecy wools the same shade as the dress beneath.

Some of his formals looked like elegent elongated versions of a man's smoking jacket. It would seem indecent somehow at Norell's prices ($500 and up retail) to use the term "bathrobe silhouette."

Just in case anyone thought Norell was going prim with so many high necklines in the evening group, he unveiled a group of practically backless halter tops, tops cut to bare one shoulder, and slits running well up the thigh.

Hemlines remained just covering the kneecaps.

FAMILY

"Misadventures of Merlin Jones" — A whimsical science comedy about a college student who acquires the ability to hear what people are thinking. Being a rather kooky individual he does stir up a bit of excitement.

"Napoleon and Samantha" — Filmed against rugged mountains and historical gold country of eastern Oregon a small boy and girl and their pet lion make a long and perilous journey to seek refuge with an old friend. Plenty of dramatic action.

"Now You See Him, Now You Don't" — Life on a zany college campus where an inept student produces a concotion which will make people invisible. This creates many complications for both the hero and tne villain.

"Pufnstuf" — A colorful, imaginative adventure based on television show by the same name. A magic flute leads a boy to a fantasy land of life-sized puppets where everything talks and there are witches and a dragon. Classic entertainment.

"What's Up, Doc?" — Set in San Francisco, treated with a sophisticated touch, this fast moving slapstick nutty comedy revolves around a mixup with four identical suitcases.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"The Candidate" — A taut drama about an idealistic young lawyer running for the office of senator. The acting, direction and photography combine to give film realistic texture and adds impact to the vital theme of political disillusionment.

"Kelly's Heroes" — A preposterous World War II satirical comedy about a group of American soldiers who sneak behind enemy lines in order to rob a bank of millions in gold bullion. Plenty of action and violence.

"Love Story" — Two young college students marry causing a rift between the young man and his father. When they decide to have a child they discover the wife has a fatal illness. Some sex and strong language.

"Stanley" — A terrifying suspense tale about an embittered young Seminole Indian just back from Vietnam who uses his pet rattlesnack to kill his enemies on command.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Cabaret" — Set in Berlin in 1930 a zestful young American girl singer at a cabaret proclaims herself the symbol of "divine decadence." Her love affairs lead to a pregnancy where paternity is unsure. Well made film but sophisticated and bawdy with foul language and sex.

"Frenzy" — Hitchcock brings us a necktie murderer who is a sexual psychopath and on the loose in London. Very suspenseful with nudity and cursing.

"Hospital" — A series of episodes scathingly and sometimes humorously presented point up the incompetence, emotional hangups and self-seeking drives of the medical staff. Nudity, sex and foul language.

"Play It Again, Sam" — In this sex comedy Woody Allen is a dedicated movie buff and as a writer lives in a fantasy world where he gets advice from his favorite actor, Humphrey Bogart, on how to solve his sex problems.

"Summer of '42" — Three adolescent boys spending the summer with their families on an island are enlightened about sex by reading a medical book. They then proceed to apply the knowledge they have acquired.

ADULTS ONLY

"Graduate" — A young college graduate returns to his wealthy parents home unsure of what he wants to do with his future. He becomes involved with a married woman and also with her daughter. Nudity and sex.

"Godfather" — Gripping epic gangster film filled with excessive violence. The head of Mafia leads two lives, as a kindly head of a family and then as leader of a mob whose business is killing.

"Klute" — A police officer and a call girl follow a clue given in an obscene letter which eventually leads them to a psychopathic killer. It is a sordidly explicit film which does not spare its audience.

"Play Misty For Me" — A terrifying suspense thriller about a radio disc jockey and an insane fan who pursues him. Many bloody deaths and some sex scenes.

"Sunday, Bloody Sunday" — A divorcee and a doctor are both deeply and obsessively in love with an attractive young man. He divides his time between their beds, refusing to commit himself totally. Sex scenes and nudity.

Chess Champ's Wife Delayed On Trip

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Mrs. Boris Spassky, wife of the world chess champion, was detained at Copenhagen airport for several hours Thursday.

Mrs. Spassky was scheduled to depart from Copenhagen later Thursday night. The cause of her delay was not disclosed.

BART Service Beginning Set

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—The first streamlined trains in the San Francisco Bay Area's $1.35 billion rapid transit system begin rolling on a partial stretch of track Sept. 11.

Formal dedications for the entire 75-mile Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) system will take place in October—the exact date depending on when President Nixon can be present.

BART directors said the first trains in the full-computerized service would be between Fremont and Oakland, a 28-mile stretch.

Hit-Run Case To Superior Court

Myron Francis Kaczmarek, 28, of San Anselmo, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on felony hit-run and drunken driving charges stemming from a crash in Larkspur in June.

He is to be arraigned Monday.

Kaczmarek was arrested in a San Rafael bar after police said he cut off a motorcycle on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Highway 101, causing the cyclist to crash.

Mosquito Crews Ask Pay Raise

Marin Mosquito Abatement District employees have requested a 5.5 per cent pay raise and have been told the district board will think about it.

Allan D. Telford, district manager, reported that Frank O'Connell, manager of the Marin County Employees Association said district employees — who were granted a 4 per cent cost of living raise in the fiscal 1972-73 budget — need 5.5 per cent more because of the rise in cost of living.

A motion to give employees a 5 per cent raise was defeated 7 to 5, said Telford, but directors agreed to consider a further cost of living raise at the end of the year if there is evidence to warrant it.

Charles H. Sovel of 822 D Street, Petaluma, was seated on the board. He was appointed by the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors on June 26 to represent unincorporated areas of Sonoma County in the Marin district, whose territory covers 100 square miles of the Petaluma area.

State Asks Bids For Road Work

The State Division of Highways has called for bids for improvement projects in Marin and Sonoma counties.

In Marin, seven-tenths of a mile of Route 37 will be resurfaced from the Atherton Avenue undercrossing near Novato to Petaluma Creek Bridge.

In Sonoma, Route 12 will be resurfaced from its junction with Matanzas Creek Bridge in Santa Rosa to Bush Creek Bridge, and from its junction with Route 24 to Agua Calienta Road.

Fill Permit Fight Looms In Novato

Elmwood Court residents are scheduled to protest a fill permit at an adjourned meeting of the Novato City Council at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Novato Community House.

Residents will appeal planning commission approval of a use permit which would allow Louis Garaventa to place 140,000 cubic yards of fill just north of Elmwood Court.

The council also will hear Alfred Bellucci appeal planning commission denial of his application to place 11,620 yards of fill on 2.7 acres at the end of Clausing Court, east of Highway 101.

Councilmen also will consider extension of the interim ordinance limiting development of the Novato Creek flood plain.

On Wednesday, the city council and planning commission will hold a special joint meeting on revisions to the Novato area general plan at 8 p.m. at the Novato Community House.

The circulation and land use elements of the plan are to be discussed, according to Planning Diractor Brian W. Mattson.

On Monday, the planning commission will consider a master plan by Kaehler-Timmer development Co. for 88 homes on the former Marin Dell dairy on the south side of Olive Avenue at 8 p.m. at the Novato Community House.

The plans call for single family detached homes on 19.9 acres of the 42.3 acre parcel with the remainder of the property slated for open space.

Novatans Differ On Redevelopment

By FRANK FARRARA

Creation of a redevelopment agency was presented last night as a potential tonic for Novato's downtown ills and rapped as a "premature" venture.

The divergent views were voiced at a Novato City Council briefing on the proposal to form an agency to bolster commercial development in the downtown area.

About 40 persons including members of other governing boards in the area and merchants, attended the session during which the need to form an agency was challenged.

Novato's downtown was labeled blighted, underdeveloped fragmented and lagging in growth, but agency opponents claimed it wasn't that bad and could improve on its own.

Charles Lewis, who described himself as the "house businessman" on the city's downtown implementation committee, said "I have serious doubts about a redevelopment agency myself."

Yet, Lewis said, "the business community is lagging badly and is badly behind what it ought to be" and setting up an agency would be attempting to implement the downtown plan and improve the business area. "I don't see any serious harm to look into it."

Trustee Carolyn M. Crabtree of the Novato Unified School District Board and former member of the downtown study committee, said she believed business is "moving ahead" and an agency isn't needed now.

Joseph W. Wright, real estate broker, said: "I think the need for this is exaggerated." He said he didn't believe Novato was a "disaster" and it would have just as much growth in the next 10 years as it has had in the past 10 years.

Alfred Bellucci, real estate broker, said it would be "premature" to form a redevelopment agency now.

Lewis said "part of the blame" for lagging downtown development rests with the city which has turned down development and "expressed an attitude of antidevelopment."

Mayor F. Wayne Sartain said if downtown Novato is to reach its potential, it needed private enterprise and help from governmental agencies.

Richard A. Gronberg, president of the Novato Downtown Merchants Association, charged that the city has been restrictive, and if it had been less restrictive the assessed valuation in the downtown area would be higher than it is.

Sartain said the "whole process cannot happen unless we take politics out and all work for a common goal. If we split up, we might as well quit now."

One of the controversial aspects of the proposal, freezing of the assessed valuation in a redevelopment project area, was examined, but wasn't the center of audience reaction.

As proposed the assessed valuation would be frozen in any area marked for redevelopment and all taxing agencies would lose the increase in revenue that normally would occur in that area. The revenue from increased assessed valuation resulting from redevelopment would go to pay off the redevelopment bonds.

Director George A.Amaroli of the North Marin County Water District, said that board didn't oppose formation of an agency "on the basis of tax reduction."

Director Henry V. Alvernaz of the Novato Fire Protection District board opposed any tax reduction. He asked that the redevlopment agency board, now proposed to consist of city councilmen, be expanded to include representatives of other local taxing agencies that would be affected.

Peggy McElligott of the firm of Wilson, Jones, Morton and Lynch, legal consultants, on district formation, said if the community permits the downtown area "to continue to deteriorate, it won't do anything to help the community," but an increase in assessed valuation through redevelopment would aid.

The "tax freeze" wouldn't occur until there was a precise development plan for a project area, she reported.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said the thrust toward improving the downtown area arose from "the concern of merchants because of the inability to get volume sales."

Novato ranks lowest of cities in Marin in assessed valuation per capita, $2,125 per capita, he reported. Its taxable sales in 1970 were $1,065 per capita as compared to $3,696 in San Rafael, he said.

The assessed valuation in the downtown area, particularly the East Grant Avenue area, is lagging behind other areas of the city in rate of increase, Brown said. Redevelopment could bring tax revenue increases that would more than make up for any tax reduction during a tax freeze, he said.

Redevelopment first would be sought through private enterprise, then a combination of public and private sources, thirdly through unified efforts of merchants and property owners, and lastly through the tax freeze method, Brown reported.

The area proposed for redevelopment hasn't been defined, he said. First, there would be a survey area covering an area where redevelopment could occur and then definite project areas would be set for development, he explained.

Planning Director Brain W. Mattson said the redevelopment agency would be "one means of carrying out the downtown program," and he reviewed the goals of that program including the creation of a subregional shopping center in downtown Novato.

Questioners were assured they would have a chance to have their say on any proposed redevelopment projects at public hearings, and that those who suffered loss through relocation would be compensated.

The council adjourned to 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Novato Community House.

Campaign Organized For Open Space Vote

A citizens committee organized to pass San Rafael's $2.25 million bond election for open space divided the city into 23 precincts last night and appointed 18 precinct captains.

The committee decided to blanket the city with an open space fact sheet flyer within two weeks, according to Councilman Lawrence F. Mulryan, committee co-chairman.

He said that the flyer distribution woul be followed by a doorbell poll to determine support for the Sept. 19 bond election.

Glenwood, David Manuel, 39 Knight Drive; Loch Lomond, Elizabeht Ring, 5 Locksly Lane; Peacock Gap, Tina Ferris, 42 McNear Drive; Terra Linda Valley, John Gibbs, 456 Nova Albion; Santa Margarita,Eric C. Eitreim, 17 Bolanos Drive; Mont Marin, Katherine Miller, 29 Upper Oak, and Twelve Oak Hill, Bruce Loeb.

The campaign effort has been endorsed by the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, the League of Women Voters, People for Parks and Open Space and 18 homeowners groups, Mulryan said.

The committee will meet again at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 31 in San Rafael High School.

Engineer Faces Role Criticism

A director of the Stinson Beach County Water District will ask the district's engineer, Brown and Caldwell, to resign from that post at tomorrow's meeting of the district board at 10 a.m. in the Stinson Beach Community Center.

Director Proctor Jones stressed he is not dissatisfied with the engineering firm's performance, but noted that Brown and Caldwell is also engineer for a proposed sewage disposal system for the district. "I think we need an independent district engineer, one who is not connected with the project," Jones explained.

The board will also consider cancellation of a 1970 joint powers agreement with the Marin Municipal Water District calling for the MMWD to operate Stinson's waste disposal system once it is built.

Prison Receives Racial Leaders

Forty men said to be leaders of racial violence which has recently plagued the Sierra Conservation Center in Tuolumne County were transferred yesterday to San Quentin Prison.

Prison officials say there have been three stabbings — none fatal — and numerous fist fights since Monday between Negro and Chicano inmates at the minimum-security work camp.

Joseph R. O'Brien, information officer at San Quentin Prison, said the 40 men would be "classified to see how much control they needed" and possibly transferred to other institutions.

Preservation Asked For Dollar Mansion

A San Rafael city councilman has proposed that the Dollar Mansion be included in the city's redevelopment plans, William J. Bielser, redevelopment executive director, said today.

According to Councilman Lawrence F. Mulryan, purchase of the mansion and 11-acre site would be an "appropriate use of redevelopment funds."

"That site is too beautiful to be developed or destroyed," Mulryan said tojay. The councilman said that the mansion should be preserved as a cultural museum and the site converted into a recreational area for senior citizens.

Bielser said that others have suggested that redevelopment funds be used for beautification of Fourth Street, improved access and additional parking in the downtown area.

Sentence Fixed In Auto Theft

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court today placed John Ellis, 23, no known address, on probation for three years and sentenced him to the time he had already spent in jail for a car theft charge.

Ellis was arrested May 10 in a car stolen from the parking lot of Shoreline Market in Tamalpais Valley.

Last month he pleaded guilty to auto theft.

Pollution Boss Has Postponed Gripe Session

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The chairman of the Bay Area Pollution Control District, who announced last month that he would hold office hours once a month to hear citizens complaints, has postponed his first session for a second time. (Another pollution control district story, page 1)

Due to a conflicting engagement, Chairman Robert B. St. Clair, a San Mateo County supervisor, has postponed the session from next Wednesday to Aug. 23.

He will hold office hours from 9 a.m. to noon in district headquarters, 939 Ellis Street. Appointments will not be necessary but persons wishing to make an appointment may telephone the district.

Larkspur Doctor Dies In Crash; Driver Held

A 28-year-old Larkspur physician was killed last night in a five-car crash just south of the Golden Gate Bridge. A San Francisco man was booked into San Francisco City Prison on suspicion of manslaughter in connection with the accident.

The California Highway Patrol said Steven M. Sydow of 44 Frances Drive died when his southbound auto was struck by two cars about 11:25 p.m. Sydow was a resident in dermatology at the University of California Medical Center.

Officers reported that an auto driven by Leonard Lundgreen III hit the rear of the Sydow vehicle, then struck it broadside, propelling the car into the northbound lanes.

The Sydow auto was then hit broadside by a northbound car operated by Michael L. Bayliss, 27, of Carlton, Ore.

According to officers, the Lundgreen vehicle then crossed into the northbound lane and crashed headon into a car driven by Donald E. Beyer, 38, of 553 San Rafael Avenue, Belvedere. The Beyer auto, which swerved to avoid the crash, collided with a car driven by Hedwig B. Nightingale, 31, of San Francisco.

The patrol said Lundgreen was driving under the influence of alcohol when the accident occurred. He received minor knee injuries in the colliuion. Bayless, Beyer and Mrs. Nightingale were not hurt.

✓HERITAGE HOME✓

3 story elegance in this massive Victorian style home of a by-gone era. The lumber baron who built this show place used only the finest construction and most beautiful wood in the paneling of the parlor, dining room and entry hall. The wood is as smooth as glass to the touch. Curved glass in many windows with beautiful etched glass abounding. The library has a working fireplace as does the parlor. Family kitchen with butler's pantry and a powder room complete the first floor. Wide staircase to the 2nd floor entry that is a wood paneled octagon shape with 4 bedrooms, 2 baths and stairs to the 3rd floor. This huge room with bath could be a master suite or children's hideaway. 3 stall garage and outdoor patio. All this plus a 3 bedroom, bath and a ½ home with large dining room on the grounds as a rental unit. $65,000

About 800 Marine reservists, including "M" Company, Third Batallion, 23rd Marines, San Rafael, known as "Marin's Marines", gathered at Camp Pendleton to hear a briefing at the start of the annual two-week summer training program. Four companies from California and one from Salt Lake City participated in classes, demonstrations and military exercises July 22-Aug. 6. Temperatures were sweltering the entire two weeks, resulting in four cases of heat exhaustion. A three-day "make believe war" was played in which a small group portraying guerrilla forces attempted to attack and evade defenders, armed with rifles and tanks. The war started in the true tradition of the Marine with defenders landing on the beach. They chased the guerillas for about 15 miles into the mountains, finally capturing them at the end of the exercise. In addition to fighting their attackers, the defenders also contended with tarantulas, snakes and unrelenting heat.

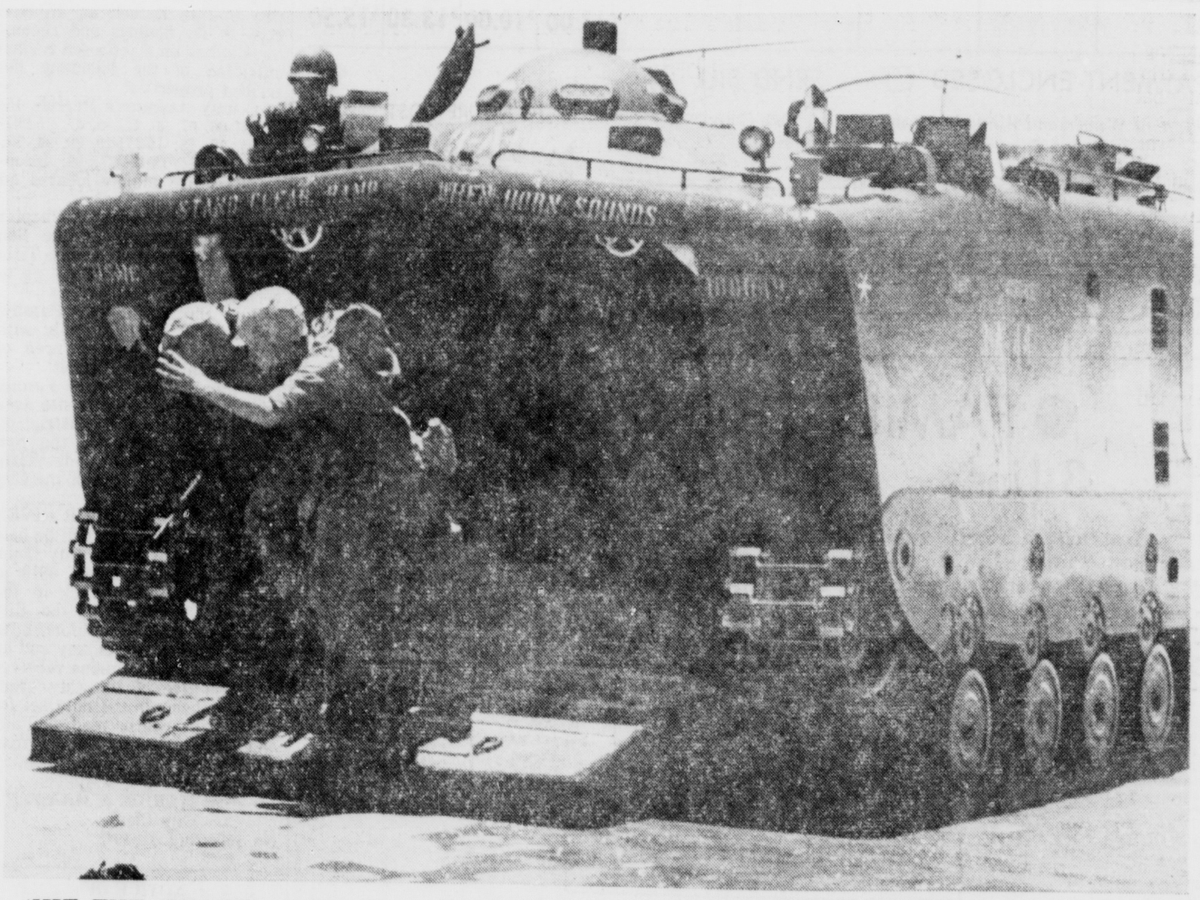
TRYING IT OUT — Bob Kohne (left) and Dave Salaun, Marin Reservists, inspect their new M-16 rifle following classes in loading, firing and cleaning. The reservists of "M" Company had undergone three months of training at home in preparation for the new rifles. Classes, drills and demonstrations filled up 12-hour days the first week. During the make-believe war exercise the second week, the schedule was extended to 24 hours.

INFANTRY SUPPORT — A tank rolls into view as the make-believe war on the beaches of Camp Pendleton rages on. Five tanks from the San Diego reserve unit aided infantry in its assault on guerilla forces. The assault took the men from the White Beach training area through scrub brush and rock towards the eastern boundary of Pendleton. Capture came about 15 miles from where it all began. Then, trucks came and carried the weary victors and captives back to their barracks.

NEW RIFLES — Firing new M-16 rifles for the first time, "M" Co. reservists get instruction from Bob Nelson (left) of San Rafael, platoon sergeant. The reservists traded in their M-14's for the newer, more modern rifles during this summer's training program. Their target practice aimed at old Jeeps and rusted tanks placed about 350 yards away. The same rifles were used during the three-day "make believe" war exercise.



'HIT THE BEACH' — Members of "M" Co. disembark from amphibious troop carriers, starting the make-believe assault on the beaches of Camp Pendleton. Transported out to sea by amtraks for realism, they were then carried into shore, carrying about 30 lbs. of combat equipment including rifles with blanks. For the next three days, they chased guerilla forces through the mountains, finally capturing them 15 miles away three days later. The weather was hot, but at least the seas were calm.

Henderson Bat Mark Climbs After A Tip

A slump that lasts four months can plunge a fellow into a deep depression. Climbing out of a pit that seemingly is bottomless can cause nightmarish clawing. It takes a determined individual to fight his way back to the top. Such individuals are to be admired.

Take, for instance, Ken Henderson. He never had a better spring training. He hit .328 in 20 spring exhibition games. In the season opener at Houston he came to bat four times. He roped two singles into the Astrodome outfield. Then he went 0-13. An 0-21 dip followed. And that was the way it continued through April, May, June and July.

By July 31 Henderson was just hitting a few points above his weight, .190. Johnny McNamara made a suggestion. The coach of the Giants suggested that Henderson might be holding his bat too upright. Henderson adjusted it from an almost vertical alignment with his shoulder to a 45 degree angle. That did it.

IN THE FIRST NINE games of August, Henderson hit at a .514 clip (18-for-35), including two homers, six doubles and six runs batted in, two of which won ball games. His season batting average jumped 40 points from .190 to .230 which still is far below his career high of .294 in 1970 or his .264 of last season.

There was a reason why Henderson hit only .264 last season — a frustrating series of injuries that began with a broken thumb and continued with one pulled muscle after another. Still, he managed to knock in 65 runs in 1971 and contribute nine game winning hits in the successful drive of the Giants to the National League West flag.

BUT THIS YEAR Henderson had no physical ills although at the end of June a virus put him in bed for a brief 24-hour period. So his prolonged slump was a puzzlement that not only worried him but the Giants, too.

"A fellow can get terribly depressed in slumps but it's a joy to see a player like Henderson fight back," said Charlie Fox. "Give him all the credit due him. There's credit due McNamara, too, for the sound suggestion he made to Kenny. But a coach can only suggest — it's up to the player to execute.

"KENNY'S HITTING the ball now with line drive power. That's what he's always been — a line drive hitter. Give him his pitch and he can jack a ball out of any park."

Henderson, understandably happy with his batting spree, said: "I hope it continues. I don't think I ever really got down on myself like people thought when I was in the slump."

USE BAHNSEN

White Sox Boss' Plan

OAKLAND (UPI) — Chicago White Sox manager Chuck Tanner is taking the gamble tonight in his do-or-die attempt to overhaul Oakland in the American League West chase.

The two teams battled to a 5 hour 2 minute 3-3 tie Thursday night and Friday morning before curfew halted the proceedings and will resume action in the 18th inning tonight at 7:30 prior to the regularly scheduled game.

Manager Dick Williams said Gary Waslewski, the reliever who finished things this morning, will be back on the hill tonight where he will have to open things up against the feared Richie Allen, who already has four walks in the contest.

But Tanner is shifting his big guns around in hopes of shooting down the A's, who cling to a one game lead over the red-hot pale hose.

It will be Stan Bahnsen (15-11) hurling the mini-game tonight, but if it drags into more extra innings it could mean that Bahnsen could be lost for the regular rotation.

Bahnsen was supposed to go Saturday, but Tanner hopes to win quick tonight and then shoot the ex-Yankee on Sunday. And 19-game winner knuckleballer Wilbur Wood has been shifted from Sunday to Saturday's starting role.

Naturally, those who were taken out of play can't come back in when the contest resumes tonight and there were rumors both teams might recall players from their farm clubs in hopes they could fill in if the game drags on.

The White Sox almost won twice Thursday but blew leads each time.

They went ahead 1-0 in the second inning off Ken Holtzman but Oakland fought back with two in the eighth with league-leading hitter Joe Rudi hitting a key triple.

Pat Kelly hit a triple and a wild pitch brought home a Chisox run in the 13th but the A's tied it up in their half of the inning as pinch-hitter Gene Tenace socked a key single with two down.

WESTCHESTER TOURNAMENT

Positive Thinking Helps Golfer Weaver Take 1st

HARRISON, N.Y. (UPI)— Positive thinking helped Dewitt Weaver rip off an eight under par 64 for the first round lead in the $250,000 Westchester Golf Classic but positive playing had moneybags Jack Nicklaus only one shot behind heading into the second round today.

Weaver, playing with a brand new putter he bought in a Wichita pro shop on Tuesday, shook himself out of a long dry spell of negative thinking and knocked in eight birdies en route to a 33-31—64. Nicklaus hit a 50-foot chip shot for an eagle on the 500-yard, par 5 12th hole during a round of 33-32-65 and shared second place with Steve Melnyk, who strung together five birdies in a row including one on a 70-foot wedge shot, while posting 31-34 —65.

TOPPING PAR

In all, 55 players bettered the par 72 of the 6,700 yard course at the Westchester Co untry Club and, with more bright, cool weather in prospect, second round scores figured to be almost as hot.

For Weaver, who admitted he had been under pressure and thinking negatively since becoming the surprise winner of the U.S. Professional Match Play Championship last year, the 64 was his best round since joining the PGA tour in 1964. He attributed it to his "100 percent changed attitude," not the new putter.

LAYOFF

Nicklaus was playing positive again after an enforced layoff of several days before last week's Professional Golfers Association championship because of minor surgery to relieve an infection on his right forefinger.

"I'm getting back into the normal routine after those days off," said Nicklaus. "The last time I hit the ball so well was in the U.S. Open."

49ers Start Brodie At Quarterback

SANTA BARBARA (UPI)—It will be John Brodie at quarterback Sunday when the San Francisco 49ers host Cleveland at Candlestick Park.

Coach Dick Nolan indicated Thursday that the veteran signal-caller would probably go all the way since backup man Steve Spurrier went the distance against New York Jets.

Meanwhile, defensive end Cedrick Hardman went through his first contact drill Thursday and said he felt fine. He expressed optimism he would be in top shape for the league opener with San Diego Sept. 17.

In other developments, the coaching staff said at least five of the 15 rookies still in training camp had a good chance of making the squad. They included wide receivers Terry Beasley of Auburn and Allen Dunbar of Southern University, defensive backs Windlan Hall of Arizona State and Ralph McGill of Tulsa and offensive lineman Jean Barrett of Tulsa.

Softball Results

Rich Quinn belted two doubles and two singles to knock in four runs and lead Death to a 12-8 win over Isi last night in the San Rafael adult softball league. Zappetini shutout Alpine Tree Service, 7-0 in another game.

'GOOD DEPTH'

North To Give Everyone A Try

By LEW CODDINGTON

The North is an equal-opportunity employer.

"Everybody will get a look on both offense and defense," said assistant (it still sounds strange) coach Bob Muster yesterday just before his charges took the field for an afternoon practice at San Rafael High School.

The team of graduated seniors from the four northernmost high schools in the Marin County Athletic League area will meet a team from the four southern schools next Friday in the seventh annual Ross Valley Kiwanis Club North-South game. Kickoff is at 8 p.m. at San Rafael.

"We've got awfully good depth," said North coach Dave Wylie, normally an assistant to Muster at San Rafael. "We'll be trying to double up when we can."

The North has an especially fierce competition going at halfback, with Scott Duncan of San Rafael, Leo Magers of Novato, John Buckley of Terra Linda and Marty Larsen of San Marin battling for the spot.

Buckley and Larsen were wide receivers for their respective schools last fall, but Wylie intends to use a full-house backfield. Top fullback candidates

Miss Hislop Fourth In AAU Swim Meet

I-J Special Report

HERSHEY, Pa. — It took Jo Hislop only a shade over two minutes to do what other Marin Aquatic Club female swimmers have been trying to do for years.

Miss Hislop, 17, of San Rafael, finished fourth yesterday in the 200 meter freestyle in 2:12.4 in the National Amateur Athletic Union Open Swim Championships here, the best showing of her career.

"That earned the club 15 points, the most points our women have ever scored in the nations," said MAC coach Don Swartz. "It was a real fine swim for her, and she's real excited about it. She worked hard for something like this."

Her time barely missed matching the 2:12.1 that earned her a trip to the recent Olympic trials, but "it was a slow pool because it was so shallow," said Swartz.

Maura Campion, 14, of Terra Linda, finished 18th in the 400 individual medley in 5:30.7, well under her previous best of 5:34.3. She missed the consolation finals by two places. "She was seeded 40th, so she came up some 20 places," Swartz said.

Two other Marin Aquatic Club swimmers were scheduled to go today — Denisa Ham of San Rafael in the women's 200 butterfly and Spencer Eldred of Tiburon in the men's 200 breaststroke.

Meanwhile, Peter Dahlberg of the Gator-Aid Swim Club of Indiana, American record-holder in the 100-meter breast stroke, won the event in 1:07.41.

In the women's 100 breast, Veronica Stroup of Suburban Swim Club in Newtown Square, Pa., triumphed with a time of 1:19.785.

Andrew Strenk, 1968 Olympian and former Pan American Games swimmer, captured the men's 200 in 1:56.192, while Sandi Johnson of Arden Hills, Calif., won the women's free with a clocking of 2:10.735.

Italian Club Wins DiMaggio

Gene Frey pitched a two-hitter and Jeff Vogel belted a two-run homer yesterday as Italian Club defeated Toby's Truckers, 6-1, at Novato High to earn the South championship of the Joe DiMaggio Baseball League.

The victory propelled Italian Club (11-1-1) into the league championship playoff against North champion Annex Motors (9-5) beginning tomorrow at Albert Park in San Rafael.

The teams will clash twice, with the first game slated for 6 p.m., in the best-of-three series. Third game, if necessary, will be played at Novato High Sunday at 2 p.m. The winner will represent Marin County in next weekend's Regional tournament, also at Albert Park.

Italian Club and Toby's each entered yesterday's game with 10-1 records, having played each other a 10-inning tie earlier in tha season. They were equal again until the fifth inning, when Italian Club scored four runs to decide the issue. Up to that point, Frey and rival Jim Petray each had one-hit shutouts going.

Hockey Loop In $48 Million Suit Vs. NHL

BOSTON (UPI)—The World Hockey Association within two weeks will file a federal antitrust suit against the National Hockey League, asking $48 million in damages and seeking to have the NHL reserve clause overturned, the president of the WHA announced today.

In addition, said Gary L. Davidson, president ihtdent of the new professional hockey league, "The WHA will discuss with the U.S. Justice Department aspects of the activities of the NHL that might have criminal aspects under antitrust law."

At a news conference, Davidson said the federal antitrust suit will seek $1 million in damages per team in the WHA —for a total of $12 million—and an additional $36 million in "punitive damages."

Performance Stuns Dodger

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Willie Crawford was stunned by his performance Thursday night.

The Los Angeles outfielder crashed four hits, including his sixth homer, and drove in four runs to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 6-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Crawford, who had only one hit in his previous 19 at-bats, admitted he was in a "daze" twice during the game because of his hitting heroics. His bases loaded single in the seventh snapped a 2-2 tie but Crawford was thrown out trying for second. "I should have gotten there," he admitted. "I was in kind of a daze and watched the ball instead of running. Maybe it's because I haven't been playing so much lately."

Crawford also found himself with another problem in the ninth. "I was in kind of a daze after getting those four hits. I walked up to the plate in the ninth inning with a broken bat." Claude Osteen, with relief help from Jim Brewer, gained his 13th victory and benefitted from the Dodgers' 16-hit attack against four Cincinnati pitchers.

In the only other National League games scheduled, the Houston Astros beat the Atlanta Braves 9-6 and the Chicago Cubs blanked the Montreal Expos 8-0.

Tommy Helms tripled in two runs during a three-run seventh inning that carried the Astros over Atlanta. Mike Lum's homer had brought the Braves into a 5-5 tie when Houston loaded the bases in the seventh. A fielder's choice brought in one run and Helms tripled home two more. Lum had four RBIs for the Braves.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Both Divisional Races Tighten

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Would you believe the Chicago White Sox vs. the New York Yankees in the American League playoffs this year?

The possibility still seems somewhat far fetched but the two clubs, given almost no chance only a month ago, must now be rated definite contenders in their respective divisions.

Both clubs were eight games off the pace in July but they have to be taken seriously now. Chicago, now trailing Oakland by just one game in the Western Division, battled the A's to a standoff 3-3 in a 17-inning thriller before the game was suspended because of the curfew. Third place New York made it three out of four over Detroit in tha Eastern Division with a 1-0 verdict that left the Yanks just two games behind the Tigers.

KLINE

Steve Kline, boasting his record to 13-4, stopped the Tigers on three hits over the first eight innings. But Manager Ralph Houk still called on his relief ace, Sparky Lyle, to start the ninth inning.

Explaining his decision, Houk said, "I hesitated about taking Kline out but I said to myself I'd be the dumbest guy who ever lived if I didn't make the move. The percentages had to be with me because they had their left-handed batters coming up. I would have taken out any right-handed pitcher in that situation."

LYLE TOUGH

But the move almost backfired when Gates Brown led off with a double and the Tigers eventually loaded the bases on with the help of an infield single and a walk. Lyle, however,struck out pinch-hitter Ike Brown to end the game as the crowd of 45,154 roared.

Kline didn't complain about being lifted again. "The man was right," he said, "even if the first two guys hit homers, he was right. The way Lyle is pitching, you've got to bring him in."

Kline is pitching well, too. He's only leading the league with a 1.69 ERA and has given up just two earned runs in his last six starts. But Lyle, who has 26 saves, has been sensational and Houk likes to have him in at the end.

THE RUN

Joe Coleman, who's lost three 1-0 games, was beaten when the Yanks got their only run in the fourth inning on Bobby Murcer's double, an infield out and Johnny Callison's infield single.

In the only other two games, Milwaukee beat Baltimore 1-0 to leave the Orioles in second place in the East and California beat Minnesota 3-1.

Baltimore touched Gary Ryerson for 10 hits but couldn't get a run as the Orioles were beaten by Milwaukee. The victory snapped a five-game Brewer losing streak. Jim Palmer (15-5) took the loss when he was touched for run in the sixth inning. Bob Heise led off and stretched a single into a double with alert baserunning, moved to third on a sacrifice and scored on George Scott's bloop single.

Andy Kosco and Ken McMullen hit back-to-back homers in the second inning to support Rudy May's five-hit pioching as California stopped Minnesota. May struck out 16 to tie the club record set by Nolan Ryan earlier this year. The consecutive homers came off loser Ray Corbin and snapped a 1-1 tie.

Tanzania Leaving The Olympic Games

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

MUNICH, Germany — Willi Daume, president of the Olympic Organizing Committee, Thursday refused to comment on the alleged withdrawal of Tanzania from the games because of Rhodesia's participation.

"I heard the news on the radio, but we have no official information yet", Duame said.

Sierra Leone withdraw for financial reasons earlier.

An Olympic spokesman said Tanzania's withdrawal came as no surprise following confirmation that Rhodesia would participate as a British Colony.

Baseball

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — New Orleans' colossal new superdome will not have major league baseball, at least at the start, club owners and general managers decided Thursday in the wrapup joint meeting.

Basketball

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Flyers, in a brief statement Thursday, said they have "acquired" the contract of All-Star winger John McKenzie from the Boston Bruins.

There is one problem — McKenzie already has left the National Hockey League to become player-coach of the Philadelphia-Blazers, the Flyers' World Hockey Association rivals here. Thus, a legal battle looms.

Marin Net Favorite Gains Tourney Final

Nothing personal, you understand, but 35 girls from the Bay Area will be trying very hard to beat Carrie Zarraonandia's brains out next week.

In San Francisco they have been trying all this week to knock her out of the San Francisco City Junior tennis championships at Golden Gate Park. But yesterday she defeated top-seeded Marisa Louie to advance to the girls 14 finals.

Miss Zarraonandia, from San Rafael, is seeded first in the girls 14 singles in the 14th annual Marin County Hardcourt Tennis Tournament, which will run Monday through Saturday at the Mill Valley Tennis Club.

The 13-year-old Miss Zarraonandia earned a title match in the city tourney today against Peanut Louie, Marisa's sister, by turning back Marisa, 6-4, 6-2. Peanut gained the final round with a 6-3, 6-2 victory over Sue Rasmussen.

Miss Zarraonandia also advanced in the girls 14 doubles as she and her partner Diane DeMartini of Greenbrae defeated Jennifer Amdur of Coral Gables, Fla., and Sarah Blackman of Hayward in straight sets, 6-1, 6-0.

Miss Zarraonandia heads a field of six seeded Marinites among the 400-odd players in the Marin tournament. The others are Sue Beatty of Tiburon, fourth in girls 18 and sixth in girls 16; Laurie James of Tiburon, eighth in girls 16; Charles Bolcom in Belvedere, second in boys 12; Henry Jacobson of Belvedere, fourth in boys 16; and Marcus Robinson of Mill Valley, seventh in boys 16.

Top-seeded boys are Butch Walts of Fresno, 18; Eric Lee of San Francisco, 16; Chip Hooper of Sunnyvale, 14; and Matthew Murphy of Alameda, 12.

are Mark Farrar of San Rafael and Terry Johnson of Novato.

"We haven't had many all-out hits yet," said Wylie, "so I'd hate to single anybody out, but Russ Weklych (Novato) has looked good for us at offensive tackle and defensive end, and Duke Bessee (San Rafael) has looked good at tight end."

The end opposite Bessee will be Greg Straw of Novato, the coaches noted.

The quarterback situation remains fluid. "Marty Moroski (Novato) is throwing well, but Kevin Donohoe (Terra Linda) is coming along. Moroski has had a couple of extra days of work. Both will see plenty of action."

Every player chosen for the squad has shown up for practice, and there have been no injuries "except for bumps and bruises," Wylie said.

"They're learning quickly," Muster interjected. "They're a smart group, and experienced. They won't be overconfident."

"I really don't know how to evaluate the South," said Wylie. "I do know we'll both be playing even-man fronts on defense. They have a good defensive front from what I know. They have all those Marin Catholic players, who are an unknown quantity."

Tickets for the game cost $3 for adults and $2.50 for students and are available at 17 locations throughout the county.

McKown stood in second place in the overall standings after Tuesday, with Wibroe third. Wednesday's race was called off due to strong winds and high seas.

PRO FOOTBALL

Frustrating Start For Oiler Coach

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Bill Peterson is getting a frustrating introduction to professional football.

The former collegiate coach, in his first-year at the helm of the Houston Oilers, has watched his club lose its first two exhibition games by a total of five points. To make matters worse, the club blew a sure tie Thursday night because of a mental error and suffered a 20-17 loss to the Chicago Bears.

A GESTURE

The Oilers and the Bears seemed destined to play to a 17-17 deadlock although the Bears made what seemed like a futile gesture to win the game when Mac Percival attempted a 60-yard field goal on a free kick. The Bears had taken a punt on a fair catch with 15 seconds left and a seldom used rule allows a free kick field goal attempt after a fair catch.

Naturally, Percival's attempt was short and, as the ball bounced near the Oiler goal line, Houston kick return artist Linzy Cole failed to down the ball. He just stood there watching it bounce when linebacker L.D. Rowden dove on the ball to give the Bears possession on the Houston one yard line with five seconds left.

FIELD GOAL

Houston was beaten by Dallas 26-24 in its first exhibition game last week but that loss wasn't that difficult to take since the Cowboys are the defending Super Bowl champions.

Chicago is now 1-1 in the exhibition season after it suffered a 24-10 loss to the Kansas City Chiefs last week in South Bend, Ind.

The Chicago-Houston game kicked off a busy weekend of exhibition action. Denver is at Washington in the only game tonight and eight games are scheduled on Saturday..

The gypsy New York Jets, who are kept out of Shea Stadium by the Mets until the baseball season ends, meet Pittsburgh at Seattle in a contest that is supposed to test Seattle interest in pro football. Seattle is trying to get a franchise.

OTHER ACTION

In night action Saturday, Buffalo is at New Orleans, Detroit is at Cincinnati, St. Louis is at Kansas City, Green Bay is at Miami, San Diego is at Minnesota, Dallas is at Los Angeles and New England faces the Eagles at Franklin Field in Philadelphia.

On Sunday, Cleveland is at San Francisco in a day game and on Monday night, the long weekend is concluded when Baltimore is at Oakland.

Chicago tied the Houston game at 17-17 when rookie running back Roger Lawson ran nine yards for a touchdown and Percival added the conversion with 1:54 remaining in the game to set the stage for the strange ending.

DOUGLASS SCORE

Quarterback Bobby Douglass scored the Bears' other touchdown on a one-yard dive with 17 seconds remaining in the third quarter. Besides his game-winning field goal, Percival kicked a 28-yarder in the second period.

Lynn Dickey, who is trying to beat Dan Pastorini out of the starting Oiler quarterback job, passed for both Houston touchdowns on the Oilers' first two possessions of the game. He hit Ken Burrough on a 45-yard scoring pass on Houston's first play and then passed 47 yards to Charlie Joiner for the other score. Mark Moseley added the other Houston score on a 20-yard field goal in the third period.

Knicks Beaten By Lodi, 3-1, In Key Clash

The Knicks bunched three of their four hits in the second inning, scoring once on a double by Jerry Thompson nd single by Wally Campbell, but left runners on first and second to end the inning. They got only one other runner to second the rest of the game, as Lodi's Pat Doyle struck out 14.

The route will take riders to Petaluma via Nicasio and Red Hill, through the Chileno Valley to Two Rock and Valley Ford, along State Highway No. 1 to Point Reyes and back through Nicasio to the Civic Center.

A car will be available to carry lunches to Valley Ford, where the ride will stop for lunch. The car will not carry spare parts, so each rider should make provisions for emergencies, the club said.

FISH AND GAME

Split Schedules For Dove Hunting Season

By AL GIDDINGS

The California Fish and Game commission has adopted a split 46-day statewide dove hunting season and separate 30-day straight band-tailed pigeon seasons for the northern and southern areas. The commission took the actions July 28 in Fort Bragg.

Seasons and limits will be substantially the same as those for last year, with a dove limit of 10 per day, 20 in possession after opening day, and a band-tail limit of eight per day, eight in possession.

The dove season will open Friday, Sept. 1, continue through Saturday, Sept. 30, reopen statewide Saturday, Nov. 25, and run through Sunday, Dec. 10.

In the northern area the band-tailed pigeon season will open Saturday, Sept. 30, and close Sunday, Oct. 29. The season in the balance of the state will be Saturday, Dec. 16 to Sunday, Jan. 14, 1973.

In other action, commissioners: Adopted regulations restricting the use of pesticide fogging devices on state-managed wild-life management areas and established 50-cent daily and a $5 annual user fee on Spenceville Wildlife Management Area in Nevada and Yuba counties.

APPROVED THE PURCHASE of a five-acre mill locale in the Avawatz Mountains, San Bernardino County, to preserve a water source for big horn sheep.

Approved the acceptance by the Dept. of Fish and Game of about 36½ acres of land and water at the Sacramento River and the mouth of Miner Slough in Solano County to preserve wildlife habitat.

Commissioners also approved publication of notice of their intention to establish an ecological reserve in the Farnsworth Bank near Catalina Island for the protection of the rare purple coral.

Confirmed after hearings were emergency commission actions that banned the importation of certain species of live catfish and closed to hunting the 1,100 acre enclosure for transplanted bighorn sheep in the Lava Beds National Monument, Siskiyou County.

More than half a mile of ecologically-valuable shoreline in northern Sonoma County is being dedicated to the Department of Fish and Game for preservation as an ecological reserve.

THE PROPERTY IS presently owned by developers of Sea Ranch, a large coastline residential development, which is giving the land to the/DFG so its unique biological values can be preserved.

Sea Ranch will also grant an easement between Highway 1 and the shoreline to provide for public access to the reserve.

The 3,100 foot long section of the coast has been in private ownership for many years, and Department of Fish and Game marine biologists say it represents as area almost untouched by human use, making it valuable for scientific study as well as an unusual and attractive area for persons interested in the seashore.

Under Department of Fish and Game regulations, all forms of marine and tidepool life will be protected, although fishing with a hook and line will be permitted.

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE shoreline ecological reserve has been approved by the State Fish and Game Commission, pending dedication of the pedestrian access easement.

The Department of Fish and Game will stock catchable-size trout this week in the main branch of the Russian River below Squaw Rock in Mendocino County, Upper Blue Lake in Lake County and in the Big Sur River in Monterey County.

Successful applicants for permits for the special antelope hunt in Modoc, Lassen, Shasta and Siskiyou counties August 27-Sept. 4, are being or have been notified, the DFG announced today.

The drawing for 380 permits for adult male antelope was held Aug. 3 at Department of Fish and Game headquarters in Sacramento. Persons whose names were drawn have only until Aug. 15 to claim their permits, said James Christopher, Department of Fish & Game license chief, and unclaimed permits will go to alternates.

CHRISTOPHER SAID permits will be issued to the successful applicants on payment of the $15 fee. A total of 8,344 persons applied for permits in the hunt this year.

And last, but not least, Hugo Lenci of San Rafael caught a 20-pound salmon this past week in the ocean. Bob Locke, wielder of the sharp needle said, "And he didn't use a pitch fork to land it either!"

Raiders Pleased By High-Round Draftee Thomas

For instance, they picked defensive back Skip Thomas of USC in the seventh round or No. 174 among the choices and now everybody is high on the 200-pounder.

The word was that he lacked speed, but Oakland General Manager Al Davis says he is fast enough and all-pro cornerback Willie Brown, who has helped Thomas in the secrets of the position, says "there's no question he has got all the physical tools to be a real good one."

Seattle Swaps Kojis, Cross To Kansas City

SEATTLE (UPI) —The Seattle SuperSonics of the National Basketball Association have swapped forward Don Kojis and center Pete Cross to the Kansas City Kings for 6-foot-10 center Jim Fox and "future considerations."

Fox, 29, is a much-traveled veteran of five years in the NBA with a scoring average of a little better than 10 points per game.

The Kings get nine years of NBA experience in Kojis and strength at either center or forward in Cross, an NBA sophomore who became a mainstay at center for the Sonics last season and part of the previous season when injuries forced veterans to the bench.

O'Halloran Tips Clark For State Boxing Crown

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Jack O'Halloran, a 6-foot-6 244-pound brawler, scored an upset split decision over California heavyweight champion Henry Clark of San Francisco Wednesday night to win the state title.

Clark, 215, who held the title since 1967, was unable to avoid O'Halloran's left jabs and right hand body punches until the seventh round and by then O'Halloran had built up too much of a lead. O'Halloran, who moved to San Diego from Boston last March, was ahead on points on the scorecard of one judge and the referee while the other judge gave the fight to Clark.

There were no knockdowns in the 10-round bout.

Freitas In Second Champs Tourney Try

(Final in a Series)

Chuck Freitas got married last summer, which was bad news for his golf game. Now he's had a year to regain his touch, and that's bad news for the five golfers he will face Sunday, 9 a.m., in the sixth annual Marin County Tournament of Champions. Admission is free.

Freitas will represent San Geronimo National for the second straight year in the tourney of champs, which will be played at Marin Country Club in Novato. The event pits the representatives of Marin County's six regulation courses against each other in scratch medal play. Last year at Peacock Gap in San Rafael, Freitas finished with a 78, tied for second behind Mat Palacio Jr.

But a lot has changed since then, not the least of which is the caliber of Freitas' golf. Since last July he has shaved two strokes off his handicap and now carries a four. Freitas says there's no comparison between his play now and a year ago.

Freitas, an electrician with McMillan Electric Co. of San Francisco, has also played more this year. He married his wife Marsha last July, and consequently didn't get to practice much for the tournament. "I play every Saturday probably 27 holes, and nine holes a couple of times a week," he says.

Freitas has been a member of San Geronimo for three years, but has never played Marin Country Club. "I know its a tight course," he says, "but I'm playing pretty good this year, so I don't think it will make any difference."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Mapping No-Trump Action Can Leave A Player Dizzy

When you're planning the play of a hand at no-trump, count the number of times you must give the lead to the opponents and then calculate how much damage they can do to you. Many no-trump hands develop into a race to set up and run a long suit; and you must Keep one eye on the opponents and the other on your hand to estimate which side will win the race. It's a good way to get cross-eyed.

You hold:
♠ - K 4
♥ - K 6
♦ - Q 9 5 3 2
♣ - K Q 10 6.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds. Avoid jumping to two-no-trump when you have two doubletons or any other kind of unbalanced distribution. The best game (or even slam) contract may be in diamonds or clubs.

South dealer
Both sides vulnerable

	NORTH ♠ K 4 ♥ 5 ♦ Q 9 5 3 2 ♣ K Q 10 6
WEST ♠ J 10 9 8 6 ♥ A J 10 9 ♦ 4 ♣ 8 7 4		EAST ♠ 7 5 3 2 ♥ 8 5 2 ♦ A 10 8 7 ♣ 9 5
	SOUTH ♠ A Q ♥ Q 7 4 3 ♦ K J 6 ♣ A J 3 2

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	3 NT	All Pass

Opening lead — ♠ J

WHICH RED ONE?

South couldn't afford to knock out both red aces. After the first ace, the opponents would lead a second spade. After the second ace, they would cash enough spades to defeat the contract.

South's best chance was to develop the diamonds. He won the first spade trick with the queen, entered dummy with a club and led a diamond toward his hand.

East couldn't afford to hop up with the ace of diamonds, for then South would play low and would later take four diamond tricks. When East played a low diamond, South won with the king.

NEXT STEP

The next step was to enter dummy again with a club and lead another diamond through East. Once more East had to play low, and South won with the jack.

West's discard made it clear that the diamonds were not going to break well. By this time, however, South had two diamond tricks comfortably-tucked away. He could now afford to lead a heart to make sure of one heart trick. Three tricks in the red suits added to the six sure tricks in the black suits gave him his game contract.

FATAL ERROR

It would be a fatal error for South to lead diamonds from his own hand. East would be delighted to capture an honor with his ace of diamonds, for this would limit declarer to two diamond tricks. East would establish the spades while South still could win only eight tricks.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Dear Mr. Quiz:

Last spring I had to write a school essay about a famous novelist. I chose Leo Tolstoy, the Russian author of "War and Peace." But my reference books disagreed about his birthdate. One said he was born on August 28th and the other said September 9th. How could one of these major encyclopedias be so wrong? I guessed and put down the August date, hoping I was right. Was I? Signed: Class of '73.

Dear '73:

Lucky for you, both dates are correct! That's right, because one is based on the Julian Calendar and the other on the Gregorian Calendar. It's almost too complicated to explain here, but let me try. The Old Style Calendar put into effect by Julius Caesar got out of step with the seasons, because it was off by 11 and a quarter minutes each year. This amounted to 7 days by the time Roger Bacon found out about it. A correction was ordered by Pope Gregory XIII for Thursday, Oct. 4, 1582. He decreed the next day would be Friday, Oct. 15, 1582. Whisssh! Ten days disappeared. That put the calendar in sync with the universe. The trouble is that Russia did not adopt the Gregorian Calendar until 1918.

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS TODAY

2. Mike Douglas's real name is Michael D. Dowd, Jr.
3. President Taft fired conservationist Gifford Pinchot from the U.S. Forest Service for insubordination.

The Facts About Funerals

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Every culture has its own views on the importance — or lack of importance — of a person's deceased body. And while Americans have no monolithic beliefs on the subject, all households must at some time know the facts and laws on funerals, as well as the costs.

"What are the alternatives available to a traditional funeral, to reduce this expense to a surviving widow? Particularly alternatives that might be arranged well before the need?"

It would be possible, of course, to omit the memorial service at the funeral home and hold it at a church or at a family home. Some churches make no charge. If there is a fee, it is a small one.

Another answer is cremation. An increasing number of people are choosing that alternative. Many of them do so for the reason you mention — to avoid the high cost of the average funeral service.

Another factor in this increase is the fact that cremations are no longer banned by the Roman Catholic Church. Jews, also, now are free to make this choice if they wish.

Although ecology does not appear to enter into this decision making at the present time, it may well do so in the future. For it is becoming increasingly difficult to obtain space for a burial ground close to a city or suburban community.

Costs for burials could be substantially reduced by the selection of a cloth-covered casket instead of a metal one that is generally suggested by the funeral home and is much more expensive.

Richard Stevens, president of the Continental Funeral and Memorial Association in Chicago, suggests this as a sensible economy. A traditional funeral, with the use of this type of casket, would cost around $380, he estimates. This would include a complete service, use of the chapel in the funeral home, and transportation.

With cremation, funeral costs are much lower. The average cost in the Chicago area, Mr. Stevens reports, is around $260 and in some cases no more than $210.

In California, prices are about $300 or $400 lower than in the Chicago area for a traditional funeral service, he estimates, and from $100 to $120 lower in the case of cremation.

There is a vast difference between the cost of a traditional funeral with all the formalities and a simple cremation with, perhaps, a memorial service in the chapel, church, or home.

In both cases, arrangements must be made through an authorized funeral home. Few of these advertise low-cost services. Nor do they generally quote a minimum fee unless requested to do so.

Cremation involves the crematory charge, which is about $125. In addition, the funeral home adds its charge for services in obtaining the required documents such as a death certificate and other necessary papers from city authorities.

This charge varies according to the rates of the funeral home with which one may deal. In the Washington area one home which advertises low rates charges $235, covering all costs of cremation.

If there is a family lot and ashes were interred, there would be a cemetary charge of $40 or more. Cemetery costs vary from city to city and are higher where the workers are unionized.

The cost on an average conventional funeral is about $1,600. One home gave $750 as a minimum. For a large funeral, with pomp and ceremony, the cost would amount to $9,000 or even higher.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Secondary Offering Won't Hinder Price

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have held shares of Howard Johnson for several years. I notice that they have recently announced a secondary offering of 1,150,000 shares. Will this have a detrimental effect on the price of the stock? Also, would you explain exactly what a secondary offering is? — S.W.

A. The term secondary applies to a stock distribution of shares that are already issued and outstanding, rather than shares newly issued by a corporation. When a holder or group of holders wish to sell a large block of shares, this method of distribution is utilized in order to avoid undermining the share price. Dealers involved in the offering sell the shares directly to new buyers without going through a stock exchange.

The number of such distributions has risen dramatically since mid-1970. In 1971, 505 secondaries were registered with the Securities & Exchange Commission; in 1970, only 206. In the first four months of this year 210 offerings had been registered for an annualized rate of 630. In part, the upsurge is attributable to the 1969 Tax Reform Act. Under this law, charitable foundations may hold only 20 per cent of the stock in a single corporarion. Further, foundations are now required to make grants of 4⅞ per cent (up to 5½ per cent by 1975) of total market value of their assets. This has forced many to sell low income growth holdings in order to achieve the necessary yield to meet the required percentage for grants.

RENT-A-PLANT

Overnight Success For Dallas Family

DALLAS (AP) — Business is almost too good, George Voneiff, 11, will tell you.

He knows what he's talking about, too, despite his lack of years. For almost a year he has been a quite successful businessman.

"My mother and I have always had a big interest in plants," George said Wednesday. "Ours seem to grow real well. When a woman in my mother's office said she couldn't get anything to grow, we joked and said we'd rent her one of our."

At that point the woman took them up on the offer. So George, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Voneiff, launched himself off into the rent-a-plant business. He charged 50 cents a month and found other customers easily interested and satisfied.

"At the end of the month we would either pick a plant up, leave it or bring another plant," George said.

"Our business is called DGEM. That stands for Daddy, George, Elizabeth his sister, 9 and Mother. When DGEM had collected about $50, I decided to open a savings account."

George sells some plants and several florists are among the buyers.

Now he has branched out a bit — to plant-sitting.

"We will keep plants for anyone who wants to go on vacation," he said.

Reagan's Architect Gets Mansion Job

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan's private architect has been awarded a state contract to plan a new governor's mansion in Sacramento, it was reported today.

William Stephenson, 60, a Los Angeles architect who designed Reagan's seaview Pacific Palisades home, was selected by the Reagan administration to submit what it termed "a program" for the estimated $1 million mansion.

Reagan's press secretary, Edwin Gray, said the $5,000 contract was signed this week. There was no public bidding, but Gray said that was normal for architectural awards.

The contract award was first reported by the Riverside Press-Enterprise, which said Stephenson had two months to complete the work.

State Architect Fred Hummel, who hired Stephenson after his recommendation by the governor's office, told the newspaper he assumed Reagan and his wife "were favorable to him because he did a good job for them."

The 1972 legislature appropriated $150,000 for preliminary plans and site preparation for a mansion to be built on an 11-acre wooded site overlooking the American River east of Sacramento.

The Reagans moved out of the official century-old governor's mansion in downtown Sacramento early in 1967. Mrs. Reagan called the place a noisy firetrap.

Since then the state has been paying the Reagans' $15,000 per year rent for a $150,000 home owned by a group of the governor's close political associates and friends.

Stephenson designed Reagan's Pacific Palisades home in 1956 when Reagan was a television star. The architect also has designed homes for singer Tony Martin, orchestra leader Paul Weston and actress Lorraine Day.

Stephenson was selected by Hummel from a list of seven architects.

"I thought it was a fine selection," said Hummel, while acknowledging Stephenson was not one of his recommendations.

Stephenson previously drew preliminary architectural plans for a proposed mansion when a group of Reagan supporters conducted an unsuccessful fund- raising campaign to collect $550,000 for a new governor's home in 1968-69. Only $130,000 was collected.

If Stephenson's general architectural proposal wins the approval of the Reagan administration and key legislators, Hummel said, he will be awarded a contract for detailed design.

Tiburon To Buy A New Pumper

Directors of the Tiburon Fire Protection District have voted to purchase a $56,895 pumper and fire truck.

Chief Franklin J. Buscher said low bid on the completely equipped vehicle was received from Ward LaFrance of Elmira, N.Y.

The purchase will bring the district's vehicle force to three engines, tanker, aerial ladder truck and squad truck.

LABOR OF LOVE — The contrasting sides of this old building next to the San Geronimo Presbyterian Church display a before-and-after look as a group of visiting teen-agers works with a will to fix it up. The youngsters from San Diego have spent a week in Marin rehabilitating church properties in Point Reyes Station and San Geronimo. During yesterday's stint they described their "working tour" as a labor of love, an expression of Christianity.

Shriver End-War Claim Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Secretary of State William P. Rogers accused Sargent Shriver today of engaging in "political fantasy" by saying President Nixon failed to take advantage of an opportunity to end the Vietnam War in 1969. (See page 2 for Shriver story.)

Shriver, Democratic vice presidential candidate who was U.S. ambassador in Paris at the time, said Thursday Nixon "blew it" by not seizing what Shriver called a "historic opportunity" to make peace the year he took office.

At a news conference, Rogers was asked to comment on Shriver's charge. He said he had noted the candidate's remarks with "some interest — and I think it's political fantasy". Rogers said he had found no evidence of Shriver referring to any "historic opportunity" during thorough checks of all communications from Shriver up to and including his letter of resignation as Paris ambassador.

'NO MENTION'

Rogers said he also talked with Henry Cabot Lodge and all members of the U.S. negotiating teams in Paris and that all of them said that Shriver never mentioned any such opportunity nor suggested any solutions "which we were not pursuing." Lodge is former U.S. ambassador to the peace talks.

If Shriver ever knew of any such chance, he failed to mention it to President Nixon, the secretary of state, or any other official, Rogers claimed.

Rogers also came out swinging at critics of the President's Vietnam policy, speaking with an intensity and fervor quite unlike his usual, calm delivery.

He also accused former Attorney General Ramsey Clark of "contemptible" action in broadcasting over Hanoi radio a criticism of Nixon's policy of bombing North Vietnam.

He said he had listened to recording of a broadcast that Clark allegedly made while in Hanoi and "I am frank to say that I was shocked."

'BEYOND BELIEF'

Rogers said he was "surprised that he went to North Vietnam." But he added, to hear the voice of a former U.S. attorney general, "a man involved in the decisions which sent a half a million men to North Vietnam", now criticizing Nixon's policy while American airmen were still being killed in action, "to me was contemptible —to me it is beyond belief. I would think the American people would be shocked."

As for Shriver's remarks, Rogers said Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has told him Shriver informed him in 1969 that he supported Nixon's Vietnamization program.

Prior to Rogers' blast —an unusual foray into partisan politics for a secretary of state — the White House had refused to comment on Shriver's allegation, saying the "appropriate place to address questions about ambassadors is at the State Department."

Saigon Tells Victory As U.S. Unit Leaves

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnamese infantrymen alerted by a captured Communist soldier today smashed a half-naked North Vietnamese commando battalion which attacked the large Lai Khe base 30 miles from Saigon, military sources said.

The attack at Lai Khe by blackpainted guerrillas wearing loin cloths was the main point of a sudden offensive in which Communists bombarded towns all over South Vietnam today and launched commando raids as close as 22 miles to Saigon. Fighting also quickened in the Quang Tri area where South Vietnamese said they killed 234 Communists in the 24 hours ending at noon today.

The ground war became exclusively South Vietnamese today as the U.S. Coommand announced the deactivation of the last American ground combat unit in Vietnam — the 1,043-man Battalion of the 21st Infantry Regiment. U.S. air and naval support continued, however, with 44,000 servicemen in Vietnam.

The commando raid on Lai Khe was doomed at the start. A high military source said a South Vietnamese patrol two days ago captured a North Vietnamese reconnaissance soldier who had been separated from his unit near Highway 13. The source reported the soldier decided under questioning to join the South Vietnamese under the "Chieu Hoi" amnesty program, and in doing so told all the details on the planned Lai Khe assault.

The South Vietnamese said that in a little over 24 hours ending at dawn today the guerrillas shelled at least nine towns and followed up with ground attacks on five of them.

The heaviest fighting reported in South Vietnam was in the Quang Tri-Hue area in the northeastern part of South Vietnam where marines have been fighting to recapture Quang Tri city from the North Vietnamese.

In tha air war over North Vietnam bad weather held U.S. jet strikes to about 200 sorties Thursday, most of them well below the Hanoi area. Navy pilots reported destroying a locomotive and 12 boxcars.

Today's withdrawal puts American troop strength in Vietnam at 44,600, none of them ground combat troops. There are 40,000 other Americans aboard U.S. warships offshore, another 50,000 at air bases in Thailand and 10,000 on Guam where some of the B52s are based.

MARIN CHURCHES RENOVATED

27 Youths 'Enjoy Helping Others'

By PAT PERRY

With glasses sliding down her nose, tiny Molly Pollock shoved a long-handled paint roller up and down the ancient wooden siding of the former railroad station at San Geronimo yesterday afternoon.

The diminutive 14-year-old was spattered with yellow paint and dust as she puffed: "I really enjoy helping other people."

Up on a ladder, 17-year-old Steven Whyte was painting the five-foot-wide eaves. It was very hot and he had yellow and brown paint from head to foot. So what was a nice boy from San Diego doing in a place like this?

"I am a Christian. I just wanted to help other people," he called from the ladder.

Molly and Steven and 25 other high school students from east San Diego have spent this week working on the San Geronimo and Point Reyes Presbyterian churches.

They call it their Working Tour and that is exactly what the boys and girls have done.

The small church at Point Reyes (the congregation there numbers only 14) has been repainted inside and out.

At San Geronimo, they have cleared four-foot-high weeds from the perimeter of the Presbyterian church, exposing handsome junipers. They have cleaned up the children's playground, earting away loads of debris that had fallen from the pines and eucalyptus above.

They have removed the cross which leaned askew on the hill above the church and cementedit upright.

They dug up, drained and cleaned out the septic tank, put in a new pipe and got the whole thing working again.

They pulled out old dead ivy and shrubs in front of the Christian Education building and leveled the area with loads of stones. Then they constructed a 15-foot wide stairway of concrete blocks up the bank so children won't slip and slide in winter muds on their way to Sunday School.

Not to mention completely stripping the shabby shingles from the former railroad station next to the church, sanding down the original Victorian boards and painting them in authentic primrose and brown.

The teen-agers are all members of Trinity Presbyterian Church in Spring Valley, San Diego. Each paid $20 to join the working tour, money they had earned by working at $1.25 an hour for members of the congregation.

Other expenses of the tour were met by fund raising projects throughout the year.

They are accompanied by two men and two women and two college student advisors.

Lynn Failing, the church's youth director, said the invitation to work in San Geronimo was the result of 200 letters he sent to Northern California Churches. Last year they went to Monte Rio on the Russian River.

The students live in the church itself as sleeping bags stretch wall to wall and tables and chairs line the rear.

They work from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. each day and take showers at the San Geronimo Valley Country Club. The two women cook meals, the youngsters perform K.P. duties.

"Everyone in the community has been great to us," said Failing, praising the club for opening its facilities. "A girl rode by on a horse one day, got talking and the next thing we were all invited to use her family's swimming pool every day."

BUILDING PLANS DUE

Marin City Redevelopment Nears: 450 Homes As Start

By PAT ANGLE

Something is stirring in Marin City.

For nearly 15 years, the windswept acres in the heart of Marin City have lain vacant, a desert in the midst of flourishing Southern Marin.

Here is open space, not the kind conservationists fight for, but the barren vistas created by failure to turn unused, unwanted land into something better.

Long ago many governmental agencies and individuals promised residents that a total, self-supporting suburban community of homes, schools, stores and businesses would rise.

But years of inaction, disappointment and vain attempts to develop the community have soured the promises and dimmed the hope that Marin County Redevelopment Agency was capable of transforming Marin City.

Now it appears that the agency's past failures may be redeemed.

On Aug. 25, five development firms will present detailed proposals to the agency board for between 450 and 600 homes, to be built on part of the remaining 60 acres of redevelopment land now controlled by the agency. About 40 acres are earmarked for subsequent commercial and recreational development.

There have been proposals by developers before, but chiefly from firms which did not have the money to put their plans into practice. And, until recently, the redevelopment agency was incapable of accepting any offers which happened to come from serious, financially stable developers since it did not possess clear title to the redevelopment lands.

The title had been turned over to the community's first developer, California Development Co., in the agency's early days.

Despite its failure to complete its development contract, Cal Development had held title to the lowlands in a death grip until this January when in a

Sewer Plant Decision Ends Population Curb

By ERIK M. INGRAM

The Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District Board voted unanimously last night to increase capacity of its sewage treatment plant, thus paving the way for continued development in the valley.

The board's action came after nearly four hours of discussion and months of controversy in which some residents maintained the district should limit sewage treatment capabilities as a means of controlling population growth.

However, board members appeared in agreement last night that the district should be prepared to accommodate future growth as called for in the soon-to-be released Countywide General Plan.

Board approval, in effect, authorizesthe district's consulting engineer, Warren E. Nute of San Rafael, to submit expansion plans to the Regional Water Quality Control Board for approval.

The plans call for about $250,000 worth of improvements with about 80 per cent to be paid by the federal and state governments.

Nute's plans will ask control board endorsement for expanding plant capacity from the present 2.25 million gallons of waste treated each day to about 3 million.

Nute was told by the board to gear his plans toward a future population of between 30,000 and 40,000 residents — the actual number to be set by the countywide plan.

Currently the valley has about 27,000 residents scattered primarily among the small communities of Marinwood, Terra Linda, Santa Venetia and Lucas Valley.

Increasing the treatment plant's capacity — an interim measure required by the control board pending a complete overhaul of sewage treatment in Northern Marin — will also improve water quality.

Nute told the board the existing treatment plant, serving 27,000 residents, removes about 85 per cent of the impurities which feed on life sustaining oxygen in the water. The expansion, serving the same 27,000 residents, will remove about 91 per cent of these impurities. However, as population and the amount of sewage increase, water quality will decrease at the rate of about 1 per cent per 5,000 new residents.

Thus, if valley population

$23 Million Marin Ferry Net Passes

Construction of a $23 million high-speed ferry system — with a big "if" — was voted today by Golden Gate Bridge District directors.

The 13-3 vote to build the system was conditioned on approval by the federal government of a grant covering two-thirds of the cost.

A $12.6 million bid to build the first three ferries expires, however, on Aug. 21, allowing only 10 days for government approval of the grant.

The vice president of Campbell Industries of San Diego, the low bidder, told the Independent-Journal he doubted his firm would extend the deadline. "We've already lost out on other business waiting for this one," Jack G. Allen said.

District officials, however, predicted the federal grant will be approved before the contract deadline.

Today's vote capped five years of district study of its ferry system.

Each of the ferries would be 165 feet long and carry 750 passengers at 25 knots. Each would be powered by triple gas turbines and propelled by triple

Consultants Propose Closed Smog Sessions

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — Consultants to the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District have recommended that all district business first be screened behind closed doors in committees of district directors before public airing.

The recommendation is a reversal of the consultants' own finding several years ago that the district's suppression of information about polluters continues "to plague the district and may be contributing to a credibility gap of some degree."

The new proposal of secret meetings also would be at odds with a superior court ruling in June that the state's law against such meetings, the Ralph M. Brown Act, applies to committees of public agencies even when they meet with less than a quorum of the parent board.

The recommendation came in the final version of a $45,000, three-month study of the district by the San Francisco management consulting firm of Cresap, McCormick and Paget Inc.

The final report, paid for with public tax funds, was delivered to district offices on Wednesday. This made the report a public record under California law, but district officials refused to let it be seen publicly until copies were delivered to all district officials.

The report was stamped: "Confidential and intended solely for the information and benefit of the immediate recipient hereof." No copies are available for the public to have, but copies may be viewed at district offices, 939 Ellis Street.

The board of directors will hold an all-day hearing on the report starting at 9:30 a.m. Thursday in the district offices.

Fischer Has Three-Point Chess Lead

REYKJAVIK (UPI)—Bobby Fischer, refusing to concede a draw, today defeated Boris Spassky in their 13th and longest game to date to take a commanding three point lead in the world chess championship.

Spassky, who spent the night studying the adjourned position to try to find a way to gain a draw, almost succeeded but made a mistake on the 69th move to give Fischer the winning advantage. The champion resigned on the 75th move.

The Russian's second, Nikolai Krogius, who had earlier beamed and confidently predicted a draw, looked at his pocket board in the corridor following the 69th move and said, "Now it's hopeless."

"He made a mistake in the 69th," Krogius said. "He should have moved his rook up to bishop's three to check instead

CAB Approves Air Fare Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board today authorized a 2.7 per cent increase in domestic air fares.

The increase is optional, not mandatory.

A spokesman for the airline industry said the airlines probably would file their fare increase proposals within a week. If there is no objection from the CAB, the new rates normally would become effective within 30 days.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

New Flood Fear

MANILA (UPI) — Two new storms threatened today to bring more rains and floods after a week-long spell of sunshine in the Philippines' Central Luzon disaster area.

As Luzon's main MacArthur Highway became passable to all overland traffic with the receding floodwaters and relief work gained momentum, the weather bureau raised warning signals over the eastern section of the country with the approach of the two storms.

The death toll in the Philippines' month-locg floods which abated only last Sunday rose today to 544. The Red Cross listed a total of 289,733 families or 1,665,967 persons as flood victims.

Hair Spray Hazard

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Food and Drug Administration (FDA) doctor says the ingredient in hair sprays that helps keep hair in place may be causing lung disorders.

Dr. John M. Gowdy, who works in the FDS's cosmetics division, said Thursday hair sprays had been suspected for 10 years of causing thesaurosis, or "storage disease." But he said the evidence is limited because chemical tests are not sophisticated enough to spot the ingredient in the lungs.

"But there are some suspected cases that we have seen over the last 10 years at FDA," Gowdy said. He reported his investigations in the current issue of the Archives of Environmental Health, a professional journal.

Viet War Expense

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon has estimated the cost of the Vietnam war during the fiscal year that started July 1 at $5.8 billion.

A defense spending study issued yesterday predicted the total cost of the war for the United States during the current year would be $7.1 billion. But the report said the "incremental" cost was $5.8 billion, because the other $1.3 billion would be spent anyway on salaries, ammunition and fuel.

The highest cost of the war for a single year was during fiscal 1969 when the incremental cost was $21.5 billion and the total cost $28.8 billion.

Nixon Decides Press Strategy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon believes the performance of the news media should not be an issue in this year's presidential campaign.

Ronald L. Ziegler, the White House press secretary, was asked Thursday if Nixon had directed his supporters to "cool" attacks on the press.

Ziegler said the Administration had never conducted a concerted attack on the news media.

Fonda Probe Asked

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jane Fonda says she welcomes a Justice Department investigation of the "Hanoi Rose" charges against her, indicating she would base a defense, if needed, on the Nurenberg war crimes doctrine.

Miss Fonda, criticized for broadcasts from the North Vietnamese capital, issued a statement here following a vote on her case in Washington by the House Internal Security Committee.

The committee turned down a move to subpoena her, but voted 8-1 to request a complete report from the Justice Department by Sept. 14 on what Miss Fonda did in Hanoi and whether she may have committed a federal offense.

The motion to subpoena the activist actress came from Rep. Fletcher Thompson, R-Ga., who has referred to her as "Hanoi Hannah."

Voters' Holiday?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Election day Nov. 7 would be a national holiday under legislation approved by the Senate yesterday.

Promoters of the step argued it would significantly increase voter turnout. The measure, however, faced a doubtful future in the House.

Also approved by the Senate was a proposal to keep polling places open for the same 12-hour period across the nation. Its sponsors said the system would prevent voters in the West from being affected by broadcast projections of the election outcome.

Polling places would be open from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. EST in the East, from 10 to 10 in the Central time zone, from 9 to 9 in the Mountain time zone, and from 8 to 8 in the Pacific time zone.

Shriver: Nixon Had Viet Piece In His Lap In '69

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver believes President Nixon "blew it" when he failed to take a "historic opportunity" to end the Vietnam war in 1969.

Shriver contended Thursday that Nixon had the opportunity the year he took office to end the war on better terms than he can get now.

"President Nixon had peace in his lap handed to him," Shriver said. "I cannot imagine why he blew it."

Shriver was U.S. ambassador to France during the first year of the Paris peace talks under the Nixon administration. He was interviewed at his suburban Maryland estate by five reporters.

"I think we could have gotten better terms in 1969 than he (Nixon) can get now," Shriver said. "I can assure you it (the terms) would have been as good or better."

SARGENT SHRIVER
'He blew it . . .'

Nixon could have offered the Vietnamese Communists the same terms then that he is offering now and they would have been accepted, Shriver said.

"I thought he had one of the great historic opportunities of my lifetime," Shriver said. He said failing to take advantage of the opportunity was "one of the great tragedies of the Nixon administration."

One reason the climate was better for negotiations in 1969, Shriver said, was because the United States still had hundreds of thousands of troops in Vietnam.

He did not say what American terms the Communists might have accepted in 1969.

Nixon's latest offer of May 8 would withdraw all U.S. forces from Vietnam within four months after U.S. prisoners are released and an internationally-supervised cease-fire is put into effect.

Shriver, the former Peace Corps director, who was chosen by Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern to replace Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton on the ticket, said he believed the economy would be one of the most important issues of the election.

He said Nixon's policies were "the worst example of fiscal irresponsibility in my lifetime."

Nixon Veto Seen On $30 Billion Measure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Engaging in an argument it knew it would lose, Congress has sent President Nixon a $30.5 billion health, education, welfare and labor appropriation that is $1.7 billion over his budget.

Now it awaits his veto.

The veto was freely predicted and seen as inevitable even before the Senate approved the bill 62-22 Thursday night in defiance of Nixon's hold-the-spending pleas.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he welcomed the challenge of a veto—and said the Democrats would take the isuue to the country.

Mansfield said the Democratic-controlled Congress had displayed its sense of priority in killing, two weeks ago, a $1.7 billion bill to provide military aid to allies and then providing that same amount in unsought spending for schools, hospitals job training and health research along with a host of other social projects.

"The issue where the government spends its money is one I think the Congress is willing to take to the country," Mansfield said.

Nixon warned on July 16 that he would veto appropriations bills which exceed his budget. He is trying to hold government spending to $250 billion this fiscal year, an amount that will produce a deficit in excess of $30 billion.

Twenty-three Republicans joined 39 Democrats in voting for the bill and 18 Republicans and four Democrats voted against it.

The House passed the bill Wednesday 238-166 — a margin not wide enough to provide the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto.

That means Congress will have to start from scratch in toning down its spending in a new appropriations bill to fund programs of the Departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare. The measure also carried $45 million to run the Corporation for Public Broadcasting during this fiscal year.

The bulk of the increases were for health and schools—26 per cent more than Nixon sought for such programs as health research and hospital construction and 23 per cent more for aid to poverty schools and those near federal installations.

Nixon vetoed a smiliar bill in 1969. Congress failed to override him.

Sen. William V. Roth, R-Del., was defeated 47-38 on a motion to send the measure back to a House-Senate conference a $2.5 billion spending ceiling on what many in Congress call a "runaway" program.

Proxmire Asks Two-Sided Demo HQ Break-In Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today there should be an independent, two-man investigation of the burglary of national Democratic headquarters that led to the arrest of men connected to the Republican party.

Proxmire suggested the appointment as investigators of former Republican Sen. John J. Williams of Delawa re an former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg, a Democrat.

"These men are scrupulously honest, have a rugged independence of mind and wear no man's collar," Proxmire said.

Five men, including a former CIA official who worked as chief of security for President Nixon's re-election committee, were arrested in the offices of the Democratic National Committee at 2:30 a.m. June 17. Police said they carried electronic surveillance devices.

Proxmire complained the incident currently was being investigated by men in the Justice Department and FBI who were appointed by Nixon.

The Washington Star and Daily News reported Thursday that at least $114,000 in contributions to the Nixon committee was deposited in the bank account of another of the suspects, Bernard Barker of Miami.

Clark MacGregor, Nixon's campaign director, said Thursday it was his understanding that Barker was given a $25,000 check byOP finance chief Maurice Stans to cash and that the money was returned to Stans and spent in the campaign. But he said he had no information on the additional $89,000 that the Star-News said went into Barker's account.

Proxmire contended the developments showed that Stans, a number of former White House aides and consultants, and a number of persons connected to the Nixon campaign were "directly involved in key aspects of the break-in..."

No-Fault Defeat 'Not Discouraging'

NEW YORK (UPI)—The American Insurance Association, a group of companies that pioneered no-fault automobile accident insurance, said today it is not discouraged by the Senate's 49-46 defeat of the Federal no-fault bill.

"In fact," said the AIA's general counsel, Robert N. Gilmore, "we agree with President Nixon that no-fault insurance legislation ought properly be the province of the states.

"Our principal interest in the Senate bill just defeated was that we hoped a favorable vote would spur many legislatures to enact sound no-fault bills in order to head off ty need for a federal law."

"I think perhaps the states now have their last chance to enact sound no-fault laws and if they don't public opinion will compel Congress to do so."

In San Francisco, the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws approved a no-fault plan and agreed to push for its passage in every state.

The commissioners, a group of judges, lawyers, professors and officials representing each state, agreed 33-11 to accept a comprehensive insurance plan similar to the one shelved by the Senate. It would compensate accident victims for all their economic losses regardless of who was to blame.

Big St. Louis Crowd Welcomes Eagleton

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)—Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., received a tumultuous welcome Thursday night on his first visit to his hometown since being dropped as the vice presidential candidate on the Democratic national ticket.

Eagleton was mobbed by supporters as he stepped off a plane at Lambert Field, and he told the crowd, "I've been in politics 16 years, and your coming out here is worth the whole 16 years."

Eagleton, mounting a makeshift platform to speak to the crowd of about 2,000 persons pressing around him, said, "I'm going to write a book about the events of the past few weeks, and I'm going to tell what no one else knows, not even my closest relatives. I'm going to say that no one could have treated me with greater understanding or greater compassion than George McGovern.

"One or two members of his staff tried to do a hatchet job on me—there's always divisions on a political staff," Eagleton said. "But Sen. McGovern proved to be the decent man I have always known him to be."

Eagleton said he intended to campaign in Missouri for Democrats running for statewide offices, then added, "And to use President Nixon's cliche, let's make it crystal clear, I'm also here to work for George McGovern for president."

The crowd gave a listless cheer to the remark about the Democratic presidential nominee, and many were shouting, "No, No, No." One man yelled of McGovern, "He's a hypocrite."

One of the many signs in the crowd said, "Eagleton for No. 1 in '76," and Eagleton told the crowd, "I'm not going to be relegated to a footnote in history."

Air Force Sergeant Guilty Of Espionage

TYNDALL AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (UPI)—Air Force Master Sgt. Walter T. Perkins was convicted by a military judge today of stealing defense secrets and attempting to pass them to a Soviet agent.

Perkins, 37, faces a maximum possible sentence of 26 years in prison and a dishonorable discharge from the Air Force where he has served for the last 18 years. He took the verdict without visible emotion.

Col. Joe E. Peck, a hawk-faced military judge who heard the week-long trial without a jury, returned the guilty verdict on all five counts at 10:20 a.m., EDT, with these words:

"Master Sergeant Walter T. Perkins, it is my duty to inform you that this court has found you of all specifications and charges, guilty."

Without a word, Perkins and his defense attorney sat down and Peck kept the court in session to make some legal "findings" on several technical points the defense may use in a possible appeal of the verdict.

Peck, a blond, cool and efficient military judge from California's Travis Air Force base, began deliberating Perkins' fate at 10 a.m. Thursday. He recessed the court overnight and returned to the chore at 8 a.m. today.

The defense did not deny the charges against Perkins. Instead, it contended he was an alcoholic and not responsible for his acts, due to temporary insanity.

After hearing appeals for leniency and mitigating circumstances, Peck will deliberate Perkins' sentence.

Perkins, the former top non-commissioned officer at Tyndall's Intelligence Section, was specifically charged with stealing national defense information, attempting to deliver that information to an unauthorized person, falsifying reports on the destruction of secret information, falsifying leave records and a general charge of unmilitary conduct.

During a brief recess Rothblatt said he was "not surprised by the verdict. I figured we'd either win or lose all the way. I didn't expect anything in between.

"The whole case was tried with the expectation of an appeal and carrying it through all the appellate processes. If we had won here, it would have just been a pleasant surprise," Rothblatt said.

ElginOrcutt family — has been deeply appreciated, since the boys and girls admit to being exhausted at the end of their work days.

They have informal Bible study sessions after supper each night but these are not restricted to the church. One evening this week they were scattered over the neighboring golf course reading the Bible in clusters when the sprinkling system came on.

They leave San Geronimo Sunday and, as their last project, will conduct the morning service.

criticisms of the district presented July 12 in a preliminary report. It declared that the district directors frequently do not know what is going on and do not know what they want to do or how because they spend too little time at their jobs and get too little help from the staff.

It also said that the district's top administrator, D. J. Callaghan, has too much power and should share some of it with subordinates. It reported no need for Callaghan's proposed addition of a new range of "middle management" to the district's staff.

Missing from the copy of the final report available at district offices were results of the consultants' survey of staff attitudes. The report noted that at the request of board chairman Robert B. St. Clair, a San Mateo County supervisor, these results will not be submitted to the board until next Thursday's meeting. No reason was given for excluding the results.

The consultants recommended additional staff at a cost of up to $111,600 a year plus upgrading of some existing staff at an annual additional cost of up to $69,300.

The recommendation for secret committee meetings came in a proposal for "informal and closed workshop meetings between the committee members and district staff. These sessions would be strictly preliminary and would be dedicated to information transfer and dialogue only."

The consultants said that "several competent legal authorities, including the temporary legal counsel of the district, have advised the consultants that this two-stage approach is legal under the laws of California. In fact, the right of the public at large to disclosure of the affairs of the district would be doubly protected under the approach," they claimed.

Their report said that this "protection" would be assured because no committee could take final action and no committee would have a quorum of the whole board.

The June 20 ruling by San Francisco Superior Court Joseph Karesh declared that "all standing committees are subject to the Brown Act and must be held in the open regardless of the fact there may be less than a quorum present." The ruling came in a case involving the San Francisco Human Rights Commission, which was conducting its meetings in the same manner as proposed by the smog district's consultants.

The Brown Act declares that it applies to deliberations as well as to actions by public agencies. "The people insist on remaining informed so that they may retain control over the instruments they have created," the act states.

(The development company had purchased the 167-acre ridge for $441,000 in 1962 from Marin County Housing Authority. The authority, not wishing to turn over the ridgeland to a company which had defaulted in its contract to complete redevelopment, held the firm's final payment on the ridge in escrow for more than two years until the compromise swap in January.)

After regaining control of the property, the agency devoted several months to finding development firms willing and able to build attractive homes on the land. They also sought companies that would work with the Marin City community in planning construction and that would provide some benefit in the form of jobs and training for local residents.

Now the agency believes its search is ended, according to Douglas C. Myers, a San Jose consultant retained by the agency to handle its real estate matters.

He said five solidly-based companies will present proposals to the agency later this month. They are: Subsidized Housing Inc. of Beverly Hills; Mid-Cities Development, Washington, D.C.; Inland Steel Corp. of Chicago; Barry Slatt Mortgage Co. of San Francisco, and Larwin Corp., of Los Angeles.

"These are very serious development proposals," said Myers, who specializes in consulting work for governmental agencies engaged in development. "The cost of making the submission they intend to make Aug. 25 is from $5,000 to $30,000, so you know these companies are serious about coming into Marin City."

Although details of the various plans are not completed, Myers said he expects the proposals will be for 450 to 600 units of apartments, cluster condominiums and separate single-family dwellings.

All will be market rate — rather than low cost — housing, according to the consultant. (Despite protests from some residents that housing construction should be within the financial reach of persons now living in 300 units of public housing in the community, the agency has set itself against additional low-income dwellings in Marin City.)

Once the agency staff receives the proposals, copies will be forwarded to Marin County Planning Department staff and to the agency's project area committee, a group of Marin City residents chosen to advise in redevelopment matters.

On Sept. 7, the agency board will meet to study development plans and recommendations and analyses from staff, the area committee and the planning department.

Selection of a developer or developers is scheduled to take place at the board's Sept. 25 meeting.

Myers said competition for development rights will be based both on architectural excellence and the developer's ability to provide jobs, training for jobs and investment opportunities for community residents.

"The firm's intention to provide jobs and job training to minority and poor people will be a very serious part of the consideration," he added. "We have asked each company to present us with their plans for doing this."

After the agency chooses its developer, the proposals will be presented to Marin County Planning Commission for approval.

"We expect no problems with the planning commission since the staff will have our plans a month ahead of the meeting. We are hopeful all problems can be ironed out by the time the commission considers the plans," Myers said.

The next step will be contracts between the agency and the developers, which he said should be signed as soon as county approval is forthcoming.

To avoid the kind of problems the agency had with Cal Development, each contract will contain a clause giving the developer a certain time to begin building. If that deadline is not met, title to the land will revert to the agency.

If all goes well — and Myers seems confident it will — construction of the first units should begin next spring and be finished before September 1973, the deadline set by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Commercial development will come later, after the housing, according to Myers, and does not have to be completed by next September.

"Until the stir of new residential development occurs, nobody will be interested in that commercial land," Myers said. "It would be impossible to support 40 acres of commercial development from existing homes in Marin City, but the new housing will stimulate commercial growth.

"Once it moves, it goes very fast."

Fischer left the stage after almost every move while Spassky sat silently in thought, sometimes his chin resting on a hand. Only once did the Russian leave the stage to get a glass of milk as though he were preparing for a long stay.

At one point Spassky's seconds, Ivo Ney and Eyfim Geller, put on their coats as though to leave. But two moves later the coats were back over their arms and they strolled the corridors discussing the possibilities.

The three aluminum-hulled ferries along with the existing Sausalito ferry will carry some 5,000 commuters a day between Marin and San Francisco, according to district projections.

The first ferry is to be delivered in April 1974, with the next two to be delivered within the following eight months.

The low bid by Campell Industries was more than $4 million above the estimate by the district's naval architect, Philip F. Spaulding of Seattle. The difference was explained largely by the growing cost of labor.

Director Stephan C. Leonoudakis of San Francisco, the prime mover for ferry boats for many years, promptlq distributed cigars to the other 12 who voted to go ahead on the ferry system.

Opposing the ferries were San Francisco's supervisors Robert Gonzales and John Molinari and L. E. Cartner of Sonoma County.

Expansion of the plant drew little opposition from the audience last night. Speakers urged the added capacity be used primarily to improve the quality of sewage dumped in the bay.

Board member Sesto F. Lucchi, while he agreed with expanding the plant, opposed establishing a three-million - gallon per day figure, saying that figure should remain flexible to meet the actual population demands as established in the countywide plan when released. To provide more capacity than necessary could encourage excessive growth, he said.

Other board members disagreed, saying capacity excess — if any — would improve water quality, and the vote was 3-1 for firm figure.

About 80 persons attended the meeting, half of whom stuck it out to the end.

Ronald Marinoff of the Lucas Valley Homeonwers Association urged limited growth. "We have never been antidevelopment," he told the board. "We're pro-quality development."

Board member Gene H. Dyer said he felt expansion to accommodate a future population of about 35,000 was a reasonable compromise since it would allow some development and still improve water quality.

In other action, the board voted 3-1 to seat Calvin B. Colt of 353 Shasta Drive, Lucas Valley, to a vacant board seat. Duckett dissented.

Attempts to fill the seat last week from a slate of eight candidates ended in a deadlocked vote with Solomon and Lucchi supporting Colt and Duckett and Dyer for William E. Brook of 41 Mount Foraker Drive. Dyer switched his vote last night for Colt amid charges from some residents that the eight candidates — one a woman — had not been given equal consideration.

Board members denied the charges.

$10 Million Reserve Fund For Bridge District Fails Approval

A bitterly divided committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors yesterday rejected a proposal that district reserves be at least $10 million.

The staff warned that such a reserve could force either cuts in transit operations next fiscal year or increases in fares and tolls.

The joint transportation and finance-auditing committee instead voted 7-4 to hold reserves at $7.5 million at least until the end of next fiscal year, a level the staff said would not interfere with transit or affect fares or tolls.

The demand for the $10 million reserve came from several San Francisco supervisors, who then took their campaign yesterday afternoon before their own streets and transportation committee. There they won a quick endorsement of their own resolution and sent it to the full board of supervisors for ratification at 2 p.m. next Monday in City Hall.

The bridge district apparently would be stymied if the $10 million level is adopted as policy by the San Francisco supervisors. San Francisco has nine of the 18 votes on the bridge board, thus giving it effective control because it takes 10 votes to approve expenditures.

San Francisco's legal advisers have claimed that its representatives on the bridge board must vote in conformance with policies of the board of supervisors, thus they would be obliged to halt bridge district spending when the $10 million level was reached.

District reserves stood at $20.5 million July 1, but will drop to $14.26 million by next July 1 because of heavy transit deficits and purchase of ferries. The reserves will drop further to $8.22 million by the end of next fiscal year, according to staff projections.

The district will be broke by 1976 unless expected state and federal transit funds become available, the staff found.

The $10 million reserve limit was proposed by San Francisco supervisors John Molinari, Robert Gonzales and Quentin Kopp.

Director E. J. Guidotti of Sonoma County exploded, saying he was "damned sick and tired of this board catering to the San Francisco supervisors. What the hell do they know about running the bridge?"

Marin County Supervisors Michael Wornum, a bridge director, added, "If the San Francisco Board of Supervisors wants to tell us how much reserve to have, they better take over this bridge."

Wornum attacked Molinari's proposal for requiring toll and fare increases "just so we can have a $10 million reserve. We are not a banking organization, we are a service organization," Wornum said.

Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring, who two weeks ago had recommended a $5 million reserve, or twice his projected total for any unlikely emergency expenditures, yesterday said the figure could go to $7.5 million.

Fare and toll increases may be necessary in five years, he said, but may have to be imposed much sooner if the reserve is held at too high a figure.

The bridge committee's recommendation will go to the full board on Aug. 25, almost two weeks after the issue may already have been decided by the San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

Representatives of the Greater San Francisco Chamber of Commerce supported a reserve of about $10 million.

The Golden Gate Bridge District's joint transportation and finance-auditing committee also:

CHARTER BUSES — Renewed its contract with Franciscan Lines for charter bus clubs subsidized by the district for commuters between areas not served by the district's transit system. Service will be added soon between Petaluma and Hunters Point Naval Shipyard in San Francisco and between other Sonoma and Napa points and San Francisco.

LABOR — Met behind closed doors to instruct staff negotiators on wage increases being sought by district employees.

MARIN — Postponed review of a dispute between the county of Marin and the district over the county's share this fiscal year for local bus service pending further staff negotiations.

6,000-Acre Mendocino Fire 90 Pct. Contained

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Firefighters reported 90 per cent containment today over a 6,000 acre brush and timber blaze in the rugged Mud Springs area of Mendocino County that resulted in one death and two injuries.

Meanwhile, an 870 acre fire in Plumas National Forest destroyed $1 million worth of timber, according to a spokesman for the U. S. Forest Service.

Complete containment of the three fires was expected soon, spokesman for the forest service and the State Division of Forestry said.

Winds died down Thursday, easing the struggle waged by the 570 men fighting the flames in Mendocino County. Air tankers and helicopters joined in the battle.

Fire crew foreman Lloyd A. Shellabarger, 42, Crescent City, died of a heart attack while on the fire line Thursday at Mud Springs.

Two bulldozer operators were injured when their rig tipped over on the south slope of 4,233-foot Cahton Peak.

The lightning-caused blaze in Plumas National Forest burned 17 million board feet of timber, a spokesman said.

About 600 men, backed by seven air tanker and three helicopters, were fighting the fire.

Mrs. Shriver Given Checkup

A hospital spokesman said Mrs. Shriver checked out of the hospital at 8 p.m. Thursday. He said the tests showed no problems and "everything's fine."

Mrs. Shriver, 51, sister of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, was admitted to the hospital Wednesday evening for an examination which was scheduled a week ago.

Wage Board Cuts New Plumber Pact

About 150 plumbers in Marin County learned this week that their recently negotiated 84-cent per hour wage hike has been cut to 25 cents by the federal government's Construction Industry Stabilization Committee.

The contract, which covers plumbers in San Francisco, Sonoma and Mendocino counties, as well as Marin, was negotiated in April between Plumbers Local 38 and three plumbing contractors associations.

The wage board ruled that the plumbers' pay and fringe-benefit package should be cut from $12.91 to $12.32 per hour.

The decision —reported in a letter dated Aug. 7 — was reached after the board heard testimony in Washington, D.C. last month from the executive manager of the Plumbing, Heating and Cooling Contractors of Marin, Sonoma and Mendocino Counties and the plumbers union's national president.

The originalcontract between the plumbers and contractors called for an 84-cent per hour pay hike, including an increase of 50 cents on the hourly wage; eight cents for health and welfare; nine cents for pensions; five cents for holidays and vacations; six cents to apprenticeships and six cents in other benefits.

A spokesman said he plans to seek a rehearing before the wage bgard.

According to White, the contractors and plumbers will now begin distributing the 25 cents per hour increase permitted by the wage board between wages and fringe benefits.

Bedroom Tax Hike Sought By Panel

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission last night recommended that the city council more than double the city's "bedroom tax" on future construction of dwellings.

The commission said that the tax should be hiked from $30 to $75 per bedroom and that the $60 tax per mobile home unit also be increased to $75.

All bedroom tax funds are used for public recreational facilities, according to Andrew J. Snyder, recreation director. He said that the tax insures that new residents pay a fair share of the cost of city services.

The San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission also:

PAY RAISE — Reaffirmed the policy of granting part-time recreational personnel a 10-cent per hour raise after 300 hours of service.

APPOINTMENTS — Announced that the terms of commissioners Robert Schoen, Norma Wall and Fred E. Jensen will expire in October.

GOLDENAIRES — Announced that a $1,000 grant by the Bank of Marin had brought the senior citizens' Goldenaires building fund to $10,000.

BOYD MUSEUM — Rejected a request by the Boyd Natural Science Museum that an unused $2,500 grant be carried over to the new fiscal year.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Sept. 14.

Labor Union Chief Robbed Near Home

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The president of the San Francisco Building Service Employes Union was beaten and robbed outside his home early today.

Herman M. Eimers, 61, president of the union's Local 87, told police three men jumped out of a car as he returned home from a meeting, knocked him to the sidewalk and escaped with several dollars and a wristwatch.

Measles Law Signed In Illinois

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (UPI)— Brides-to-be must take a test for German measles after October 1 in Illinois.

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie Thursday signed into law a measure requiring the test before wedding licenses are issued to prospective brides.

If a woman is found susceptible to the disease—also known as rubella—the state can urge her to be immunized but it can't call off her wedding.

If, however, a bride can't produce a physician's affidavit showing she underwent the test for German measles, the county clerk will refuse to give her a wedding license.

Board Asks New Waste Standard In Contra Costa

OAKLAND (UPI) —The San Francisco Regional Water Quality Board has proposed stringent new requirements for six refineries and four chemical plants in Contra Costa County.

But industry officials claimed the effort to upgrade waste water discharges could cost millions of dollars.

A Standard Oil of California executive said a $25 million system at its Richmond refinery might have to be scrapped if the proposals are adopted.

The board does not plan a definitive order at least until its Sept. 26 meeting. The delay will give interested parties further chance to comment.

Fred Dierker, the board's executive officer, said new requirements are needed because of schedules agreed upon by the State Water Board and federal agencies.

The board also issued a ban Thursday on sewer connections in San Bruno and South San Francisco for new or expanded industry.

$268,000 Budget For Bolinas-Stinson Schools

A $268,754 budget for 1972-73 was adopted last night by Bolinas-Stinson School District trustees.

Trustee John Harris said the spending plan is $16,512 less than last week's figure and will leave unchanged the district's total tax rate of $2.13 per $100 assessed valuation. Harris noted the district has lost nearly $1 million worth of property from its tax rolls to Point Reyes National Seashore.

He said the board agreed last night to restore the positions of three teachers' aides eliminated for budget reasons during earlier budget sessions and to add a part-time clerk for the fall semester.

The spending program includes: administration, $16,150; instruction, $150,182; plant operation, $19,000; plant maintenance, $10,348; fixed charges, $24,000 and capital outlay, $12,426.

The capital expenditures include payment on the three-quarter acre Bourne property adjacent to Bolinas School and minor improvements to site and buildings.

The board accepted the resignation of teacher Curtis Spurlin, who had taught fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

The New King Of Scofflaws

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Charles Fragapane, 46, has abdicated as king of the scofflaws. Long live Tillman K. Saylor.

Fragapane appeared before Chief Magistrate Robert E. Dauer Wednesday and asked for more time to raise $1,640 in fines on 110 parking tickets. He was granted an extension to Aug. 25.

In the next case, Saylor, 23, came before the magistrate and paid a $1,911 fine for 154 parking tickets.

Nixon Spending Program Given To The House

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz said today federal spending "is spelled t-a-x-es" and that when it is not held in check, higher taxes is the penalty.

Shultz said that President Nixon is seeking to put a $250 billion ceiling on federal spending because he wants to hold taxes down.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford, together with 129 other Republican congressmen, introduced in the House Thursday Nixon's spending-limit proposal.

The President originally proposed to spend some $246 billion this fiscal year. But budget advisers have told him that outlays were rising so fast — partly because of congressional appropriations —that they likely would go far above that level without a ceiling.

Descendants Of Tyler In Capitol

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A group of descendants of President John Tyler toured the White House today and got a special greeting from Mrs. Richard M. Nixon.

Among those taking the tour and meeting with the First Lady in the Map Room were Lyn Gardner Tyler II, grandson of the 10th President, and his wife, as well as great grandson David Gardner III and his wife.

A great granddaughter, Susan Tyler, and great, great grandsons David Gardner IV and Watt Gardner, were also present.

Mrs. Nixon planned to go to Camp David, Md., later today with the President for the weekend. Also going along will be their daughter and son-in-law, Tricia and Edward Finch Cox.

Irregularities Charged In Program

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Irregularities, including mismanagement of funds, have been discovered in a federally funded program for Mexican-Americans at Sacramento State University, it was reported today.

The Sacramento Union reported that accounts of the irregularities are contained in a previously unpublicized report, now nearly five months old, on SSU's project set up to train teachers to work with Mexican-American children.

Meanwhile, both the chancellor and the Board of Trustees of the California State University and Colleges have begun reviews of the Mexican American Education Project at SSU, an official of the 19-campus system said Thursday. He said the review was started three weeks ago.

The report on the project was prepared by Eugene E. Morris, director of the SSU Foundation, a campus-community agency that administers outside funds received by the university.

Under the project, 56 undergraduate students reported to be working toward teaching credentials have been brought to the campus. They are paid, tax free, $230 a month plus $40 for each dependent.

"One individual has his stipend delivered to the county or city jail while he was reported to have satisfactorily met program requirements," Morris' report said.

"Two other individuals went to Cuba to 'pursue their studies' after receiving the monthly stipend. Both students were dropped from the stipend during their visit to Cuba, but one was placed back on the stipend upon his return."

The report made these comments on some of the uses of what amounts to $1.5 million in federal funds in the project:

—During the summer of 1971, nine students receiving stipends of up to $700 each during July for attending project activities and classes fulltime were employed fulltime in out-of-town locations. The employment was through the Butte County Superintendent of Schools Mini-Corps Project on federal funds.

—Inquiries from the Sacramento County Welfare Department indicate some individuals being paid those amounts in the project had requested welfare for themselves and their families.

—Students have been permitted to drop classes within the last week of instruction but still receive 100 per cent stipend. Other students have been permitted to enroll in classes and receive retroactive stipends.

— There is "documented evidence" that instructors have been absent for extensive periods without filing for absence with the college.

—Partly from project funds, "one speaker received in excess of $1,000 for four hours of discussion." While not identified in the report, the newspaper said the speaker was farm labor organizer Cesar Chavez.

Darrell J. Inabnit, administrative vice president of SSU, said that since the irregularities were discovered, control of the project has been tightened.

"The flexible days are over," he said. "Everything's been tightened up."

UBAC Representation May Be Expanded

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The United Bay Area Crusade board has been advised to reduce the size of its governing bodies while expanding representation to include consumers.

The recommendations, which will be voted on by the board before the end of the year, were presented Wednesday by the crusade's technical assistance committee, composed of representatives from crusade-supported agencies, minority organizations and disadvantaged citizens, and crusade donors.

The committee proposed that a Bay Area-wide nominating committee name a 165-member board of trustees, which in turn would elect a 24-member board of directors with 10 additional appointees.

Currently, the crusade membership, composed of all persons who have donated $1 or more in the previous campaign, elects at the annual meeting a 550-member board of trustees which in turn elects a 30-member board of directors with 40 additional appointees.

The committee plan suggests that the 165-member board of trustees be composed of 85 donor representatives and 30 consumer representatives based on recommendations made by each of these three groups.

The present 550-member board of trustees is composed of 135 county trustees based on population ratio, trustees representing each of the some 200 crusade-sup ported agencies plus about 200 trustees elected at large.

The committee recommends the board of trustees elect 24 of its own members to serve as directors, plus 10 additional directors who are standing committee chairmen, for a total of 34 directors.

At present, 70 directors consist of 30 members at large elected by the trustees, plus officers, standing committee chairmen, the chairman and vice chairman of each of the five county boards of trustees and 10 representatives appointed by and to the Bay Area Social Planning Council.

Crusade president Peter E. Haas of Kentfield said the board will vote on the committee's report before the end of the year. In the interim, an ad hoc committee will discuss the new governance plan with various crusade groups.

Board Gets Flack OVER Sign Law

The Cotati Planning Commission last night heard businessmen complain about restrictions in the proposed sign ordinance.

The ordinance is based on the sign ordinance used in Carmel, stresses use of natural materials and encourages soft lighting for signs.

Businessmen complained that the three-month conversion period to make signs comply with the ordinance would not be long enough and asked that it be lengthened.

Commission Secretary Donna Olsen said real estate salesmen also complained about the provision that temporary signs must be approved by the city council and said time would be wasted before "for sale" signs could be put up. They also asked that restrictions on size of signs be loosened.

The commission said it would meet with the city council to discuss the objections after the next planning commission meeting on Aug. 24.

In other business, the commission set an Aug. 24 public hearing for the proposed tree ordinance. It would require that plans for developments include what trees must be removed and encourages developers to replant or replace lost trees.

211 Million Bottles And Jars Recycled

NEW YORK (AP) — More than 211 million used glass containers have been reclaimed and recycled into new bottles and jars during the first three months of 1972, it is reported by the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute.

This compares with 96 million bottles and jars collected by the public in the January-March quarter of 1971.

Tax Rise Seen In New Ross Budget

A tentative budget for the 1972-73 fiscal year of $330,542 was approved with little comment last night by Ross Town Council.

It was the first time the full council had met to review the spending program, which was recommended by the panel's finance committee.

The budget, if adopted at a special meeting next Thursday, will require a 17-cent increase in the town tax rate from $1.66 per $100 assessed valuation to $1.83. It is an increase of $126,196 from the 1971-72 budget, including $15,000 for town hall improvements, $5,500 for consultant work to bring the community master plan into compliance with new state planning laws, and $4,500 for legal work arising from the Corte Madera Creek flood control project.

Town hall improvements will include exp ansion of police headquarters and the town clerk's office.

Councilman John H. Chase, finance committee chairman, said that in past years the town had been "blessed" with increases in assessed valuation of up to 25 per cent that offset increased expenses, but that the boost for this fiscal year was expected to be less than 2 per cent.

The spending program also includes 5 per cent cost-of-living pay increases for all employees, and 5 per cent merit boosts for most.

The council took no action on requests for a $1,200 to $1,500 increase for recreation programs being drawn by the town's new recreation advisory board and for an arrangement with San Anselmo to use its streetsweeper in the Winship Park area. Mayor Frederick S. Allen said the council has not received word from the recreation advisory group on its needs, while noting that a study of consolidation of governmental services in Ross Valley made the streetsweeper plan shortsighted at this point.

The Ross Town Council also:

FIRE DEPARTMENT — Gave a vote of confidence to the town fire department in the face of a barrage of complaints by C. J. Bradley of 3 Madera Avenue about alleged fire hazards in the Winship Park area. Bradley failed to appear last night, or at a recent meeting of town officials called to discuss his complaints. A state fire marshall has toured the area, with his report expected soon.

U-TURNS — By emergency ordinance, banned U-turns at Shady Lane and Lagunitas Road. The council approved a resolution with the same intent at its last meeting, but found an ordinance was needed.

HOMES — Conditionally gave architect Van Norden Logan permission to construct a house on a lot having a slope in excess of 30 per cent at 261 Woodhaven Road; conditionally awarded a use permit to Logan to renovate a barn on Fernhill Avenue for office use; denied variances for building expansion sought by Albert and Norma-Jean Bordalempe at Lagunitas Road and Willow Avenue and by Owen L. Jones at 36 Shady Lane.

Bill Planned To Ban Smog Unit Tampering

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — A bill to prohibit tampering with automobile pollution control devices will be introduced Monday in the House of Representatives by Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, and about a dozen coauthors.

The bill amends the Clean Air Act to extend the prohibition to all individuals, including car owners, independent mechanics and tune-up specialists.

Present law forbids tampering with the devices by any person before the sale and delivery of vehicles to purchasers, and also prohibits manufacturers and dealers from tampering with them after sale.

Milliard said the loophole had permitted "the increasingly widespread practice of removing emission control devices from automobiles." He cited increased sales in kits to modify auto distributors which previously have been adjusted to control emissions.

San Pedro Road Work To Cut Traffic Lane

Traffic on South San Pedro Road in San Rafael betwen Bayview Street and Main Drive will be restricted to one lane only for the next month because of road widening work there.

Ghilotti Brothers Construction Co. is widening a stretch of the roadway from Lochinvar Road to Peacock Gap from two lanes to four lanes, a project which began last May and will be completed in late 1973.

Nixon Gains On Drive To Curb Busing

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Anti-busing forces are rallying around an administration bill that would ban cross-town busing of elementary school children and sharply restrict transporting of students in general.

The House Rules Committee, on a 10-5 vote Thursday, cleared President Nixon's so-called "guidelines" bill for a floor vote on Aug. 17, one day before Congress recesses for the Republican National Convention that gets under way the following Monday.

The bill would set guidelines courts must follow in issuing school desegregation orders, with busing as a last resort. Pupils in the sixth grade and below could not be bused, under any circumstances, past their second nearest school.

The measure would also earmark $500 million a year for two years to improve educational opportunities in inferior schools, concentrating mainly on big city ghetto areas. The money would come from the $1 billion a year already authorized by law, but not yet appropriated, to help schools pay the costs of desegregation.

Secretary Elliot L. Richardson of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare immediately praised the action and said the administration would work to restore a provision that would allow schools now operating under desegregation orders to reopen those orders and make them conform with the new guidelines.

The reopening clause, stricken from the Nixon bill in the Education and Labor Committee on a 19-16 vote, is needed to maintain southern support for the measure.

Married Students Take Longer

MUNICH (UPI) —Married students take longer to graduate from university than single ones.

So says an analysis by the Bavarian State Statistics Bureau, which determined single students graduated after an average of 5.3 years. But married students without children required an average 5.6 years and married students with children needed 5.7 years before final exams.

Nixon Gets Twin Victory In House

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon has scored twin victories in the House for his Vietnam policy and military aid program. But neither is yet out of the congressional woods.

Members approved a $2.1 billion arms authorization Thursday after a coalition of Republicans and dissident Democrats rolled back a drive by doves to retain an antiwar provision in the bill.

By a vote of 228 to 118 the House deleted from the measure an amendment by Reps. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., and Charles Whalen, R-Ohio, that had been added by the Foreign Affairs Committee.

The section would have directed the President to cease all military operations in Indochina and pull all U.S. forces out of the area by Oct. 1, conditioned only upon a release of prisoners, an accounting of the missing and a limited cease-fire to accomplish a safe withdrawal.

With the antiwar issue disposed of, administration supporters felt free to pass the aid bill. It carries nearly $1 billion in military assistance for South Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos and Thailand to wage the Indochina war. The bill also contained $350 million in aid for Israel, most of it in the form of long term credits with which to buy American weapons.

The funds for the U.S. allies in Southeast Asia as well as money for South Korea, Greece and Turkey is not so secure. The Senate last month killed a $1.7 billion version of the military aid bill when long time opponents of military assistance teamed up with conservatives who were angered by a Senate decision to include an amendment cutting off funds for U.S. forces in Indochina within four months, subject to a return of the prisoners.

The House bill now goes to the Senate where administration supporters hope that some way or another will be found to revive the subject. If not, they will try to continue the military aid program through what is known as a continuing resolution, a device for sustaining federal programs for which Congress has not yet completed funding.

But Senate doves are likely to balk at that procedure, especially if it is to be used to cover any length of time.

Romney Attacks Shapp Over Demonstration

SCRANTON, Pa. (UPI)—U. S. Housing Secretary George Romney said Thursday Gov. Milton J. Shapp was a "destructive and disruptive" influence on federal flood operations in Pennsylvania.

He offered as proof a demonstration by local flood victims which he said was "staged" by the Democratic governor and his supporters.

Romney was sent to the flood-ravaged Wilkes-Barre, Pa., area to help cut the red tape which residents complained prevented them from finding temporary housing.

He clashed with Shapp and became involved in a shouting exchange with flood victims Wednesday upon announcing the federal government would not finance mortgages on property destroyed by the floods from Tropical Storm Agnes in June.

Shapp said he was "diametrically opposed" to the decision. He said the federal government should assume all water-logged mortgages. Romney accused Shapp of "political demagoguery" because he knew Congress could not allow it.

Romney accused Shapp of helping plan the confrontation Wednesday with a group of flood victims led by Mrs. Min Matheson.

The citizens interrupted a news conference and shouted and cursed at Romney about federal red tape in finding temporary housing.

Romney said Mrs. Matheson was a "professional agitator and organizer who worked actively on behalf of Gov. Shapp in his previous political campaign."

Shapp said he met the 63-year- old retired union official three weeks ago.

"Ironically," he said, "she was picketing me. She felt I was not doing enough for people living in the south side of Wilkes-Barre."

Mrs. Matheson, contacted at a motel where she has been living since the flood, said she had met the governor for the first time three weeks ago.

She said she had moved to Wilkes-Barre six months ago after she retired from a national post with the International Ladies Garment Workers Union.

"When Mr. Shapp ran for the first time in 1966 and the second time in 1970, I didn't even live in Pennsylvania. I was in New York. I had nothing to do with his defeat or election."

She also denied a charge by Romney that she is a McGovern campaign worker.

Planning Board Approves Units

The Rohnert Park Planning Commission last night approved the architectural design of four four-unit apartment buildings to be built on Country Club Drive.

Commission Secretary Sandra Nelson said the commission was pleased with extensive landscaping as proposed by Patrick Taylor and Olaf Gross. She said plans include a large amount of planting on the portion of the property that will eventually face the city's planned civic center.

The commission also granted the request of Robert E. Maves to operate a furniture reupholstering business from his home at 700 Liberty Court.

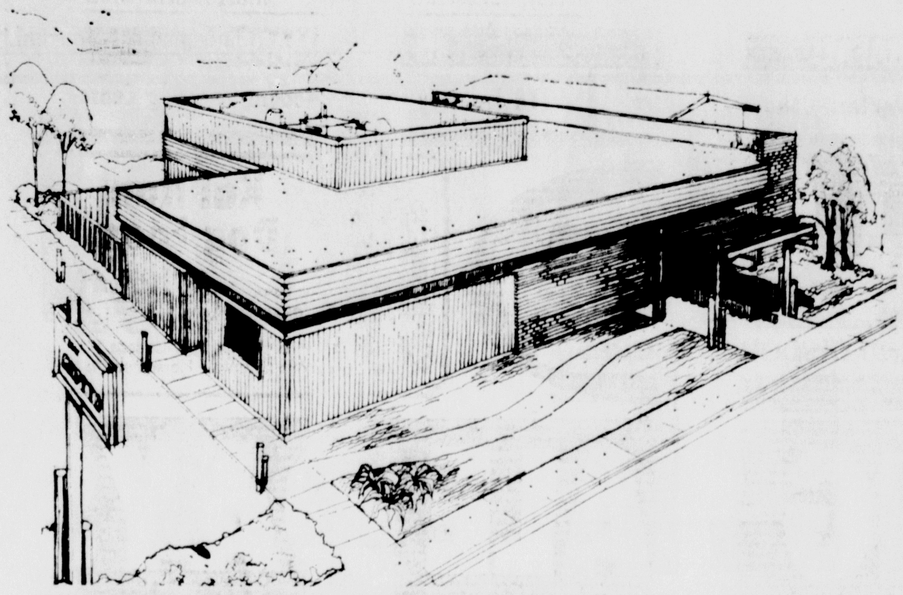
Marin Dining And Wining



NEW RESTAURANT PLANNED — Approval will be sought this month for the Grotto's new seafood dinery to be located on Tamalpais Avenue where it serves as the west frontage road Highway 101 near Northgate. Plans are by Hageman-Eklund, Inc. Construction will be by Eugene McGillicuddy.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

New Grotto Site Is Seeking Approval Of County Planners

If approved by Marin County planners, Stan and Ursula Valan, owners of the Grotto restaurant in San Rafael, should have this thriving seafood business in a new location by the first of next year.

They have focused their eyes on an off-highway spot near Northgate to erect a new building designed by Hageman-Eklund, Inc. and to be constructed by Eugene McGillicuddy.

The chosen location is on Tamalpais Avenue (the service road at the west side of Highway 101) close to the new R.B. furniture store. Situated on a half-acre plot, the restaurant will be modern in every respect with more adequate seating and offstreet parking for all comers.

It would represent a major change for the Valans, who have been at 909 Lincoln Avenue for nearly five years. But the Grotto has been one of San Rafael's busiest little downtown restaurants during that time. And the Northgate area has been expanding in every direction with consequent demand for more eating establishments nearby.

No construction can begin, of course, until all the preliminary details are settled and planning commission approval is received. If all this shapes up, Stan and Ursula will continue on Lincoln Avenue until the last moment, which is expected to be early in 1973.

And Ursula will continue to explore all the ways of serving new fish dishes and look for new ideas in cocktail lounge hors d'oeuvres. (Her latest offering in the latter category is some delicious smoked salmon).

SAN RAFAEL does treat its enterprising restaurateurs kindly — I mean those operators who not only choose a favorable location, but give value received in food and service, with that little additional something which tempts customers to come back for more.

A favorable location can often be a sleeper spot which may not seem to possess any of the necessary qualifications for a successful restaurant.

Take McKee's — also on Lincoln Avenue, but far removed from the downtown area. About 10 years ago Jim and Jean McKee saw possibilities in what was then known as the Lincoln Avenue extension in the fast growing industrial section.

True, it had a lot of wide open space — but that was misleading. It also had a mid-day population of working people in automotive service, small factories and similar projects, who had no nearby place to eat.

The McKees stepped in with a bar and hofbrau operation that immediately attracted customers from the neighborhood. And it wasn't long before customers began to move in from more distant areas for lunch and then for dinners. Many wore neckties instead of jumpers.

The food was good then, and still is. This is quite a nice little place where you sidle up to the counter with a tray before an array of roast beef, ham, turkey, pastrami, salads and other accessories and choose your own combination. It's a fascinating way of selecting a meal that goes back to the days of the cafeterias and Americans love it.

Now, McKee's has an additional attraction for diners from 4 to 10 p.m. — choosing their own steaks before they are cooked. Top sirloins go for $2.25 and rib eyes for $2.95 — nice tender meat, fortified with onion rings, French fries or baked beans, green salad and hot rolls. If you are a steak man you should definitely not pass this by.

On the other hand, if you get all the steaks you want at home and other items have more appeal, try either the specials of the day or maybe the corned beef or the roasts. And don't be surprised if you meet someone there you know who tells you, "Why sure — I eat here all the time."

WHILE WE ARE on the subject of Lincoln Avenue eating places, watch for the opening of the Jess Coleman Restaurant and Recreation Center at the southwest corner of Lincoln and Third Street. Exact opening date hasn't been specified, but the inside work is nearly complete and a private party held there this week indicates that its introduction to the public isn't far off.

This will be the combined operation of Jess Coleman, who has the Charcoal Pit in Kentfield, and Don De Surville, who has Town and Country Billiards in that same community. These same names will be featured here.

Their San Rafel project is in the former National Parts Co. building which is quite spacious and well suited to the combined billiards and food idea. It is intended as a family-type place, where all members can come for an evening of entertainment and dining at a nominal cost. However, it will be open for lunches, dinners and snacks from 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. seven days a week — later on Friday and Saturday nights.

Dan Pfennig was the interior designer. And Jess and Don did the hand hewn work on tables, bar and counter. Tiffany-type lamps, lush carpeting and a few other clever touches add to the decor.

There are 16 tables for those handy with a cue or anxious to improve their skill.

A charcoal broiler will turn out rib-eye steaks and burgers. One of the food innovations will be onion rings sold by the foot — measured by the height they will stack when impaled on a stick. Wines and beers will be sold and a raised bar and cocktail area overlooks the billiards section.

Then plant the clove instead of chopping it up for your food. Point it end up in a small pot and keep the soil moist. It will sprout in a few days and send up a slender green stalk. Chop this up for salads or minced butter for garlic bread. Each clove is good for three or four trimmings — more than the original mileage.

AT THE LION'S SHARE in San Anselmo, Country Joe McDonald and Steamin' Freeman will be featured for entertainment tonight through Sunday.

THE NEW DINNER MENU at Pier 15 in East San Rafael is finding great favor. It's a more extensive menu than it used to be and includes such dishes as veal scallopini, chicken burgundy, chicken chablis, New York steaks, top sirloins and pepper steaks, lamb shish kabob, beef brochettes and sea foods (scrampi is a good choice here).

And the dinner sandwiches are still going strong.

WHY ARE ROSE WINES in clear bottles and other wines not?

The reason is that most vintners like to show off the color. And rose wines should be, and generally much, consumed before too much aging. Colored bottles are intended to filter out the light from wines that are meant to age longer.

More U.S. Food Due For Bangladesh Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States will send an additional 150,000 tons of wheat and 25,000 tons of edible oil to Bangladesh, the State Department said Thursday.

A department spokesman said the foodstuffs were valued at $19.2 million and would bring U.S. contributions to Bangladesh relief to $286.4 million. The wheat and oil would feed about 2.7 million Bengalis for about four months, the spokesman said.

Inverness Festival Will Open Tomorrow

The eighth annual Inverness Music Festival under the direction of Sandor Salgo will open tomorrow at St. Columba's Church and Amphitheater overlooking Tomales Bay.

Major attraction in the two-weekend festival featuring the music of Mozart will be the opera "The Magic Flute," semi-staged in English with piano accompaniment.

Opening event tomorrow at 3 p.m. in the amphitheater will be a Mozart Concert by the Festival orchestra conducted by Salgo. Performed will be the overture to "abduction from the Seraglio" and "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik"; the Concerto in D Minor for Piano and Orchestra with virtuoso pianist Julian White as soloist; and the Symphony in E Flat Major, No. 39, K 543.

Tomorrow night white will present an all-Mozart recital at 8 p.m. in St. Columba's Church. He will play the Sonata in C Major, K 309, Sonata in B Flat Major, K 333 and Fantasy and Sonata, K 475, K 457. This concert is sold out.

Sunday "The Magic Flute" will be presented in the Amphitheater at 3 p.m. It will be repeated at the same time and place on Sunday, Aug. 20. Among Marin singers featured in the cast are sopranos Gwen Curatilo and Margot Power.

The Marin Civic Ballet under direction of Leona Norman will perform on Saturday, Aug. 19, at 3 p.m. in the amphitheater. The program includes a "warm-up" ballet to music of Mozart: "Pas de Quatre" and "Paquita."

The evening concert on the same date will be a Harpsichord recital presented by Margaret Fabrizio at 8 o'clock in the church. She will play Sonata in G Major, K 283, Mozart: Sonata in A Major, C.P.E. Bach; Sonata in C Minor, Op. 17, No. 2, J. C. Bach; four polonaises, W. F. Bach, and Fantasia by Haydn.

Ticket information may be obtained by phoning the Inverness Music Festival office.

Marsh Purchase Fund Launched

The Greenbrae Improvement Club last night seeded the Heerdt Marsh Acquisition Fund with $2,000.

The Marin Conservation League established the fund to purchase the marsh on the south shore of the mouth of Corte Madera Creek as open space, according to Edith Witt, club secretary.

She said that a slide presentation on the marsh was available to groups interested in aiding the marsh preservation campaign.

Hub Rec Panel Denies Landscape Fund Waste

Charges by a landscape architect that San Anselmo has wasted thousands of dollars by removing plants from two downtown areas have been denied by the city's parks and recreation commission.

The commission, which toured downtown planting beds before its Wednesday meeting, declared that plant removal from beds near the Cheda boardwalk and across from the Tamalpais Theater was justified as preventive maintenance, according to Gary Hall, parks director.

The landscape architect, William L. Kapranos, had charged that removal of plants in the two areas was "needless destruction of adequate, healthy existing plantings," according to Howell.

He said his department had removed about $100 worth of plants, shrubs and trees from the beds because of disease and overcrowding.

Kapranos, who designed the city's master landscape plan six years ago, has estimated the cost of replacing plants removed from the beds at $3,960.

"We have no quarrel with his landscaping but we just don't know where he's getting his figures," Howell said, adding that the commission nevertheless welcomed the architect's advice and invited him to the Sept. 6 meeting.

The San Anselmo Parks and Recreation Commission also:

CARRIAGE HOUSE — Recommended that the city council approve an already budgeted expenditure of $2,116 for refurbishing the Carriage house in Robson-Harrington Park. Work scheduled includes floor refinishing, lighting and window repairs and repainting.

TENNIS COURT — Recommended that $3,900 owed to the firm of Mallott, Peterson-Grundy for work on the Memorial Park tennis court be place in escrow until the firm repaints the facility and repairs grooves and soggy asphalt areas, according to Howell.

RULES — Put over consideration of rules and regulations for the city tennis courts until the Sept. 6 meeting.

PING PONG — Turned down a request by David DeMoss for use of the Robson Carriage House as the site of a proposed 55-hour Ping Pong marathon because the facility is scheduled for repair.

ADJOURNAMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Sept. 6.

'Head Tax' Is Banned By Bill

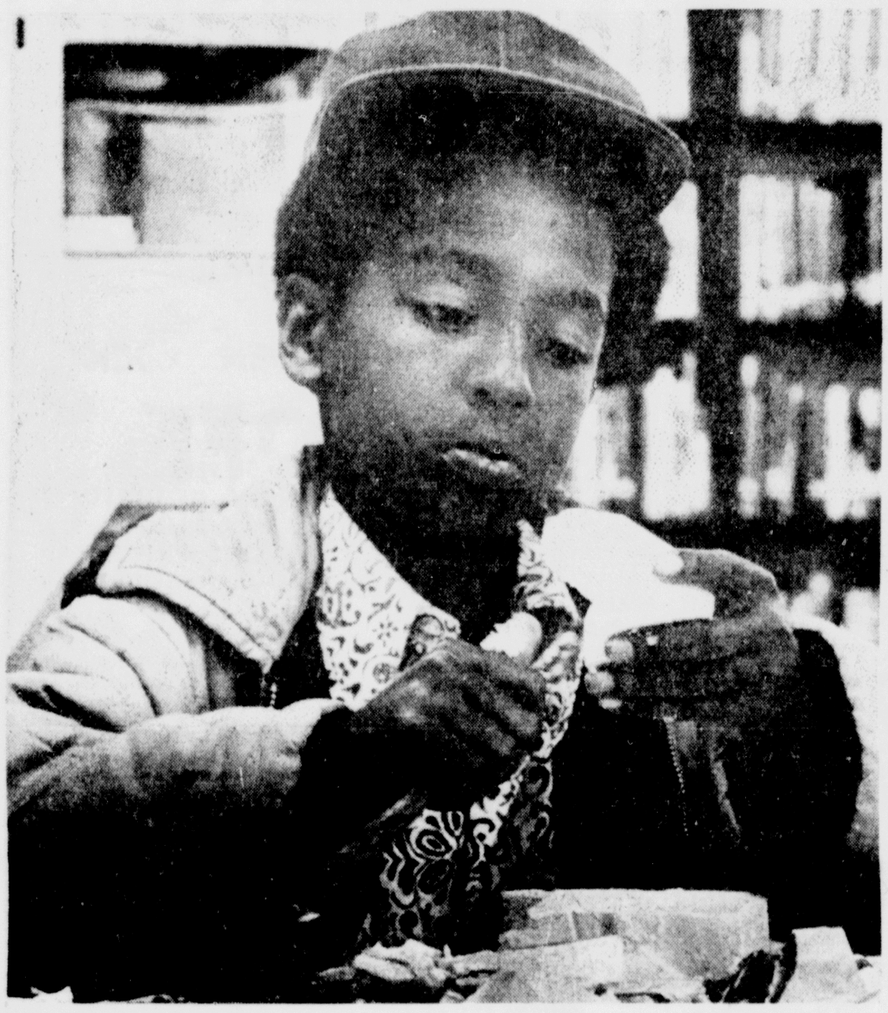
YOUNG ARTISTS AT WORK

Youngsters sprawl over the floor of the Marin City Library as they are given soap sculpturing lessons from Nelson Crutchfield, Mill Valley sculptor. Bars of soap, dull knives and imagination combine to make an assortment of artistic creations. There were ducks, guitars, faces and a jack-o-lantern as forty youngsters listened, carved and then took home their soap masterpieces.

(Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)



LOVE THAT SOAP — Derrick Hunt, 11, of Marin City carefully carves a bar of soap. He and about 40 other youngsters learned that soap can be more than something to wash with at a soap sculpture workshop at the Marin City Library. The workshop was one of the summer programs sponsored by the children's division of the Marin County Library System.

OEO Chief Sanchez Ails, Is Hospitalized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Phillip Sanchez, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity and the highest ranking Mexican-American in the Nixon administration, has been hospitalized for an undisclosed ailment.

A spokesman in Sanchez' office said the former Fresno County chief administrative officer would be unable to attend dedication ceremonies this weekend for a community center in his native city of Pinedale, a suburb of Fresno, Calif.

Governor Inks Two Behr BCDC-Related Measures

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Two bills sought by the Bay Conservation and Development Commission have been signed into law by Gov. onald Reagan.

One, SB 181, permits county supervisors serving on the commission to appoint any county official as an alternate. The present requirement that only supervsors may represent counties has resulted in low attendance at meetings and delays of commission actions.

The other bill, SB 793, extends the commission's jurisdiction up Corte Madera Creek to the Ross-Kentfield line. Its jurisdiction now ends at Highway 101, exempting from its controls creek property subject to development.

Both bills were introduced by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael. They will become effective by the end of March 1973.

Santa Rosan Injured

Good Report Is Given Economy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Herbert Stein, chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, told Nixon Thursday "the economy has behaved well" during the past year of administration wage and price controls.

Stein and other members of the Cost of Living Council conferred with Nixon for 90 minutes on the economic situation, including inflation and the current unemployment level of 5.5 per cent.

Stein told Nixon that "there is no question, when you look at all the figures in the last year, the economy has behaved well," Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters following the meeting.

Separate Bus Lanes May Be Coming Soon

Separate bus lanes on Highway 101 figure largely in the "phase two" report on plans for a "balanced transportation system" in Marin.

County planners who developed the report figure that a much-expanded bus fleet, using such reserved lanes, could carry half the Marin-San Francisco commute traffic with Marin population expanded to 285,000 by 1990.

The planners may be banking too heavily on use of buses and ferries in this projection. But it appears certain that use of buses can be increased if exclusive highway lanes are set apart for them.

And that should not wait until 1990, or 1980, or even 1975. It should be started now.

IT MAY BE, very soon. In fact, the Golden Gate Bridge District plans to start a limited trial of exclusive bus lanes next month.

The plan is to close two southbound lanes to automobiles and trucks during the evening commute hours, between the Golden Gate and Richardson Bay bridges. One of these would become a northbound lane for buses, with the other kept empty as a safety precaution.

The effect would be similar to that on the bridge itself, where barrier cones are moved to create an extra lane northbound for the evening commute and southbound for the morning commute. The initial bus-lane-only trial will be only during the evening commute, however, according to Dale W. Luehring, bridge district manager.

This is only a temporary device, to test how the system works. But if it works as expected, the bridge district will be lobbying for highway widening to permit exclusive bus lanes.

THE EXPECTED RESULT, of course, is faster time for the buses. And when they roll faster, they can be expected to attract more customers.

Actually, the bridge district's buses don't need any more commute customers. In fact, the district needs more buses to handle the commuters who already patronize it. But if faster buses result in more patronage, the increase in the bus fleet will follow. And with more commuters riding the buses, those driving their own cars will be able to make better time, too.

We doubt that this will prove the final solution to the Marin-San Francisco transportation problem. We think the county planners were remiss in not making more study of rail transit as compared with bus-ferry transit. Meantime, however — long before 1990 — exclusive bus lanes may provide a partial solution.

The Golden Gate Bridge District is to be commended for going ahead on a trial of this system — even on such a limited basis as that which is to start next month.

Right To Choose Funeral Almost Denied Californians

By RUS WALTON

Talk about the living end!

For awhile, last week, it appeared as though state government was about to join with "certified" funeral directors to tell you how you would bury your loved ones, and how much you would spend. It still may do just that.

SB 616 was carried by State Sen. Jack Schrade, R-San Diego. It was authored by Daniel Creedon, powerful lobbyist who represents the California Funeral Directors (and the Clifornia Brewers).

The bill was aimed at putting memorial societies out of business or into more expensive overhead. Its effect would have been to promote more costly funerals whether a family had the money or not, and whether the family wanted to spend the money or not.

About 50,000 Californians belong to memorial societies. The principal attraction of such a membership is that it helps reduce the cost of funeral and burial expenses.

THE SPECIFIC TARGET of Schrade's bill was the Telophase Society of San Diego. Individuals who do not care to have an expensive funeral can join the society for $15. When their time has come to depart this tired old globe, Telophase handles the burial details for a flat $250.

Telophase cremates the remains and distributes the ashes far out on the blue Pacific.

This may offend you; it may violate your religious beliefs. There are many who find solace in the frills of flowers and organ music, many who prefer the bronze casket, the long black hearse and the cemetery lot with marble monument and perpetual care.

That, of course, is their privilege. And funeral directors are glad to oblige. Special "package services" can run anywhere from $1,000 up.

But there are many who want only a simple burial; many who cannot afford or do not wish to spend money for a more lavish ceremony; many who do not believe that reverence, or love, must be equated with economics. For them, organizations such as Telophase perform a real service.

THE STATE BOARD of Funeral Directors and Embalmers, which is dominated by the "industry", pushed for passage of the Schrade bill. Its spokesman said the board was concerned about public health. Dr. Tom Weber, president of Telophase, produced a telegram from the San Diego County health office giving Telophase a clean bill.

Schrade's bill passed the Senate 25-0. It also passed the Assembly. But Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, D-Beverly Hills, called for reconsideration and waited three days to call for a second vote.

During those days, legislators were flodded with letters from irate citizens. Some legislators —who preach freedom of choice but who in this case voted for restriction of choice —suddenly found the courage of their constituents' convictions. (It is interesting to note that on the Assembly Ways and Means Committee, only three "liberal" Democrats defended the individual's right to go the memorial society route.)

When Sieroty did call for a vote on reconsideration of SB 616, defeat of the funeral directors' bill was assured.

ASSEMBLYMAN ROBERT Badham, R-Newport Beach, carried SB 616 in the lower house. Badham short-stopped its defeat by placing it on the inactive file. It will be considered when the Legislature convenes after the November election. That's when a politician is least susceptible to public pressure. I mean, once the lease is renewed for another two or four years, what's a voter?

Whoever gave government the right to use its power to help some special interest group erect private preserves or memorial cemeteries? Whoever said the state had the right to tell you that you must have a funeral which depletes your finances?

Citizens who care would do well to be on guard. The morticians and their lobbyists will be back in November. SB 616 is far from dead.

Punish Criminal; Don't Outlaw Guns

Your editorial of Aug. 1 regarding the restrictive use of handguns has a most familiar ring. Again, there is little or nothing said in regard to the person using them for criminal intent, nor the lack of prosecution when these persons are found to be guilty of these crimes, nor is there much said about laws already in effect regarding the use of such weapons, but as usual you blame the firearm itself, as well as every owner as a whole.

While you so liberally quote the speculations of Professor Zimring, you might also reveal the fact that in states where the most rigid laws regarding the possession of firearms are concerned; in these same states (New York is a splendid example), crimes involving the use of firearms are the highest in the nation.

The person accused of shooting Governor Wallace would never have been able to purchase a handgun if his previous sentence had not been reduced from a felony to a misdemeanor. Before you tell a hunter what firearm he may carry, or the private citizen what he may have in his home, why not emphasize keeping the criminal out of the streets? If you think that legislation denying the law-abiding citizen from possesisng handguns for his pleasure or protection will ever cause the criminal to dispose of his weapon, you really must be dreaming.

Joint Use Forum Proves Eye-Opener

Recently I attended a meeting of the San Marin Homeowners Association, brought together with the intention of discussing the proposed joint military-commercial use of Hamilton Air Field. It certainly was an eye-opener and eyebrow-raiser. I was already aware of such facts as the potential for an increase in noise pollution, an increase in traffic congestion, especially in the Novato area, and the probability that the commercial flights would, if economically feasible, not limit themselves to 40 operations a day. (That would mean 20 take-offs and 20 landings between 7 a.m. and 10 p.m.) Not to mention the question; Do We in Marin REALLY need the "convenience" of a commercial airport in our backyards?

But these things are all pretty self-evident. The more obscure factors brought up were things such as:

Hamilton will allow the commercial use of the landing strip only. That means hangars, terminal facilities, etc., will need to be built. Although this project is nobly planned with only the interests of the public at heart, unfortunately it will require the taxpayer to cover some of the initial costs. Original estimates ranged from 3 to 11 million dollars.

Proponents of the planned joint use also argue that it will broaden the tax base. Has anyone ever seen their taxes go down while the tax base was being broadened?

But, in case the airport runs into financial difficulty operating only commercial passenger flights, there is always the option of running cargo flights to Hamilton and then trucking the shipments out . . .

A pilot for a major airline also added a little excitement to the meeting by bringing up flight paths. The proposed flight path is one in which the aircraft would take off over Novato and swing out over the bay. But as a professional pilot, his opinion was that because of the usual prevailing winds and the already present air congestion out over the bay, pilots would, for the most part, take off over Novato, reaching an altitude of approximately 1,000 feet, and then go across Marin County out to the ocean and proceed from there . . .

It does take about 2 hours to get from the San Francisco Airport to Marin, especially Northern Marin. But isn't it nice to come home to a quiet place? I think that with any imagination, a resident of Marin could easily visualize the potential impact of the proposed joint use of Hamilton . . .

McGovern Cartoon Stoops Too Low

I realize, and appreciate, that many items, editorials, etc. printed in the I-J are subject to repercussions, and this must be taken with a grain of salt and/or expected — no one can please all the people all the time, however, I believe that the political cartoon that appeared in today's paper (Aug. 3) was far below the criterion that you have set up for your publications and your readers feel for the I-J.

I realize that all must make a living with what ever means that are available to a person, but "enough! Enough! f'God's sake . . . turn off the electric shock treatments!" as said in a caricature depicting Senator McGovern, is really digging deep and low to come up with a few dollars. If this is how Hugh Haynie must make his living, I pity him. To earn your money by ridiculing others' painful experiences is, in my opinion, no better nor no worse than the "pushers" who live off the "victims" they have addicted . . .

Novato Challenged On Sign Regulation

I feel that we have arrived at a point in the history of our 12-year-old city that at least one of the excesses of our "planning staff" should be exposed to public view.

I recently received a letter from them which stated, "Failure to comply with the conditions of the sign variances issued to you by July 24, 1972 will constitute grounds for a zoning violation." My reply to that letter was simply, "The only information I have on the subject is pure hearsay." Their response to that letter was a legal-size pink sheet with a big black block lettering "NOTICE OF ZONING VIOLATION" and listing the "PENALTY FOR FAILURE TO COMPLY."

The document has the appearance of an old-fashioned quarantine notice and is intended to scare the uninitiated into immediate compliance. The original of the notice was "served" on my tenant by two separate coteries of the Novato police.

Legal counsel advises me that this procedure is strictly illegal and the ordinance itself unconstitutional. I therefore challenge these young smart-alecks to test their case in a court of law and to quit harassing my tenant forthwith. I will abide by the judgment of the court but will never knuckle under to a gestapo-type directive.

Russian Departure From Egypt Again Shows Reds' Pragmatism

The most interesting thing that happened on the world scene over the last couple of weeks was the manner in which the Russians continued to take Russian troops out of Egypt. They went, not kicking and screaming and tossing back invective, but mildly and under the pretense that it was all happily prearranged.

That there was any prearrangement seems highly doubltful. There is no evidence known in the West that the Russians were either consulted or even informed in advance of the decision by the Egyptian government to reduce the number of Russians in their midst. But the Russians have preferred to try to present the withdrawal as the result of mutual agreement. Just being kicked out is harder to accept. It hurts one's ego.

THIS MAKES the second mess of humble crow the Russians have had to swallow in recent times. Their last previous meal of this delicacy has hardly yet been fully digested. It consisted of having to sit on the sidelines and do nothing effective while Richard Nixon's aircraft dropped mines in the harbor of Haiphong and bombs on the roads and rail lines into North Vietnam from China and so delayed the delivery of Russia's weapons to the hard-pressed armies of Russia's ally in the Vietnam war.

The men of Moscow sit on their hands and make restrained noises of protest at Washington. The noises are far more noteworthy for being restrained than for their vigor. The Kremlin is accepting an attempted military blockade of North Vietnam just as it accepts an order from Egypt's president to get a lot of their troops out of Egypt.

All of which merely helps to draw ever more clearly the picture of the kind of a world we live in now.

IT IS A WORLD in which Russia dare not treat Egypt as it once did Czechoslovakia. There were a lot of Russian troops inside Egypt. Russians manned the missile sites and air bases and the naval facilities. It is a reasonable presumption that if Moscow had given an order, the Russians in Egypt could have taken effective military control of the country.

How long the Russians could have held Egypt is another matter. There is the American presence in the eastern Mediterranean to give encouragement to the Egyptians had they chosen to rise. And there is the recent memory of British efforts to stay on in Egypt longer than they were welcome. In time, they had to go. The important fact is that the Russians, obviously, did not think seriously of attempting to enforce their control over Egypt by force of arms. When told to go they went, as told.

Of course, they went quietly for many reasons. They don't want a confrontation with the United States. They have to remember China at their back door. Russia never liked to get caught in a two-front war, or power struggle. Their east and west frontiers are too open and vulnerable. And the Kremlin, obviously, has decided to go along with Richard Nixon.

They seem to be confident that they can continue to do business with him and that they will have another four years in which to do it. (The manner of their going from Egypt itself confirms this calculation.) Of course, a similar calculation has been made in Peking. That was obvious from the moment they agreed to let Mr. Nixon go to the Imperial City.

LEFT UNCLEAR at this moment is whether the leaders in Hanoi are willing to accept the wisdom of the moment of Peking and Moscow. If they accept the fact that Mr. Nixon is the probable winner in November, they might make peace with him before November. What kind of stuff are they made of? Are they the last remaining true believers in the Communist world, who would rather go on fighting to the bitter end against all the odds?

Or are they on the verge of joining Moscow and Peking in the ranks of the new pragmatists who think it is better to survive and make do than to engage in perpetual struggle?

Shriver Fills McGovern's Needs; Strange He Wasn't Picked Earlier

WASHINGTON — It may seem inconsistent to say a man has a lot of gall suggesting himself for governor of a middle-size state, and then turn around to describe him as an excellent prospect for vice president. But it is not. I say so because that is just where I find myself in the matter of R. Sargent Shriver Jr.

Two years ago, when he was still ambassador to France, Shriver came back to the states to shop around for an outlet for his political ambitions. On that occasion, he thought he might like to be governor of Maryland.

Understand, please, that polictical ambition is no sin, and no disqualifying trait in a candidate for public office. It is the force that drives many men to equip themselves for higher things, to accept sweaty and thankless jobs as a means of accumulating credit with their party or their electorate. The rare politician without ambition usually is worthless, and that small group does not include Shriver.

AS LONG AGO as 1963, less than a month after the death of his brother-in-law John Kennedy, Shriver was being mentioned as a vice-presidential choice the next year for Lyndon Johnson. At that time, he might have been a reasonable selection, although his only important public experience had been two years as director of the Peace Corps. What mainly qualified him was his relation to the Kennedys, and the widespread feeling that some Kennedy tie was essential to Mr. Johnson's success as President.

However, President Johnson did not share that feeling so acutely. He chose Hubert Humphrey for vice president, and Shriver to run his war on poverty. But by 1968, Shriver's name was up in political circles again —this time in Chicago, where Richard J. Daley's friends were talking about him as a Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate seat then held by Everett Dirksen. Nothing ever came of it, but as during the 1964 vice-presidential gossip, Shriver was not going around issuing adamant denials of interest.

The Illinois non-episode made two points about Shriver: his rating among practical political outfits like the Daley organization, and the geographical flexibility he had acquired by being born and raised in Maryland and living and voting in Chicago, and thus being eligible to seek office in either state.

WHILE ROBERT KENNEDY was still letting Eugene McCarthy measure the scale of the anti-Johnson movement in 1968, Shriver accepted appointment as ambassador to France and went off to embellish his Washington bureaucratic background with formal diplomatic experience.

By 1970, Shriver was 54 and serving in a Nixon administration. His future in elective politics was getting to the now-or-never stage. So he came back and tested the climate in Maryland — whether to run in the Democratic primary against incumbent Gov. Marvin Mandel.

That outing was disastrous in concept and embarrassing in execution. Shriver, who maintained a home in the Maryland suburbs of Washington but had no acquaintance with the state's problems, put himself forth to replace a successful governor of his own party. Many Marylanders, myself included, called it preposterous. Fortunately for Shriver, he found Mandel's strength so formidable that he backed out, and as a face-saver undertook a 32-state fund-raising expedition for Democratic congressional candidates.

But he had disclosed the heat of his ambition. Thus when he took a New York law partnership, it was assumed in this town that he was setting himself up to run for something there. That is where he stood when George McGovern became the first presidential candidate to read down the vice-presidential list far enough to reach the name of Shriver.

ONE WONDERS now why it took so long. Bill Moyers once said Shriver "can clothe a liberal idea in the most respectable conservative language. He'll persuade them it's patriotic. He's like the Apostle Paul, 'All things to all men,' when he is interpreting an idea he is selling."

What more could George McGovern ask in a campaigner? Well, you might combine that with a Catholic with broad administrative experience in Washington, board acceptance among professional politicians, more foreign background than the No. 1 man on the ticket, in a man who has paid his party dues with unglamorous fund-raising work. In fact, in this decade of ambition, Shriver has managed to convert his Kennedy inlawship from his main qualification to an incidental addition to the record that makes him the obvious man on any Democratic national ticket.

Even Here In Marin County, Public Officials Seek Psychiatry

Is Sen. Thomas Eagleton the only candidate for public office ever to have had psychiatric treatment?

Not by a long shot! If a random sampling of Marin County psychiatrists is any indication, public officials are as prone to bare their souls during the 50-minute hour as television repairmen or real estate developers or dentists.

Most of the psychiatrists said they thought the experience on the couch might improve the man and the way he performs his duties.

"A LARGE NUMBER of people who seek psychiatric help are above average in competence," one psychiatrist said.

Said another: "I don't possibly see how it could disqualify a person from holding public office. Private industry uses psychiatry to evaluate workers and assist them with personality adjustments."

"Why shouldn't our leaders be fit?" another responded.

All but one of a dozen psychiatrists queried said they had first-hand knowledge, or had heard from colleagues, about public officials — including some from Marin County — who were in therapy.

One doctor was aware of a "clear-cut case." Another said he suspected a "reasonable" number of politicians were being treated in the Bay Area. A third said he knew of "many" now seeing psychiatrists.

One local psychiatrist said he had treated one of Marin County's elected officials.

SENATOR EAGLETON'S disclosure may have unleashed a flood of imitators.

Like the impact of television on electioneering, psychiatry might already have altered the way politicians conduct campaigns and present themselves to the public.

If honesty and candor are the order of the day this election year, what's to prevent an innovative vote seeker from extending the theme, declaring that since he has plumbed his psyche, he's a better choice than his unhappy neurotic opponent?

Like charisma and Kennedy haircuts, psychiatry could become a hot political fad. The day may not be distant when city councils adjourn to encounter sessions and planning commissions reform as T-groups.

Esalen could be booked for years with busloads of supervisors, city attorneys, and public works officials thirsting for insight.

And if the trend continues to 1976, there could be stigma to not having been psychoanalyzed.

The next political scandal could involve a candidate forced out of the running because of a disclosure by columnist Jack Anderson that the man has missed most of his appointments with his doctor.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

'Balanced Transportation' Study Slower Than Commute Traffic

Well, it happened again. They do say that I had a birthday Tuesday — 84. It's been a short year, but I am very grateful to have been around and able to write for you. My memory starts when I was four and I wish there was time to write about those 80 years; a lot of interesting things happened in the world.

Now for tonight — first a correction: I wrote that Supervisor Michael Wornum first voted "no" on a planning matter, then wanted to grant a year extension and finally voted for a six-month extension. It was a personnel matter, not planning. I didn't catch it when I read over my copy.

He did rate a red banner line, though, in Wednesday's I-J. He told county planner Robert Harrison, who handled the transit study Phase II: "You've let the political controversy affect. . .a technical report. . .political decision should be left to the board."

That report was a honey. It wonders one as to just how Supervisor Arrigoni will handle a six-lane highway from San Rafael to Fairfax? Sort of seems like that's what he defeated the incumbent supervisor for district 2 with last time around.

IN CHECKING OUT the parks and recreation budget that I promised last week, here are some amounts: The total budget is $1,585,715. As has been stated before in news stories, open space $700,000, then Stafford Lake $40,000, service yard $59,740, tennis and swim center $75,000, trails $100,000 (that really makes open space $800,000).

The more one considers this "balanced transportation" study, clearer and clearer emerges the oldtime depression word — "boondogling." Random House dictionary: "Work of little or no practical value done to keep or look busy."

I am mailing today my check for a copy so that I may study it first-hand. The by-line report by Erik M. Ingram in Tuesday's I-J looks like he covered all the bases in good shape, but there may be times when I will want to use quotes from the report direct.

HERE ARE A FEW excerpts from hisqstory: The study was "authorized during 1968." (Now four years later they are starting on Phase III). Phase I with a population of "786,000 would have an expansion of Highway 101 to three times its present width." (What a foolish waste of time!)

The present Phase II "envisaging a population of 285,000 by 1990 is estimated at over $500 million. Known sources of capital funding may provide a little more than $400 million. . . additional sources for the $100 million will have to be found."

Basically the plan calls for buses and ferries only. They disregarded lightweight trains on a second deck of the bridge. This is what made Wornum lose his cool.

Fancy getting all the necessary done by 1990 — 17½ years! During the six years ending this fiscal year they have spent $1,724,570. What are their credentials for this type of thing?

Meteor Seen In Western U.S.

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (UPI) —A brilliant fireball that streaked across the northwestern United States Thursday was probably a meteor from the asteroid belt.

"It's a piece of debris from a minor, fragmented planet," said Dr. Mark Litman of Salt Lake City's Hansen Planetarium.

He said the object, seen in several western states and Canada, might have been "as large as a desk or a car or even larger." He added it could have landed in central Canada.

New Signs Hinting Wallace Recovery

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)— Gov. George C. Wallace has some feeling in the paralyzed lower portion of his body but his rehabilitation specialist says it's too soon to determine its significance.

Dr. George Traugh, the rehabilitation specialist, also said Thursday Wallace's release from Spain Rehabilitation Center, scheduled for late next week, probably would be delayed by a new abdominal abscess.

Traugh said he confirmed the return of "some sensation" to Wallace's buttocks and thighs while he was with the governor during the weekend.

"It's too early to tell what this means as far as walking again," Traugh said. "All I can say is that for some time now we've been saying that we were just going to have to wait and see if the governor had any return of feeling.

"And now we're seeing some early return of feeling."

About the new abscess, he said, "We want to treat this conservatively, without surgery, if we can. The governor does not have any fever now, and we are going to keep watch on that situation."

Wallace has undergone surgery twice for infection in the abdomen as a result of being shot May 15. One operation was performed in Maryland and one here after his admission July 14.

Traugh and Dr. George Hallenbeck, the surgeon, said the infected area that was operated on here has healed and that the new area was found in recent X-rays.

Sailing Ship Gets Coast Guard Help

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—An American-owned sailing ship carrying 56 persons on a pleasure cruise was reported out of danger today. The barkentine had been battered for two days by a hurricane and was taking on water 1,100 miles out in the Pacific.

Coast Guard and Air Force planes Thursday dropped pumps which enabled the crew to drain the barkentine—the Regina Maris.

The 56 persons aboard—all Americans except for the English captain and a Dutch first mate—had stood by in life jackets in case she got into worse difficulties, said Greg Cook, owner of the vessel.

All aboard were "in good shape" and the ship would probably be towed to Panama for repairs, Cook said.

Cook, 27, of Palos Verdes, Calif., said the latest reports from the Coast Guard listed the major problem as a broken tail shaft.

The 144-foot, three-masted barkentine is registered in Malta and owned by Ocean Wide Sailing Co., which Cook said operates the vessel on pleasure cruises from Mexico and Los Angeles to the Polynesian Islands in the South Seas. The Regina Maris was returning from the Polynesian Islands.

Captain Paul Maskell reported that the ship was taking on 2,000 gallons of water an hour.

ABORTION'S EFFECT?

Birth Rate And Welfare Show Marked Decline

By CHARLES McFADDEN

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's liberalized abortion law has resulted in a steep drop in birth rates and a shrinking of welfare rolls, population researchers report.

"There is beginning to be a reduction in the supply of children who become — because of the circumstances of their parents — welfare recipients through government aid to dependent children and foster child programs," Kingsley Davis, chairman of the University of California's International Population and Urban Research Center at Berkeley, said today.

"We probably have the latest data of any state with a liberalized abortion law," Davis added. "I would assume that much the same thing would happen in other states given the same set of circumstances."

The state's Therapeutic Abortions Act, passed in 1967, allows abortions if the mental or physical health of the mother is endangered, or for rape or incest. There were 116,749 legal abortions in California during 1971, says the State Department of Public Health.

The UC center says in a just-issued report that illegitimate pregnancies dropped by 16 per cent in the nation's most populous state between 1970 and 1971 while legitimate births declined by 10 per cent.

Jack Thompson, executive secretary of the state Board of Social Welfare, agrees with Davis' conclusions, based "on tendencies and trends and on the basis of limited knowledge."

Thompson said the board has launched a study to try to pin down exact figures on declines in welfare rolls that can be directly attributed to legalized abortions. Such figures are not available now, he said in an interview.

Davis believes legitimacy affects welfare rolls because the proportion of persons less able to rear children is higher among unmarried than among married parents.

"In every country, the rate of stillbirths, deaths, adoption, dependency, neglect and cruelty is much higher for illegitimate children," he said.

California's abortion law, along with New York's, is considered among the most liberal in the United States.

The number of live births per 1,000 women declined by six per cent nationwide between 1970 and 1971 but there was an 11.6 drop in California during the same period, the report said.

Marin County reflected the drop in overall births as it dropped from 15.3 births per thousand in population (1970) to 13.9 in 1971.

"These and other findings . . . indicate that legal abortion has played, and can continue to play, a significant role in slowing the population growth from both legitimate and illegitimate fertility in this state," the report said.

The study was prepared by Berth Berkov, a public health statistician in the State Department of Public Health, and June Sklar, an assistant research demographer at the UC Center.

Other means of birth control such as contraceptives, tubal ligations and vasectomies must also be considered factors but "since it is the availability of abortions that distinguishes California from much of the rest of the United States, it may be presumed that abortion did indeed play a key role in reducing fertility," they said.

Mrs. Reagan Is Object Of Joke

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Fresno County Welfare Office form letter looked official, but Mrs. Nancy Reagan's personal secretary says the notice that the Mrs. Reagan's request for food stamps had been turned down was "another practical joke."

Mrs. Nancy Hetrick, who screens the mail addressed to the governor's wife, reported Thursday that the letter was sent to Mrs. Reagan a week ago.

"I wrote back and said, 'obviously there has been some mistake or the letter apparently was sent to the wrong person,'" Mrs. Hetrick said.

"I think it was just another practical joke," Mrs. Hetrick said.

She said Mrs. Reagan never saw the lettar, and added that Fresno County Welfare Director Reed K. Clegg wrote a letter apologizing for the incident and promising an investigation to determine if one of the county employes had sent the letter.

2 Pilots Dead In Plane Crash

NELLIS AFB, Nev. (UPI)— An F4 jet fighter smashed into the desert while practicing night strafing runs, exploding its rockets, bombs and cannon ammunition and killing the two men aboard.

The crash ocurred Wednesday night but was not made public by the Air Force until Thursday.

The dead were Capt. William Nelson II, 28, Cartersville, Ill., instructor pilot, and Capt. Richard Mucciano, 29, St. Petersburg, Fla., the Air Force said.

$1,100 In Demo Money Returned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jim Powell found $1,100 in a file cabinet used at the Democratic national convention and apparently surmised that the debt-ridden Democratic party needed the money more than he did.

Powell returned the money by mail with "a short note written in long hand because I was out on a job and didn't have a chance to get it typed."

Carol Lottman, a Democratic presidential campaign aide, phoned Powell to thank him for returning the money. She said Sen. George S. McGovern "would write him personally as soon as possible to thank him too."

McGovern Proposals Challenged

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

The president of the nation's largest independent labor union describes as "nonsense" Sen. George S. McGovern's proposals on welfare, taxes, amnesty, busing and the Vietnam war.

Frank B. Fitzsimmons of the 2.1 million member Teamsters Union characterized the Democratic presidential candidate Thursday as an enemy of labor. Fitzsimmons, whose union has endorsed President Nixon, urged union members to spurn McGovern's efforts to win their votes.

Fitzsimmons was joined in lambasting McGovern by Nixon's campaign director, Clark MacGregor, who challenged the South Dakota senator to put his proposals to a Senate test immediately. MacGregor predicted they would be rejected "by a vote of 95 to 1." But MacGregor also said the Nixon campaign staff was working to combat overconfidence and was running the campaign as "if the President were one vote behind" despite polls showing Nixon far ahead.

While his critics spoke out against him, McGovern plunged into a three-state campaign swing through New England.

Fitzsimmons accused McGovern of "grossly distorting President Nixon's record while covering up his own performance in public life which is not one on behalf of those who labor."

The Teamsters president said McGovern's welfare proposals would bankrupt the federal treasury and wipe out the $750 per person income tax exemption. He said McGovern's proposals included one "to beg to Hanoi, thus embarrassing the United States in the eyes of the world."

"American working men and women did not labor and sweat through generations for this kind of nonsense," Fitzsimmons said.

Despite Fitzsimmons' blast, McGovern picked up the endorsement of another union Thursday—the Textile Workers Union of America. He also was endorsed by the Utah State AFL-CIO. With AFL-CIO President George Meany at odds with McGovern, the AFL-CIO executive council declined to endorse a presidential candidate this year, but several large member unions have endorsed McGovern individually.

G. M. Engines Pass Smog Test

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. says its entire line of 1973 passenger car engines have passed government required emission control tests—paving the way for production of the new models.

The Environmental Protection Agency, according to Ernest S. Starkman, vice president in charge of the General Motors environmental activities staff, certified the 1973 engines Thursday.

Engines for American Motors Corp., the smallest of the nation's big four automakers, were certified earlier this week, according to a spokesman for the company.

Chrysler Corp. and Ford Motor Co. engines have yet to be certified.

FASHION RADICAL Courreges showed this blue brushed wool denim pantsuit at the Paris showing of fall and winter collections.

By DIANA LOERCHER
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

PARIS — Like politics, the Paris collections for the fall and winter season divide conveniently into three categories which can best be described as conservative, liberal and radical.

The net result is moderate chic, presented over the course of four densely packed days during which glassy-eyed women of the press fought for seats, cooled themselves with portable fans, daubed their eyelids with perfume, petted their dogs and snoozed.

The conservatives represent the venerable bastions of haute couture — Dior, Givenchy and Chanel. They also are the least innovative, choosing to play it safe with proven formulas that appeal primarily to the sophisticated woman over 30.

The liberals are a bit more experimental. They orbit around the norms but also go off on occasional tangents that make them appealing to a younger, brasher, 20-to-30 age group.

Finally, the radicals such as Courreges and Feraud flout conventions to design individualistic clothes, which in many cases only a teen-ager would have the nerve or the right to wear. Paris, indeed, separates women from the girls.

THE STRONG bid for power by these two secondary groups reflects the influence of the ready-to-wear industry, a dangerous competitor, on haute couture. Yves Saint-Laurent is a prime defector to this enemy camp. But spring sales figures discredit the predictions of the prophets of doom, at least for the time being, with private customers rather than retailers keeping haute couture alive.

General trends that cut across "party" lines are mixed fabrics such as rough or soft wools with suede, leather or fur; tiny leather belts around the waists; chemise dresses often with monotonous geometric prints; pleated, bias cut, or straight skirts under fitted jackets or three-quarter coats; baggy trousers; and more furs.

Some designers such as Dior, Givenchy and Balmain regrettably persist in using snow leopard, ocelot and seals.

Plaids, tweeds, and gray flannel (often double-faced), chiffon, and black velvet are fabrics favored by all the designers, and pleats and ruffles are the preferred decoration. Sleeves — belled, capped, short, bishop, leg of mutton or not at all — are another ubiquitous obsession.

While the conservative silhouette is basically loose and sedate with a lowered waistline, a blouson bodice over a skinny little belt, and lengths to the knee, the other two groups raise the waist through elasticized belts or ribbing on the jackets, with a fitted bodice. Pants are also tighter and skirts fuller, shorter and bouncier for a more youthful message underscored by the rock or jazz background throbbing away during the shows.

Hats are mostly tight-fitting cloches and helmets, or tube turbans that look like hair dryer caps.

The news in shoes is platform soles with varying degrees of heaviness and height with fairly thick heels.

Here are the conservatives:

GIVENCHY: The highlight of Hubert De Givenchy's line is his tunic coat with cap shoulders with which he garnishes pants, suits, and dresses in contrasting fabrics. He plumps for subdued tweed suits for daytime and princess-style dinner dresses — one of which has a perfectly joined latticework print that reminds you that couture means quality.

His evening wear is spectacular, with dazzling black pantssuit with sequins or mirror mosaic borders and sinuous pajama suits with an exotic leopard print.

DIOR: Marc Bohan for Dior is reliable, but this season his cautiousness is disappointing. His most interesting contribution is the gray flannel suit with matching hat, double-faced in bright colors (coat lining is virtually nonexistent this season except in fur).

Chemise dresses with little pleats, dropped waist, and a blouson bodice are understated to the point of ennui. For dinner his best is a short pleated chiffon with a double skirt, and for later sultry halter or one-shoulder gowns. He covers some of his soft evening clothes with rather grotesque rough wool or suede jackets and insists on tossing a fur boa over virtually everything.

DIOR DID this short coat worn over full-length printed dress.

RICCI: Gerard Pipart for Nina Ricci has gone Anglophile. British plaids and tweeds, especially herringbone and Prince of Wales, are the fabrics for her very slim, very tailored line. There is a very businesslike look about her clothes that makes them ideal for the woman who doesn't want to look self-consciously stylish.

CHANEL: There will always be a place for the Chanel suit in any woman's wardrobe, but unfortunately there is no more Chanel. Still, Gaston Berthelot is doing his best to carry on the tradition, with a dazzling array of tweeds cut a little fuller and a little longer than she might have wished. Skirts are straight and pleated and blouses soft and loose. Sometimes the two are combined in a dress. For evening it's a regalia of ruffles.

Here are the liberals:

UNGARO: Emanuel Ungaro's collection has caused one of this season's sensations, especially in sportswear. Double-faced cashmere and mohair coats with wide lapels and drawstring belts open to reveal lush angora dresses with elasticized waists and wrists and flared skirts. The softness is not only in the fabric but the cut. Like the Americans, Ungaro has a taste for separates, which he gives disarming chic in his stunningly coordinated pants suits. His forte is his understanding of cloth, which he molds like a sculptor.

LANVIN: Jules-Francois Crahay has blown a breath of life into clothes. Mixed fabrics, long fuzzy bathrobe coats, white with brightly colored Matisse, splotches, knee-length pants, and short warm-up jackets ribbed at the waist and wrist all give a youthful panache to his sportswear.

One of his most bizarre innovations is the short-sleeve coat cut like a smock, enticing in itself but rather peculiar when paired with long wool knit gloves.

CARDIN: Pierre Cardin is something of a borderline case, insofar as he could just as well be placed in the next category. Many of his styles are too adult for the young and too wild for anyone older. His tunic dresses with exaggerated shoulders over body stockings are loud — the kind of dress no one ever forgets, unfortunately. His dinner dresses are more reasonable and "classic," but moving into the wee hours, the picture again grows weird with drooping sleeves, mincing sheaths, or chiffon petal skirts slashed in V's that you could wear only in a school spring pageant or to a pagan ritual.

Here are the radicals:

COURREGES: Andre Courreges, who started his career as a fitter for Balenciaga, has come a long way in a different direction. He draws heavily on sports for inspiration, and the question is whether his clothes are for women who wish they were little girls, or even little boys.

His evening wear tends toward the denude, as the French say, and is tempered by appliqued flowers, feathers, and ribbons. It's terribly gimmicky and unwearable except by the young, but it's fun.

FERAUD: Louis Feraud is tame in comparison, though his mini and maxidresses in psychedelic Swedish flowered prints would seem to belie it. His sportswear is fitted canvas and wool with leather appliques in safari or 1940-s styles, sometimes with convict stripes. Skirts are flared with rounded pleats, and pants high-waisted and belled.

ESTEREL: Jacques Esterel is a maverick designer who, like Cardin, doesn't really belong anywhere — but for different reasons. Protesting against the "fascism" of industrialization, Esterel is experimenting with clothes that cannot only be worn by anybody, but made by anybody. He borrows from primary geometric shapes —the rectangle, the triangle, and the rhombus —for jumpers, tunics, and ponchos that cover the body while giving it a dramatic configuration. His is the simplest and most avant-garde form of dress to be seen in the collections and a do-it-yourself solution to the dilemma of what to wear.

By HELEN BOTTEL

Are Spoilsports Tactless, Or Just Plain Catty Persons?

DEAR HELEN:

Are some women born tactless or are they just plain mean?

In almost every gathering you'll find one who just can't give a compliment that doesn't have an implied slam.

For instance: I'd lost weight (after much effort). Daisy (we'll call her) listened to others telling me how well I looked, and agreed, "Yes, isn't it wonderful to finally be rid of that old middle-aged spread?"

She's the same one who told me my new hairdo was great because the bangs covered "all those wrinkles" in my forehead. I hadn't been aware of them, before.

She likes someone's dress because "the color helps a sallow complexion." Or, at a dinner party: "Isn't Terry (the hostess) wonderful? I wouldn't DARE use chuck steak for Stroganoff, but SHE makes it taste like sirloin!"

DEAR CONNIE:

They're aware! But if you accuse them of cattiness, they'll go kittenish with, "But I was just trying to say something nice."

Put the loaded compliment down to jealousy. And laugh! I know a woman who collects them because they make such good conversation pieces. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Please, once again, can you give us the name and address of the little magazine that lists tips on money saving grocery coupons, refunds, special savings, etc. which food and household goods companies offer to increase sales?

So often I hear about cash refunds for box or can labels, but by the time I find out all the details, the offer has expired.

I read in a magazine (which got thrown away before I copied the address) that this monthly saves grocery shoppers $100 or more annually and only costs $3.00 a year. — HOPEFUL

DEAR HOPEFUL:

I believe you're talking about Quicksilver. You can subscribe, or obtain further information about it by writing to Eggleson Enterprise, Milford, New York, 13807. Quicksilver describes itself as "a monthly bulletin listing manufacturers' offers, special cash refunds, wholesale purchasing sources and other money-saving information." And it can save housewives quite a lot! — H.

Louis-Jones Rite In St. Anselm's

MRS. SAMUEL R. LOUIS

Linda Frances Jones of Kentfield and Samuel Robert Louis of Paradise Valley, Ariz., were married at St. Anselm's Church in San Anselmo on Saturday afternoon.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Jones of Kentfield, chose her sister, Barbara Jones as honor attendant. The bridesmaids were Cathy Oberto, Kathleen English, Mrs. James Jacobs and Karla Kinkel.

After the nuptials a reception was held at the Jones home. When the couple return from a wedding trip to Hawaii, they will live in Phoenix, Ariz.

Linda is a graduate of San Domenico School for Girls, attended the University of Oregon and received a degree from the University of San Francisco. She took graduate studies at Arizona State University. She was a 1968 Marin Debutante.

Linda is the sister of Mrs. William Asbell and Charles O. Jones Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Louis of Paradise Valley, Ariz., are Samuel's parents. The bridegroom was graduated from Brophy Prep School and the University of San Francisco. He also has been a graduate student at Arizona State University.

PRINCESS GROWING UP

Sports Lose Out To Dates

By MARGARET SAVILLE

LONDON (UPI)—Any parent will recognize the symptoms. A daughter who has lived for sports alone suddenly appears to discover there are other interests in the world for a girl — especially a young, rich, attractive and very eligible girl.

What is the diagnosis?

In the case of Princess Anne her own parents, Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, have probably already made it.

The Princess will be 22 on Aug. 15. The early 20's are "the marriage zone" for royalty and the Princess has begun to look upon boy friends with the interest she has been lavishing on her jumping horses.

Princess Anne made a great and gallant effort to achieve the 1972 Olympic team. She showed the courage and the ability and lost out when her horse suffered an injury. She hid the heartbreak behind the promise, "there's always 1976."

LATELY SHE's stopped using the phrase. It may have occurred to her that she might be married before then which presumably would rule out the 7 a.m. practice rides, the strict diet, early-to-bed-no-parties regime she had to follow in training for the British riding team.

There is no special boy friend on the scene at the moment. A few have dropped from her circle because they can't stand the publicity and the limelight and the Scotland Yard detective who always makes it a three-some on dates.

Many people still think Princess Anne will marry Crown Prince Carl Gustav of Sweden. The 26-year-old Prince was once quoted as saying he did not intend to marry Anne, but when she was in the hospital for an operation he telephoned her regularly and sent her masses of flowers. Although seemingly cool to each other at the Shah of Iran's fabulous 2,500th anniversary party last autumn, court circles say they're back on a friendly footing again.

THE COUPLE met informally in london recently. Prince Carl Gustav always calls at Buckingham Palace as a relation. They will inevitably meet at the Olympic Games at Munich and again when he comes to London in November for a big family celebration of the silver wedding annivarsary of Elizabeth and Philip.

There is speculation that Princess Anne may be given the title of Princess Royal by the Queen on her birthday. The title is customarily bestowed on the eldest daughter of the sovereign. It would confirm her precedence as the third lady in the land behind the Queen and Queen Mother Elizabeth.

Space Suit Has Found Uses

The space suit worn by Apollo astronauts is a 65 pound (earth weight) garment in which all the viable and life supporting elements of earth are contained. In space it weighs nothing and in the lunar gravity it weighs 10 and a half pounds.

The development of space suit technology has also contributed to better methods for protection and survival of persons exposed to the hazards of earth. Space underwear contains fine tubing through which water flows at regulated temperatures.

The same vari-temp garment has been adapted for use by blast furnace operators, miners, firemen, Navy deep-sea divers and meat packers in cold storage plants.

ON BEING BLACK

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

"What's exotic abut changing soiled diapers, cleaning up spilled oatmeal and rushing to the hospital emergency ward at 3 o'clock in the morning?" writes an indignant white mother of an adopted black child in response to a comment (which appeared in this column several months ago) by a black person that "some whites consider a black child an exotic curiosity — a contemporary piece."

The mother continues, "Believe me, my dear, the adoption of any child is simply a labor of motherly love. Exotic, indeed!"

The problem of adoption of homeless children surfaces periodically, but it is a subject that remains in need of constant concern and attention.

Adoption practices have changed considerably over the years, and transracial adoption, along with singles and subsidy adoptions, has surfaced as a viable solution for "unadoptables" — minority and racially mixed children.

WITH OUR ever-present racial hang-ups, which thankfully many of us are outgrowing, transracial adoption is still a controversial issue. Reader response to the adoption column was heavy. Along with expressions of indignation that some blacks could dare not subscribe to white families adopting black children came many personal transracial experiences and suggestions of ways to handle some of the problems that arise in multiracial families. Some responses follow:

From California: "We are an interracial couple and, like several other mixed couples we know, have adopted a mixed child. We are striving to give our new son the best of two worlds."

From Arizona (where the American Indian child is often the minority child): "In considering the welfare of the child, there seems to me to be two ways of testing the sincerity of whites who wish to adopt minority children. For one thing, it is better to adopt two than one of any minority group. The two might not like or prefer each other, but at least they may appreciate the mirror reflection. And the other: The sincerity of the adopting parents can be judged by whether they have adult friends of the same race as the child. The young of any country can be appreciated, but to be fair to them, you would have to like what they might become as adults."

FROM SEATTLE, Wash.: "The thought of a black child remaining in an institution until a qualified black family comes along to adopt him is appalling. Of course, black people care about their own, so do whites. But some whites see a problem that isn't being solved fast enough. Homes are a very important part of a child's growing up. They need love and human contact no matter what color the person is."

From Massachusetts: "We are foster parents to a racially mixed child and have been attempting for two years to adopt him. If subsidized adoption became an accessible reality, these children (unadoptables) would have a greater chance of having a home and family, and the low-income family like ours would have the security of knowing medical and other expenses can be met. Since one of our sons has seizures and his expenses are high, we can only afford to adopt one child. We truly would like more children, and so would others. If subsidized adoptions were used discreetly and wisely, it would be a practical solution to a great problem."

From Ohio (a social casework director): "Gut of my deep identification with black babies, I am writing to express my hope that your column can be used to explore some of the social issues involved. Several questions arise. Why is it that black people have ignored responsibility to black unmarried mothers and their babies? Why have our adoption agencies not been challenged about the quality of care which black babies receive? Where is the black indignation about the fate of lovable, loving babies such as the one you describe in your article? I hope you can use your position to challenge all of us to creative thinking and to make it impossible for us to forget that these tiny human beings desperately need our help."

FROM ILLINOIS: "Loving parents and sisters and brothers are more important than matching hair, eyes and skin color! Of course, there will be problems, but how the heck can any parent expect to raise kids without problems?"

The flow of letters was fantastic, indicating that the issue of transracial adoption hit a nerve ending (of both blacks and whites). May homeless children — the handicapped as well as minority — continue to move people in just this way so that loving homes may be provided for them all.

New Way To Send Message

At the end of the International Jubilee Rally in June in Redding, Conn., the troops launched 127 helium-filled balloons. Each carried a post card with a girl's name, age and return address.

Twenty days later, Brownie Scout, Debbie Connell, and Junior Scout, Leslie Hawley, received a post card from Luxembourg, dated June 18, 1972. The translated message reads: "Dear Leslie and Debbie: Today I was walking on Liberty Avenue — what a surprise when I saw a balloon alight in front of me.

When it came down the balloon was very tired, but do not worry because I gave it fresh air — it is resting — already it seems to look bigger. These post cards were sent a long distance — I congratulate you. Au revoir. Signed Joe Viamonte."

Tablecloth For Picnics Is 'In'

Both indoor and outdoor picnic tablecloths are the "in" thing with hostesses these days, with entertaining emphasis on low-cost picnic foods served on an unusual table cover.

Some people are serving hot dogs and beans indoors on heirloom china and some are taking the easy route with paper service all the way, but the table cloth is the eye catcher.

DESIGNER NORMAN NORELL

Fall Collection Stresses Subdued Checker Patterns

By GAY PAULEY

Almost all of his daytime clothes, the coat and dress and jacket and dress costumes, play checks against solids and all are done in neutral shades, the spectrum running from eggshell white to pale beige to deep beige, gray, caramel and deep brown.

Norell uses the fiber from the South American llama-like alpaca in its natural state, apparently getting the contrast of checks in weaving the various neutrals. He said the fibres were not dyed.

Almost every collar was eight to 10 inches wide, pointed and designed to be worn standup around the throat, or flattened down only slightly.

With the coats, Norell showed skinny sweater dresses, most of them with a circle of fabric riding high on the throat, but not rolled like the classic turtle.

Some of the big-collared coats were reversibles. Dresses would be in solid beige, or occasionally picking up the same checked pattern as the coats.

THE VETERAN designer showed other checks and solids in variations of a jacket he's made almost his trademark—copies of the Navy's pea jacket. Norell liked it, single-breasted, closed with center buttons and wrapped like a mini bathrobe with self-fabric tie.

The whole silhouette with Norell is lean, either for day or evening, with the exception of the big coats. Sweater dresses cling, unbelted little chemises in sleek wools ride against the body but don't hug it. He occasionally breaks the line of a chemise with patch pockets on the bodice, with long sleeves gathered and cuffed.

For evening, the slinkiest numbers are his sequined group that look like the siren gowns of moviedom's femme fatales of the 1930s and '40s.

MORE OFTEN than not, the pace -setting designer topped the long formals with equally long coats in fleecy wools the same shade as the dress beneath.

Some of his formals looked like elegent elongated versions of a man's smoking jacket. It would seem indecent somehow at Norell's prices ($500 and up retail) to use the term "bathrobe silhouette."

Just in case anyone thought Norell was going prim with so many high necklines in the evening group, he unveiled a group of practically backless halter tops, tops cut to bare one shoulder, and slits running well up the thigh.

Hemlines remained just covering the kneecaps.

CANDLELIGHT AND ANTIQUE BRASS

The moment you see this light, you know a great deal about the room in which it belongs. A room of traditional character, where gracious living is taken for granted. Created by Lightolier to grace such a room, this chandelier of antique brass is an artfully designed combination. It gives you the soft glow of candlelight for an intimate mood, while its concealed downlight provides "lighting to see by", for reading or cards. The 3-way switch selects the downlight, candlelight or both.

If your home has a room where the atmosphere is one of traditional charm, enhance the setting with decorative lighting. Also available in Georgian Pewter.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Association magazines and Parents' Magazine unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael City Library.

FAMILY

"Misadventures of Merlin Jones" — A whimsical science comedy about a college student who acquires the ability to hear what people are thinking. Being a rather kooky individual he does stir up a bit of excitement.

"Napoleon and Samantha" — Filmed against rugged mountains and historical gold country of eastern Oregon a small boy and girl and their pet lion make a long and perilous journey to seek refuge with an old friend. Plenty of dramatic action.

"Now You See Him, Now You Don't" — Life on a zany college campus where an inept student produces a concotion which will make people invisible. This creates many complications for both the hero and the villain.

"Pufnstuf" — A colorful, imaginative adventure based on television show by the same name. A magic flute leads a boy to a fantasy land of life-sized puppets where everything talks and there are witches and a dragon. Classic entertainment.

"What's Up, Doc?" — Set in San Francisco, treated with a sophisticated touch, this fast moving slapstick nutty comedy revolves around a mixup with four identical suitcases.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"The Candidate" — A taut drama about an idealistic young lawyer running for the office of senator. The acting, direction and photography combine to give film realistic texture and adds impact to the vital theme of political disillusionment.

"Kelly's Heroes" — A preposterous World War II satirical comedy about a group of American soldiers who sneak behind enemy lines in order to rob a bank of millions in gold bullion. Plenty of action and violence.

"Love Story" — Two young college students marry causing a rift between the young man and his father. When they decide to have a child they discover the wife has a fatal illness. Some sex and strong language.

"Stanley" — A terrifying suspense tale about an embittered young Seminole Indian just back from Vietnam who uses his pet rattlesnack to kill his enemies on command.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Cabaret" — Set in Berlin in 1930 a zestful young American girl singer at a cabaret proclaims herself the symbol of "divine decadence." Her love affairs lead to a pregnancy where paternity is unsure. Well made film but sophisticated and bawdy with foul language and sex.

"Frenzy" — Hitchcock brings us a necktie murderer who is a sexual psychopath and on the loose in London. Very suspenseful with nudity and cursing.

"Hospital" — A series of episodes scathingly and sometimes humorously presented point up the incompetence, emotional hangups and self-seeking drives of the medical staff. Nudity, sex and foul language.

"Play It Again, Sam" — In this sex comedy Woody Allen is a dedicated movie buff and as a writer lives in a fantasy world where he gets advice from his favorite actor, Humphrey Bogart, on how to solve his sex problems.

"Summer of '42" — Three adolescent boys spending the summer with their families on an island are enlightened about sex by reading a medical book. They then proceed to apply the knowledge they have acquired.

ADULTS ONLY

"Graduate" — A young college graduate returns to his wealthy parents home unsure of what he wants to do with his future. He becomes involved with a married woman and also with her daughter. Nudity and sex.

"Godfather" — Gripping epic gangster film filled with excessive violence. The head of Mafia leads two lives, as a kindly head of a family and then as leader of a mob whose business is killing.

"Klute" — A police officer and a call girl follow a clue given in an obscene letter which eventually leads them to a psychopathic killer. It is a sordidly explicit film which does not spare its audience.

"Play Misty For Me" — A terrifying suspense thriller about a radio disc jockey and an insane fan who pursues him. Many bloody deaths and some sex scenes.

"Sunday, Bloody Sunday" — A divorcee and a doctor are both deeply and obsessively in love with an attractive young man. He divides his time between their beds, refusing to commit himself totally. Sex scenes and nudity.

Chess Champ's Wife Delayed On Trip

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Mrs. Boris Spassky, wife of the world chess champion, was detained at Copenhagen airport for several hours Thursday.

Mrs. Spassky was scheduled to depart from Copenhagen later Thursday night. The cause of her delay was not disclosed.

BART Service Beginning Set

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—The first streamlined trains in the San Francisco Bay Area's $1.35 billion rapid transit system begin rolling on a partial stretch of track Sept. 11.

Formal dedications for the entire 75-mile Bay Area Rapid Transit (BART) system will take place in October—the exact date depending on when President Nixon can be present.

BART directors said the first trains in the full-computerized service would be between Fremont and Oakland, a 28-mile stretch.

Hit-Run Case To Superior Court

Myron Francis Kaczmarek, 28, of San Anselmo, has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on felony hit-run and drunken driving charges stemming from a crash in Larkspur in June.

He is to be arraigned Monday.

Kaczmarek was arrested in a San Rafael bar after police said he cut off a motorcycle on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Highway 101, causing the cyclist to crash.

Mosquito Crews Ask Pay Raise

Marin Mosquito Abatement District employees have requested a 5.5 per cent pay raise and have been told the district board will think about it.

Allan D. Telford, district manager, reported that Frank O'Connell, manager of the Marin County Employees Association said district employees — who were granted a 4 per cent cost of living raise in the fiscal 1972-73 budget — need 5.5 per cent more because of the rise in cost of living.

A motion to give employees a 5 per cent raise was defeated 7 to 5, said Telford, but directors agreed to consider a further cost of living raise at the end of the year if there is evidence to warrant it.

Charles H. Sovel of 822 D Street, Petaluma, was seated on the board. He was appointed by the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors on June 26 to represent unincorporated areas of Sonoma County in the Marin district, whose territory covers 100 square miles of the Petaluma area.

State Asks Bids For Road Work

The State Division of Highways has called for bids for improvement projects in Marin and Sonoma counties.

In Marin, seven-tenths of a mile of Route 37 will be resurfaced from the Atherton Avenue undercrossing near Novato to Petaluma Creek Bridge.

In Sonoma, Route 12 will be resurfaced from its junction with Matanzas Creek Bridge in Santa Rosa to Bush Creek Bridge, and from its junction with Route 24 to Agua Calienta Road.

Fill Permit Fight Looms In Novato

Elmwood Court residents are scheduled to protest a fill permit at an adjourned meeting of the Novato City Council at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Novato Community House.

Residents will appeal planning commission approval of a use permit which would allow Louis Garaventa to place 140,000 cubic yards of fill just north of Elmwood Court.

The council also will hear Alfred Bellucci appeal planning commission denial of his application to place 11,620 yards of fill on 2.7 acres at the end of Clausing Court, east of Highway 101.

Councilmen also will consider extension of the interim ordinance limiting development of the Novato Creek flood plain.

On Wednesday, the city council and planning commission will hold a special joint meeting on revisions to the Novato area general plan at 8 p.m. at the Novato Community House.

The circulation and land use elements of the plan are to be discussed, according to Planning Diractor Brian W. Mattson.

On Monday, the planning commission will consider a master plan by Kaehler-Timmer development Co. for 88 homes on the former Marin Dell dairy on the south side of Olive Avenue at 8 p.m. at the Novato Community House.

The plans call for single family detached homes on 19.9 acres of the 42.3 acre parcel with the remainder of the property slated for open space.

Novatans Differ On Redevelopment

By FRANK FARRARA

Creation of a redevelopment agency was presented last night as a potential tonic for Novato's downtown ills and rapped as a "premature" venture.

The divergent views were voiced at a Novato City Council briefing on the proposal to form an agency to bolster commercial development in the downtown area.

About 40 persons including members of other governing boards in the area and merchants, attended the session during which the need to form an agency was challenged.

Novato's downtown was labeled blighted, underdeveloped fragmented and lagging in growth, but agency opponents claimed it wasn't that bad and could improve on its own.

Charles Lewis, who described himself as the "house businessman" on the city's downtown implementation committee, said "I have serious doubts about a redevelopment agency myself."

Yet, Lewis said, "the business community is lagging badly and is badly behind what it ought to be" and setting up an agency would be attempting to implement the downtown plan and improve the business area. "I don't see any serious harm to look into it."

Trustee Carolyn M. Crabtree of the Novato Unified School District Board and former member of the downtown study committee, said she believed business is "moving ahead" and an agency isn't needed now.

Joseph W. Wright, real estate broker, said: "I think the need for this is exaggerated." He said he didn't believe Novato was a "disaster" and it would have just as much growth in the next 10 years as it has had in the past 10 years.

Lewis said "part of the blame" for lagging downtown development rests with the city which has turned down development and "expressed an attitude of antidevelopment."

Mayor F. Wayne Sartain said if downtown Novato is to reach its potential, it needed private enterprise and help from governmental agencies.

Richard A. Gronberg, president of the Novato Downtown Merchants Association, charged that the city has been restrictive, and if it had been less restrictive the assessed valuation in the downtown area would be higher than it is.

Sartain said the "whole process cannot happen unless we take politics out and all work for a common goal. If we split up, we might as well quit now."

One of the controversial aspects of the proposal, freezing of the assessed valuation in a redevelopment project area, was examined, but wasn't the center of audience reaction.

As proposed the assessed valuation would be frozen in any area marked for redevelopment and all taxing agencies would lose the increase in revenue that normally would occur in that area. The revenue from increased assessed valuation resulting from redevelopment would go to pay off the redevelopment bonds.

Director George A.Amaroli of the North Marin County Water District, said that board didn't oppose formation of an agency "on the basis of tax reduction."

Director Henry V. Alvernaz of the Novato Fire Protection District board opposed any tax reduction. He asked that the redevlopment agency board, now proposed to consist of city councilmen, be expanded to include representatives of other local taxing agencies that would be affected.

Peggy McElligott of the firm of Wilson, Jones, Morton and Lynch, legal consultants, on district formation, said if the community permits the downtown area "to continue to deteriorate, it won't do anything to help the community," but an increase in assessed valuation through redevelopment would aid.

The "tax freeze" wouldn't occur until there was a precise development plan for a project area, she reported.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said the thrust toward improving the downtown area arose from "the concern of merchants because of the inability to get volume sales."

Novato ranks lowest of cities in Marin in assessed valuation per capita, $2,125 per capita, he reported. Its taxable sales in 1970 were $1,065 per capita as compared to $3,696 in San Rafael, he said.

The assessed valuation in the downtown area, particularly the East Grant Avenue area, is lagging behind other areas of the city in rate of increase, Brown said. Redevelopment could bring tax revenue increases that would more than make up for any tax reduction during a tax freeze, he said.

Redevelopment first would be sought through private enterprise, then a combination of public and private sources, thirdly through unified efforts of merchants and property owners, and lastly through the tax freeze method, Brown reported.

The area proposed for redevelopment hasn't been defined, he said. First, there would be a survey area covering an area where redevelopment could occur and then definite project areas would be set for development, he explained.

Planning Director Brain W. Mattson said the redevelopment agency would be "one means of carrying out the downtown program," and he reviewed the goals of that program including the creation of a subregional shopping center in downtown Novato.

Questioners were assured they would have a chance to have their say on any proposed redevelopment projects at public hearings, and that those who suffered loss through relocation would be compensated.

The council adjourned to 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Novato Community House.

Preservation Asked For Dollar Mansion

A San Rafael city councilman has proposed that the Dollar Mansion be included in the city's redevelopment plans, William J. Bielser, redevelopment executive director, said today.

According to Councilman Lawrence F. Mulryan, purchase of the mansion and 11-acre site would be an "appropriate use of redevelopment funds."

"That site is too beautiful to be developed or destroyed," Mulryan said tojay. The councilman said that the mansion should be preserved as a cultural museum and the site converted into a recreational area for senior citizens.

Bielser said that others have suggested that redevelopment funds be used for beautification of Fourth Street, improved access and additional parking in the downtown area.

Sentence Fixed In Auto Theft

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court today placed John Ellis, 23, no known address, on probation for three years and sentenced him to the time he had already spent in jail for a car theft charge.

Ellis was arrested May 10 in a car stolen from the parking lot of Shoreline Market in Tamalpais Valley.

Last month he pleaded guilty to auto theft.

Pollution Boss Has Postponed Gripe Session

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The chairman of the Bay Area Pollution Control District, who announced last month that he would hold office hours once a month to hear citizens complaints, has postponed his first session for a second time. (Another pollution control district story, page 1)

Due to a conflicting engagement, Chairman Robert B. St. Clair, a San Mateo County supervisor, has postponed the session from next Wednesday to Aug. 23.

He will hold office hours from 9 a.m. to noon in district headquarters, 939 Ellis Street. Appointments will not be necessary but persons wishing to make an appointment may telephone the district.

Larkspur Doctor Dies In Crash; Driver Held

A 28-year-old Larkspur physician was killed last night in a five-car crash just south of the Golden Gate Bridge. A San Francisco man was booked into San Francisco City Prison on suspicion of manslaughter in connection with the accident.

The California Highway Patrol said Steven M. Sydow of 44 Frances Drive died when his southbound auto was struck by two cars about 11:25 p.m. Sydow was a resident in dermatology at the University of California Medical Center.

Officers reported that an auto driven by Leonard Lundgreen III hit the rear of the Sydow vehicle, then struck it broadside, propelling the car into the northbound lanes.

The Sydow auto was then hit broadside by a northbound car operated by Michael L. Bayliss, 27, of Carlton, Ore.

According to officers, the Lundgreen vehicle then crossed into the northbound lane and crashed headon into a car driven by Donald E. Beyer, 38, of 553 San Rafael Avenue, Belvedere. The Beyer auto, which swerved to avoid the crash, collided with a car driven by Hedwig B. Nightingale, 31, of San Francisco.

The patrol said Lundgreen was driving under the influence of alcohol when the accident occurred. He received minor knee injuries in the colliuion. Bayless, Beyer and Mrs. Nightingale were not hurt.

Campaign Organized For Open Space Vote

A citizens committee organized to pass San Rafael's $2.25 million bond election for open space divided the city into 23 precincts last night and appointed 18 precinct captains.

The committee decided to blanket the city with an open space fact sheet flyer within two weeks, according to Councilman Lawrence F. Mulryan, committee co-chairman.

He said that the flyer distribution woul be followed by a doorbell poll to determine support for the Sept. 19 bond election.

The campaign effort has been endorsed by the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce, the League of Women Voters, People for Parks and Open Space and 18 homeowners groups, Mulryan said.

The committee will meet again at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 31 in San Rafael High School.

Engineer Faces Role Criticism

A director of the Stinson Beach County Water District will ask the district's engineer, Brown and Caldwell, to resign from that post at tomorrow's meeting of the district board at 10 a.m. in the Stinson Beach Community Center.

Director Proctor Jones stressed he is not dissatisfied with the engineering firm's performance, but noted that Brown and Caldwell is also engineer for a proposed sewage disposal system for the district. "I think we need an independent district engineer, one who is not connected with the project," Jones explained.

The board will also consider cancellation of a 1970 joint powers agreement with the Marin Municipal Water District calling for the MMWD to operate Stinson's waste disposal system once it is built.

Prison Receives Racial Leaders

Forty men said to be leaders of racial violence which has recently plagued the Sierra Conservation Center in Tuolumne County were transferred yesterday to San Quentin Prison.

Prison officials say there have been three stabbings — none fatal — and numerous fist fights since Monday between Negro and Chicano inmates at the minimum-security work camp.

Joseph R. O'Brien, information officer at San Quentin Prison, said the 40 men would be "classified to see how much control they needed" and possibly transferred to other institutions.

About 800 Marine reservists, including "M" Company, Third Batallion, 23rd Marines, San Rafael, known as "Marin's Marines", gathered at Camp Pendleton to hear a briefing at the start of the annual two-week summer training program. Four companies from California and one from Salt Lake City participated in classes, demonstrations and military exercises July 22-Aug. 6. Temperatures were sweltering the entire two weeks, resulting in four cases of heat exhaustion. A three-day "make believe war" was played in which a small group portraying guerrilla forces attempted to attack and evade defenders, armed with rifles and tanks. The war started in the true tradition of the Marine with defenders landing on the beach. They chased the guerillas for about 15 miles into the mountains, finally capturing them at the end of the exercise. In addition to fighting their attackers, the defenders also contended with tarantulas, snakes and unrelenting heat.

TRYING IT OUT — Bob Kohne (left) and Dave Salaun, Marin Reservists, inspect their new M-16 rifle following classes in loading, firing and cleaning. The reservists of "M" Company had undergone three months of training at home in preparation for the new rifles. Classes, drills and demonstrations filled up 12-hour days the first week. During the make-believe war exercise the second week, the schedule was extended to 24 hours.

INFANTRY SUPPORT — A tank rolls into view as the make-believe war on the beaches of Camp Pendleton rages on. Five tanks from the San Diego reserve unit aided infantry in its assault on guerilla forces. The assault took the men from the White Beach training area through scrub brush and rock towards the eastern boundary of Pendleton. Capture came about 15 miles from where it all began. Then, trucks came and carried the weary victors and captives back to their barracks.

NEW RIFLES — Firing new M-16 rifles for the first time, "M" Co. reservists get instruction from Bob Nelson (left) of San Rafael, platoon sergeant. The reservists traded in their M-14's for the newer, more modern rifles during this summer's training program. Their target practice aimed at old Jeeps and rusted tanks placed about 350 yards away. The same rifles were used during the three-day "make believe" war exercise.

'HIT THE BEACH' — Members of "M" Co. disembark from amphibious troop carriers, starting the make-believe assault on the beaches of Camp Pendleton. Transported out to sea by amtraks for realism, they were then carried into shore, carrying about 30 lbs. of combat equipment including rifles with blanks. For the next three days, they chased guerilla forces through the mountains, finally capturing them 15 miles away three days later. The weather was hot, but at least the seas were calm.

Henderson Bat Mark Climbs After A Tip

A slump that lasts four months can plunge a fellow into a deep depression. Climbing out of a pit that seemingly is bottomless can cause nightmarish clawing. It takes a determined individual to fight his way back to the top. Such individuals are to be admired.

Take, for instance, Ken Henderson. He never had a better spring training. He hit .328 in 20 spring exhibition games. In the season opener at Houston he came to bat four times. He roped two singles into the Astrodome outfield. Then he went 0-13. An 0-21 dip followed. And that was the way it continued through April, May, June and July.

By July 31 Henderson was just hitting a few points above his weight, .190. Johnny McNamara made a suggestion. The coach of the Giants suggested that Henderson might be holding his bat too upright. Henderson adjusted it from an almost vertical alignment with his shoulder to a 45 degree angle. That did it.

IN THE FIRST NINE games of August, Henderson hit at a .514 clip (18-for-35), including two homers, six doubles and six runs batted in, two of which won ball games. His season batting average jumped 40 points from .190 to .230 which still is far below his career high of .294 in 1970 or his .264 of last season.

There was a reason why Henderson hit only .264 last season — a frustrating series of injuries that began with a broken thumb and continued with one pulled muscle after another. Still, he managed to knock in 65 runs in 1971 and contribute nine game winning hits in the successful drive of the Giants to the National League West flag.

BUT THIS YEAR Henderson had no physical ills although at the end of June a virus put him in bed for a brief 24-hour period. So his prolonged slump was a puzzlement that not only worried him but the Giants, too.

"A fellow can get terribly depressed in slumps but it's a joy to see a player like Henderson fight back," said Charlie Fox. "Give him all the credit due him. There's credit due McNamara, too, for the sound suggestion he made to Kenny. But a coach can only suggest — it's up to the player to execute.

"KENNY'S HITTING the ball now with line drive power. That's what he's always been — a line drive hitter. Give him his pitch and he can jack a ball out of any park."

Henderson, understandably happy with his batting spree, said: "I hope it continues. I don't think I ever really got down on myself like people thought when I was in the slump."

USE BAHNSEN

White Sox Boss' Plan

OAKLAND (UPI) — Chicago White Sox manager Chuck Tanner is taking the gamble tonight in his do-or-die attempt to overhaul Oakland in the American League West chase.

The two teams battled to a 5 hour 2 minute 3-3 tie Thursday night and Friday morning before curfew halted the proceedings and will resume action in the 18th inning tonight at 7:30 prior to the regularly scheduled game.

Manager Dick Williams said Gary Waslewski, the reliever who finished things this morning, will be back on the hill tonight where he will have to open things up against the feared Richie Allen, who already has four walks in the contest.

But Tanner is shifting his big guns around in hopes of shooting down the A's, who cling to a one game lead over the red-hot pale hose.

It will be Stan Bahnsen (15-11) hurling the mini-game tonight, but if it drags into more extra innings it could mean that Bahnsen could be lost for the regular rotation.

Bahnsen was supposed to go Saturday, but Tanner hopes to win quick tonight and then shoot the ex-Yankee on Sunday. And 19-game winner knuckleballer Wilbur Wood has been shifted from Sunday to Saturday's starting role.

Naturally, those who were taken out of play can't come back in when the contest resumes tonight and there were rumors both teams might recall players from their farm clubs in hopes they could fill in if the game drags on.

The White Sox almost won twice Thursday but blew leads each time.

They went ahead 1-0 in the second inning off Ken Holtzman but Oakland fought back with two in the eighth with league-leading hitter Joe Rudi hitting a key triple.

Pat Kelly hit a triple and a wild pitch brought home a Chisox run in the 13th but the A's tied it up in their half of the inning as pinch-hitter Gene Tenace socked a key single with two down.

WESTCHESTER TOURNAMENT

Positive Thinking Helps Golfer Weaver Take 1st

HARRISON, N.Y. (UPI)— Positive thinking helped Dewitt Weaver rip off an eight under par 64 for the first round lead in the $250,000 Westchester Golf Classic but positive playing had moneybags Jack Nicklaus only one shot behind heading into the second round today.

Weaver, playing with a brand new putter he bought in a Wichita pro shop on Tuesday, shook himself out of a long dry spell of negative thinking and knocked in eight birdies en route to a 33-31—64. Nicklaus hit a 50-foot chip shot for an eagle on the 500-yard, par 5 12th hole during a round of 33-32-65 and shared second place with Steve Melnyk, who strung together five birdies in a row including one on a 70-foot wedge shot, while posting 31-34 —65.

TOPPING PAR

In all, 55 players bettered the par 72 of the 6,700 yard course at the Westchester Co untry Club and, with more bright, cool weather in prospect, second round scores figured to be almost as hot.

For Weaver, who admitted he had been under pressure and thinking negatively since becoming the surprise winner of the U.S. Professional Match Play Championship last year, the 64 was his best round since joining the PGA tour in 1964. He attributed it to his "100 percent changed attitude," not the new putter.

LAYOFF

Nicklaus was playing positive again after an enforced layoff of several days before last week's Professional Golfers Association championship because of minor surgery to relieve an infection on his right forefinger.

"I'm getting back into the normal routine after those days off," said Nicklaus. "The last time I hit the ball so well was in the U.S. Open."

49ers Start Brodie At Quarterback

SANTA BARBARA (UPI)—It will be John Brodie at quarterback Sunday when the San Francisco 49ers host Cleveland at Candlestick Park.

Coach Dick Nolan indicated Thursday that the veteran signal-caller would probably go all the way since backup man Steve Spurrier went the distance against New York Jets.

Meanwhile, defensive end Cedrick Hardman went through his first contact drill Thursday and said he felt fine. He expressed optimism he would be in top shape for the league opener with San Diego Sept. 17.

In other developments, the coaching staff said at least five of the 15 rookies still in training camp had a good chance of making the squad. They included wide receivers Terry Beasley of Auburn and Allen Dunbar of Southern University, defensive backs Windlan Hall of Arizona State and Ralph McGill of Tulsa and offensive lineman Jean Barrett of Tulsa.

Softball Results

Rich Quinn belted two doubles and two singles to knock in four runs and lead Death to a 12-8 win over Isi last night in the San Rafael adult softball league. Zappetini shutout Alpine Tree Service, 7-0 in another game.

'GOOD DEPTH'

North To Give Everyone A Try

By LEW CODDINGTON

The North is an equal-opportunity employer.

"Everybody will get a look on both offense and defense," said assistant (it still sounds strange) coach Bob Muster yesterday just before his charges took the field for an afternoon practice at San Rafael High School.

The team of graduated seniors from the four northernmost high schools in the Marin County Athletic League area will meet a team from the four southern schools next Friday in the seventh annual Ross Valley Kiwanis Club North-South game. Kickoff is at 8 p.m. at San Rafael.

"We've got awfully good depth," said North coach Dave Wylie, normally an assistant to Muster at San Rafael. "We'll be trying to double up when we can."

The North has an especially fierce competition going at halfback, with Scott Duncan of San Rafael, Leo Magers of Novato, John Buckley of Terra Linda and Marty Larsen of San Marin battling for the spot.

Buckley and Larsen were wide receivers for their respective schools last fall, but Wylie intends to use a full-house backfield. Top fullback candidates

Miss Hislop Fourth In AAU Swim Meet

I-J Special Report

HERSHEY, Pa. — It took Jo Hislop only a shade over two minutes to do what other Marin Aquatic Club female swimmers have been trying to do for years.

Miss Hislop, 17, of San Rafael, finished fourth yesterday in the 200 meter freestyle in 2:12.4 in the National Amateur Athletic Union Open Swim Championships here, the best showing of her career.

"That earned the club 15 points, the most points our women have ever scored in the nations," said MAC coach Don Swartz. "It was a real fine swim for her, and she's real excited about it. She worked hard for something like this."

Her time barely missed matching the 2:12.1 that earned her a trip to the recent Olympic trials, but "it was a slow pool because it was so shallow," said Swartz.

Maura Campion, 14, of Terra Linda, finished 18th in the 400 individual medley in 5:30.7, well under her previous best of 5:34.3. She missed the consolation finals by two places. "She was seeded 40th, so she came up some 20 places," Swartz said.

Two other Marin Aquatic Club swimmers were scheduled to go today — Denisa Ham of San Rafael in the women's 200 butterfly and Spencer Eldred of Tiburon in the men's 200 breaststroke.

Meanwhile, Peter Dahlberg of the Gator-Aid Swim Club of Indiana, American record-holder in the 100-meter breast stroke, won the event in 1:07.41.

In the women's 100 breast, Veronica Stroup of Suburban Swim Club in Newtown Square, Pa., triumphed with a time of 1:19.785.

Andrew Strenk, 1968 Olympian and former Pan American Games swimmer, captured the men's 200 in 1:56.192, while Sandi Johnson of Arden Hills, Calif., won the women's free with a clocking of 2:10.735.

Italian Club Wins DiMaggio

Gene Frey pitched a two-hitter and Jeff Vogel belted a two-run homer yesterday as Italian Club defeated Toby's Truckers, 6-1, at Novato High to earn the South championship of the Joe DiMaggio Baseball League.

The victory propelled Italian Club (11-1-1) into the league championship playoff against North champion Annex Motors (9-5) beginning tomorrow at Albert Park in San Rafael.

The teams will clash twice, with the first game slated for 6 p.m., in the best-of-three series. Third game, if necessary, will be played at Novato High Sunday at 2 p.m. The winner will represent Marin County in next weekend's Regional tournament, also at Albert Park.

Italian Club and Toby's each entered yesterday's game with 10-1 records, having played each other a 10-inning tie earlier in tha season. They were equal again until the fifth inning, when Italian Club scored four runs to decide the issue. Up to that point, Frey and rival Jim Petray each had one-hit shutouts going.

Hockey Loop In $48 Million Suit Vs. NHL

BOSTON (UPI)—The World Hockey Association within two weeks will file a federal antitrust suit against the National Hockey League, asking $48 million in damages and seeking to have the NHL reserve clause overturned, the president of the WHA announced today.

In addition, said Gary L. Davidson, president ihtdent of the new professional hockey league, "The WHA will discuss with the U.S. Justice Department aspects of the activities of the NHL that might have criminal aspects under antitrust law."

At a news conference, Davidson said the federal antitrust suit will seek $1 million in damages per team in the WHA —for a total of $12 million—and an additional $36 million in "punitive damages."

Performance Stuns Dodger

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Willie Crawford was stunned by his performance Thursday night.

The Los Angeles outfielder crashed four hits, including his sixth homer, and drove in four runs to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 6-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Crawford, who had only one hit in his previous 19 at-bats, admitted he was in a "daze" twice during the game because of his hitting heroics. His bases loaded single in the seventh snapped a 2-2 tie but Crawford was thrown out trying for second. "I should have gotten there," he admitted. "I was in kind of a daze and watched the ball instead of running. Maybe it's because I haven't been playing so much lately."

Crawford also found himself with another problem in the ninth. "I was in kind of a daze after getting those four hits. I walked up to the plate in the ninth inning with a broken bat." Claude Osteen, with relief help from Jim Brewer, gained his 13th victory and benefitted from the Dodgers' 16-hit attack against four Cincinnati pitchers.

In the only other National League games scheduled, the Houston Astros beat the Atlanta Braves 9-6 and the Chicago Cubs blanked the Montreal Expos 8-0.

Tommy Helms tripled in two runs during a three-run seventh inning that carried the Astros over Atlanta. Mike Lum's homer had brought the Braves into a 5-5 tie when Houston loaded the bases in the seventh. A fielder's choice brought in one run and Helms tripled home two more. Lum had four RBIs for the Braves.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Both Divisional Races Tighten

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Would you believe the Chicago White Sox vs. the New York Yankees in the American League playoffs this year?

The possibility still seems somewhat far fetched but the two clubs, given almost no chance only a month ago, must now be rated definite contenders in their respective divisions.

Both clubs were eight games off the pace in July but they have to be taken seriously now. Chicago, now trailing Oakland by just one game in the Western Division, battled the A's to a standoff 3-3 in a 17-inning thriller before the game was suspended because of the curfew. Third place New York made it three out of four over Detroit in tha Eastern Division with a 1-0 verdict that left the Yanks just two games behind the Tigers.

KLINE

Steve Kline, boasting his record to 13-4, stopped the Tigers on three hits over the first eight innings. But Manager Ralph Houk still called on his relief ace, Sparky Lyle, to start the ninth inning.

Explaining his decision, Houk said, "I hesitated about taking Kline out but I said to myself I'd be the dumbest guy who ever lived if I didn't make the move. The percentages had to be with me because they had their left-handed batters coming up. I would have taken out any right-handed pitcher in that situation."

LYLE TOUGH

But the move almost backfired when Gates Brown led off with a double and the Tigers eventually loaded the bases on with the help of an infield single and a walk. Lyle, however,struck out pinch-hitter Ike Brown to end the game as the crowd of 45,154 roared.

Kline didn't complain about being lifted again. "The man was right," he said, "even if the first two guys hit homers, he was right. The way Lyle is pitching, you've got to bring him in."

Kline is pitching well, too. He's only leading the league with a 1.69 ERA and has given up just two earned runs in his last six starts. But Lyle, who has 26 saves, has been sensational and Houk likes to have him in at the end.

THE RUN

Joe Coleman, who's lost three 1-0 games, was beaten when the Yanks got their only run in the fourth inning on Bobby Murcer's double, an infield out and Johnny Callison's infield single.

In the only other two games, Milwaukee beat Baltimore 1-0 to leave the Orioles in second place in the East and California beat Minnesota 3-1.

Baltimore touched Gary Ryerson for 10 hits but couldn't get a run as the Orioles were beaten by Milwaukee. The victory snapped a five-game Brewer losing streak. Jim Palmer (15-5) took the loss when he was touched for run in the sixth inning. Bob Heise led off and stretched a single into a double with alert baserunning, moved to third on a sacrifice and scored on George Scott's bloop single.

Andy Kosco and Ken McMullen hit back-to-back homers in the second inning to support Rudy May's five-hit pioching as California stopped Minnesota. May struck out 16 to tie the club record set by Nolan Ryan earlier this year. The consecutive homers came off loser Ray Corbin and snapped a 1-1 tie.

Tanzania Leaving The Olympic Games

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

MUNICH, Germany — Willi Daume, president of the Olympic Organizing Committee, Thursday refused to comment on the alleged withdrawal of Tanzania from the games because of Rhodesia's participation.

"I heard the news on the radio, but we have no official information yet", Duame said.

Sierra Leone withdraw for financial reasons earlier.

An Olympic spokesman said Tanzania's withdrawal came as no surprise following confirmation that Rhodesia would participate as a British Colony.

Baseball

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — New Orleans' colossal new superdome will not have major league baseball, at least at the start, club owners and general managers decided Thursday in the wrapup joint meeting.

Basketball

NEW YORK — Another one of those all-too-familiar expansion drafts was held Thursday with the new San Diego Conquistadors of the American Basketball Association the latest benefactors of everybody else's hand-me-downs. Most notable choice was Carolina forward Stew Johnson, 6-foot-8.

Hockey

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Flyers, in a brief statement Thursday, said they have "acquired" the contract of All-Star winger John McKenzie from the Boston Bruins.

There is one problem — McKenzie already has left the National Hockey League to become player-coach of the Philadelphia-Blazers, the Flyers' World Hockey Association rivals here. Thus, a legal battle looms.

Tennis

INDIANAPO LIS, Ind. — Quarterfinalists clash today at the National Clay Court Tennis Championships.

Czech Jan Kodes, the top seeded men's player still in competition meets unseeded Frew McMillan, South Africa, in his bid for the semifinals. Kodes, seeded third, defeated Rhodesia's Andrew Pattison, 7-5, 7-5, Thursday as McMillan upset No. 12 Barry Phillips-Moore, Australia, 6-4, 6-2.

Jim Connors, Belleville, Ill., faced Colin Dibley, Australia. Connors, seeded fourth, defeated Ivan Malino, Colombia, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1, while No. 11 Dibley downed No. 5 Patrick Proisy of France, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4, for a shot at Connors.

The lineup for the women's matches features top-seeded Evonne Goolagong, Australia, against No. 8 Pat Pretorius, South Africa; No. 2 Chris Evert, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., vs. No. 6 Leslie Hunt, Australia; No. 3 Mrs. Margaret Court, Australia, vs. No. 8 Pam Teeguarden, Los Angeles, and No. 4 Linda Tuero, Metairie, La., the 1970 champ, vs. No. 7 Julie Heldman, Houston.

CLEVELAND — Ken Rosewall recorded two aces in beating Charles Pasarell Thursday night in the $50,000 Cleveland Tennis Classic, 6-3, 6-4.

Meanwhile Roger Taylor dumped Australian Fred Stolle, 7-6, 7-3, Thursday; Nicki Pilic of Yugoslavia downed Bob Carmichael of Paris, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3; and Ray Ruffels of Australia rallied to eliminate Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

are Mark Farrar of San Rafael and Terry Johnson of Novato.

"We haven't had many all-out hits yet," said Wylie, "so I'd hate to single anybody out, but Russ Weklych (Novato) has looked good for us at offensive tackle and defensive end, and Duke Bessee (San Rafael) has looked good at tight end."

The end opposite Bessee will be Greg Straw of Novato, the coaches noted.

The quarterback situation remains fluid. "Marty Moroski (Novato) is throwing well, but Kevin Donohoe (Terra Linda) is coming along. Moroski has had a couple of extra days of work. Both will see plenty of action."

Every player chosen for the squad has shown up for practice, and there have been no injuries "except for bumps and bruises," Wylie said.

"They're learning quickly," Muster interjected. "They're a smart group, and experienced. They won't be overconfident."

"I really don't know how to evaluate the South," said Wylie. "I do know we'll both be playing even-man fronts on defense. They have a good defensive front from what I know. They have all those Marin Catholic players, who are an unknown quantity."

Tickets for the game cost $3 for adults and $2.50 for students and are available at 17 locations throughout the county.

PRO FOOTBALL

Frustrating Start For Oiler Coach

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Bill Peterson is getting a frustrating introduction to professional football.

The former collegiate coach, in his first-year at the helm of the Houston Oilers, has watched his club lose its first two exhibition games by a total of five points. To make matters worse, the club blew a sure tie Thursday night because of a mental error and suffered a 20-17 loss to the Chicago Bears.

A GESTURE

The Oilers and the Bears seemed destined to play to a 17-17 deadlock although the Bears made what seemed like a futile gesture to win the game when Mac Percival attempted a 60-yard field goal on a free kick. The Bears had taken a punt on a fair catch with 15 seconds left and a seldom used rule allows a free kick field goal attempt after a fair catch.

Naturally, Percival's attempt was short and, as the ball bounced near the Oiler goal line, Houston kick return artist Linzy Cole failed to down the ball. He just stood there watching it bounce when linebacker L.D. Rowden dove on the ball to give the Bears possession on the Houston one yard line with five seconds left.

FIELD GOAL

That gave Percival a shot from point-blank range and he kicked a seven-yard field goal with three seconds left to give the Bears the victory.

Houston was beaten by Dallas 26-24 in its first exhibition game last week but that loss wasn't that difficult to take since the Cowboys are the defending Super Bowl champions.

Chicago is now 1-1 in the exhibition season after it suffered a 24-10 loss to the Kansas City Chiefs last week in South Bend, Ind.

The Chicago-Houston game kicked off a busy weekend of exhibition action. Denver is at Washington in the only game tonight and eight games are scheduled on Saturday..

The gypsy New York Jets, who are kept out of Shea Stadium by the Mets until the baseball season ends, meet Pittsburgh at Seattle in a contest that is supposed to test Seattle interest in pro football. Seattle is trying to get a franchise.

OTHER ACTION

In night action Saturday, Buffalo is at New Orleans, Detroit is at Cincinnati, St. Louis is at Kansas City, Green Bay is at Miami, San Diego is at Minnesota, Dallas is at Los Angeles and New England faces the Eagles at Franklin Field in Philadelphia.

On Sunday, Cleveland is at San Francisco in a day game and on Monday night, the long weekend is concluded when Baltimore is at Oakland.

Chicago tied the Houston game at 17-17 when rookie running back Roger Lawson ran nine yards for a touchdown and Percival added the conversion with 1:54 remaining in the game to set the stage for the strange ending.

DOUGLASS SCORE

Quarterback Bobby Douglass scored the Bears' other touchdown on a one-yard dive with 17 seconds remaining in the third quarter. Besides his game-winning field goal, Percival kicked a 28-yarder in the second period.

Lynn Dickey, who is trying to beat Dan Pastorini out of the starting Oiler quarterback job, passed for both Houston touchdowns on the Oilers' first two possessions of the game. He hit Ken Burrough on a 45-yard scoring pass on Houston's first play and then passed 47 yards to Charlie Joiner for the other score. Mark Moseley added the other Houston score on a 20-yard field goal in the third period.

Knicks Beaten By Lodi, 3-1, In Key Clash

Marin Net Favorite Gains Tourney Final

Nothing personal, you understand, but 35 girls from the Bay Area will be trying very hard to beat Carrie Zarraonandia's brains out next week.

In San Francisco they have been trying all this week to knock her out of the San Francisco City Junior tennis championships at Golden Gate Park. But yesterday she defeated top-seeded Marisa Louie to advance to the girls 14 finals.

Miss Zarraonandia, from San Rafael, is seeded first in the girls 14 singles in the 14th annual Marin County Hardcourt Tennis Tournament, which will run Monday through Saturday at the Mill Valley Tennis Club.

The 13-year-old Miss Zarraonandia earned a title match in the city tourney today against Peanut Louie, Marisa's sister, by turning back Marisa, 6-4, 6-2. Peanut gained the final round with a 6-3, 6-2 victory over Sue Rasmussen.

Miss Zarraonandia also advanced in the girls 14 doubles as she and her partner Diane DeMartini of Greenbrae defeated Jennifer Amdur of Coral Gables, Fla., and Sarah Blackman of Hayward in straight sets, 6-1, 6-0.

Miss Zarraonandia heads a field of six seeded Marinites among the 400-odd players in the Marin tournament. The others are Sue Beatty of Tiburon, fourth in girls 18 and sixth in girls 16; Laurie James of Tiburon, eighth in girls 16; Charles Bolcom in Belvedere, second in boys 12; Henry Jacobson of Belvedere, fourth in boys 16; and Marcus Robinson of Mill Valley, seventh in boys 16.

Top-seeded boys are Butch Walts of Fresno, 18; Eric Lee of San Francisco, 16; Chip Hooper of Sunnyvale, 14; and Matthew Murphy of Alameda, 12.

Some 108 entries come from Marin County.

FISH AND GAME

Split Schedules For Dove Hunting Season

By AL GIDDINGS

The California Fish and Game commission has adopted a split 46-day statewide dove hunting season and separate 30-day straight band-tailed pigeon seasons for the northern and southern areas. The commission took the actions July 28 in Fort Bragg.

Seasons and limits will be substantially the same as those for last year, with a dove limit of 10 per day, 20 in possession after opening day, and a band-tail limit of eight per day, eight in possession.

The dove season will open Friday, Sept. 1, continue through Saturday, Sept. 30, reopen statewide Saturday, Nov. 25, and run through Sunday, Dec. 10.

In the northern area the band-tailed pigeon season will open Saturday, Sept. 30, and close Sunday, Oct. 29. The season in the balance of the state will be Saturday, Dec. 16 to Sunday, Jan. 14, 1973.

In other action, commissioners: Adopted regulations restricting the use of pesticide fogging devices on state-managed wild-life management areas and established 50-cent daily and a $5 annual user fee on Spenceville Wildlife Management Area in Nevada and Yuba counties.

APPROVED THE PURCHASE of a five-acre mill locale in the Avawatz Mountains, San Bernardino County, to preserve a water source for big horn sheep.

Approved the acceptance by the Dept. of Fish and Game of about 36½ acres of land and water at the Sacramento River and the mouth of Miner Slough in Solano County to preserve wildlife habitat.

Commissioners also approved publication of notice of their intention to establish an ecological reserve in the Farnsworth Bank near Catalina Island for the protection of the rare purple coral.

Confirmed after hearings were emergency commission actions that banned the importation of certain species of live catfish and closed to hunting the 1,100 acre enclosure for transplanted bighorn sheep in the Lava Beds National Monument, Siskiyou County.

More than half a mile of ecologically-valuable shoreline in northern Sonoma County is being dedicated to the Department of Fish and Game for preservation as an ecological reserve.

THE PROPERTY IS presently owned by developers of Sea Ranch, a large coastline residential development, which is giving the land to the/DFG so its unique biological values can be preserved.

Sea Ranch will also grant an easement between Highway 1 and the shoreline to provide for public access to the reserve.

The 3,100 foot long section of the coast has been in private ownership for many years, and Department of Fish and Game marine biologists say it represents as area almost untouched by human use, making it valuable for scientific study as well as an unusual and attractive area for persons interested in the seashore.

Under Department of Fish and Game regulations, all forms of marine and tidepool life will be protected, although fishing with a hook and line will be permitted.

ESTABLISHMENT OF THE shoreline ecological reserve has been approved by the State Fish and Game Commission, pending dedication of the pedestrian access easement.

The Department of Fish and Game will stock catchable-size trout this week in the main branch of the Russian River below Squaw Rock in Mendocino County, Upper Blue Lake in Lake County and in the Big Sur River in Monterey County.

Successful applicants for permits for the special antelope hunt in Modoc, Lassen, Shasta and Siskiyou counties August 27-Sept. 4, are being or have been notified, the DFG announced today.

The drawing for 380 permits for adult male antelope was held Aug. 3 at Department of Fish and Game headquarters in Sacramento. Persons whose names were drawn have only until Aug. 15 to claim their permits, said James Christopher, Department of Fish & Game license chief, and unclaimed permits will go to alternates.

CHRISTOPHER SAID permits will be issued to the successful applicants on payment of the $15 fee. A total of 8,344 persons applied for permits in the hunt this year.

And last, but not least, Hugo Lenci of San Rafael caught a 20-pound salmon this past week in the ocean. Bob Locke, wielder of the sharp needle said, "And he didn't use a pitch fork to land it either!"

Raiders Pleased By High-Round Draftee Thomas

For instance, they picked defensive back Skip Thomas of USC in the seventh round or No. 174 among the choices and now everybody is high on the 200-pounder.

The word was that he lacked speed, but Oakland General Manager Al Davis says he is fast enough and all-pro cornerback Willie Brown, who has helped Thomas in the secrets of the position, says "there's no question he has got all the physical tools to be a real good one."

Seattle Swaps Kojis, Cross To Kansas City

SEATTLE (UPI) —The Seattle SuperSonics of the National Basketball Association have swapped forward Don Kojis and center Pete Cross to the Kansas City Kings for 6-foot-10 center Jim Fox and "future considerations."

Fox, 29, is a much-traveled veteran of five years in the NBA with a scoring average of a little better than 10 points per game.

The Kings get nine years of NBA experience in Kojis and strength at either center or forward in Cross, an NBA sophomore who became a mainstay at center for the Sonics last season and part of the previous season when injuries forced veterans to the bench.

O'Halloran Tips Clark For State Boxing Crown

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—Jack O'Halloran, a 6-foot-6 244-pound brawler, scored an upset split decision over California heavyweight champion Henry Clark of San Francisco Wednesday night to win the state title.

Clark, 215, who held the title since 1967, was unable to avoid O'Halloran's left jabs and right hand body punches until the seventh round and by then O'Halloran had built up too much of a lead. O'Halloran, who moved to San Diego from Boston last March, was ahead on points on the scorecard of one judge and the referee while the other judge gave the fight to Clark.

There were no knockdowns in the 10-round bout.

Freitas In Second Champs Tourney Try

(Final in a Series)

Chuck Freitas got married last summer, which was bad news for his golf game. Now he's had a year to regain his touch, and that's bad news for the five golfers he will face Sunday, 9 a.m., in the sixth annual Marin County Tournament of Champions. Admission is free.

Freitas will represent San Geronimo National for the second straight year in the tourney of champs, which will be played at Marin Country Club in Novato. The event pits the representatives of Marin County's six regulation courses against each other in scratch medal play. Last year at Peacock Gap in San Rafael, Freitas finished with a 78, tied for second behind Mat Palacio Jr.

But a lot has changed since then, not the least of which is the caliber of Freitas' golf. Since last July he has shaved two strokes off his handicap and now carries a four. Freitas says there's no comparison between his play now and a year ago.

Freitas, an electrician with McMillan Electric Co. of San Francisco, has also played more this year. He married his wife Marsha last July, and consequently didn't get to practice much for the tournament. "I play every Saturday probably 27 holes, and nine holes a couple of times a week," he says.

Freitas has been a member of San Geronimo for three years, but has never played Marin Country Club. "I know its a tight course," he says, "but I'm playing pretty good this year, so I don't think it will make any difference."

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Dear Mr. Quiz:

Last spring I had to write a school essay about a famous novelist. I chose Leo Tolstoy, the Russian author of "War and Peace." But my reference books disagreed about his birthdate. One said he was born on August 28th and the other said September 9th. How could one of these major encyclopedias be so wrong? I guessed and put down the August date, hoping I was right. Was I? Signed: Class of '73.

Dear '73:

Lucky for you, both dates are correct! That's right, because one is based on the Julian Calendar and the other on the Gregorian Calendar. It's almost too complicated to explain here, but let me try. The Old Style Calendar put into effect by Julius Caesar got out of step with the seasons, because it was off by 11 and a quarter minutes each year. This amounted to 7 days by the time Roger Bacon found out about it. A correction was ordered by Pope Gregory XIII for Thursday, Oct. 4, 1582. He decreed the next day would be Friday, Oct. 15, 1582. Whisssh! Ten days disappeared. That put the calendar in sync with the universe. The trouble is that Russia did not adopt the Gregorian Calendar until 1918.

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS TODAY

Mike Douglas (1925-), star of a TV network daytima talk show.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Arlene Dahl's book, "Always Ask a Man," is about the women's lib movement.
2. Mike Douglas's real name is Michael D. Dowd, Jr.
3. President Taft fired conservationist Gifford Pinchot from the U.S. Forest Service for insubordination.

ANSWERS

1—False; 2—True; 2—True.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

Mapping No-Trump Action Can Leave A Player Dizzy

When you're planning the play of a hand at no-trump, count the number of times you must give the lead to the opponents and then calculate how much damage they can do to you. Many no-trump hands develop into a race to set up and run a long suit; and you must Keep one eye on the opponents and the other on your hand to estimate which side will win the race. It's a good way to get cross-eyed.

WHICH RED ONE?

South couldn't afford to knock out both red aces. After the first ace, the opponents would lead a second spade. After the second ace, they would cash enough spades to defeat the contract.

South's best chance was to develop the diamonds. He won the first spade trick with the queen, entered dummy with a club and led a diamond toward his hand.

East couldn't afford to hop up with the ace of diamonds, for then South would play low and would later take four diamond tricks. When East played a low diamond, South won with the king.

NEXT STEP

The next step was to enter dummy again with a club and lead another diamond through East. Once more East had to play low, and South won with the jack.

West's discard made it clear that the diamonds were not going to break well. By this time, however, South had two diamond tricks comfortably-tucked away. He could now afford to lead a heart to make sure of one heart trick. Three tricks in the red suits added to the six sure tricks in the black suits gave him his game contract.

FATAL ERROR

It would be a fatal error for South to lead diamonds from his own hand. East would be delighted to capture an honor with his ace of diamonds, for this would limit declarer to two diamond tricks. East would establish the spades while South still could win only eight tricks.

The Facts About Funerals

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Every culture has its own views on the importance — or lack of importance — of a person's deceased body. And while Americans have no monolithic beliefs on the subject, all households must at some time know the facts and laws on funerals, as well as the costs.

"What are the alternatives available to a traditional funeral, to reduce this expense to a surviving widow? Particularly alternatives that might be arranged well before the need?"

It would be possible, of course, to omit the memorial service at the funeral home and hold it at a church or at a family home. Some churches make no charge. If there is a fee, it is a small one.

Another answer is cremation. An increasing number of people are choosing that alternative. Many of them do so for the reason you mention — to avoid the high cost of the average funeral service.

Another factor in this increase is the fact that cremations are no longer banned by the Roman Catholic Church. Jews, also, now are free to make this choice if they wish.

Although ecology does not appear to enter into this decision making at the present time, it may well do so in the future. For it is becoming increasingly difficult to obtain space for a burial ground close to a city or suburban community.

Costs for burials could be substantially reduced by the selection of a cloth-covered casket instead of a metal one that is generally suggested by the funeral home and is much more expensive.

Richard Stevens, president of the Continental Funeral and Memorial Association in Chicago, suggests this as a sensible economy. A traditional funeral, with the use of this type of casket, would cost around $380, he estimates. This would include a complete service, use of the chapel in the funeral home, and transportation.

With cremation, funeral costs are much lower. The average cost in the Chicago area, Mr. Stevens reports, is around $260 and in some cases no more than $210.

In California, prices are about $300 or $400 lower than in the Chicago area for a traditional funeral service, he estimates, and from $100 to $120 lower in the case of cremation.

There is a vast difference between the cost of a traditional funeral with all the formalities and a simple cremation with, perhaps, a memorial service in the chapel, church, or home.

In both cases, arrangements must be made through an authorized funeral home. Few of these advertise low-cost services. Nor do they generally quote a minimum fee unless requested to do so.

Cremation involves the crematory charge, which is about $125. In addition, the funeral home adds its charge for services in obtaining the required documents such as a death certificate and other necessary papers from city authorities.

This charge varies according to the rates of the funeral home with which one may deal. In the Washington area one home which advertises low rates charges $235, covering all costs of cremation.

If there is a family lot and ashes were interred, there would be a cemetary charge of $40 or more. Cemetery costs vary from city to city and are higher where the workers are unionized.

The cost on an average conventional funeral is about $1,600. One home gave $750 as a minimum. For a large funeral, with pomp and ceremony, the cost would amount to $9,000 or even higher.

Secondary Offering Won't Hinder Price

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I have held shares of Howard Johnson for several years. I notice that they have recently announced a secondary offering of 1,150,000 shares. Will this have a detrimental effect on the price of the stock? Also, would you explain exactly what a secondary offering is? — S.W.

A. The term secondary applies to a stock distribution of shares that are already issued and outstanding, rather than shares newly issued by a corporation. When a holder or group of holders wish to sell a large block of shares, this method of distribution is utilized in order to avoid undermining the share price. Dealers involved in the offering sell the shares directly to new buyers without going through a stock exchange.

The number of such distributions has risen dramatically since mid-1970. In 1971, 505 secondaries were registered with the Securities & Exchange Commission; in 1970, only 206. In the first four months of this year 210 offerings had been registered for an annualized rate of 630. In part, the upsurge is attributable to the 1969 Tax Reform Act. Under this law, charitable foundations may hold only 20 per cent of the stock in a single corporarion. Further, foundations are now required to make grants of 4⅞ per cent (up to 5½ per cent by 1975) of total market value of their assets. This has forced many to sell low income growth holdings in order to achieve the necessary yield to meet the required percentage for grants.

RENT-A-PLANT

Overnight Success For Dallas Family

He knows what he's talking about, too, despite his lack of years. For almost a year he has been a quite successful businessman.

"My mother and I have always had a big interest in plants," George said Wednesday. "Ours seem to grow real well. When a woman in my mother's office said she couldn't get anything to grow, we joked and said we'd rent her one of our."

At that point the woman took them up on the offer. So George, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Voneiff, launched himself off into the rent-a-plant business. He charged 50 cents a month and found other customers easily interested and satisfied.

"At the end of the month we would either pick a plant up, leave it or bring another plant," George said.

"Our business is called DGEM. That stands for Daddy, George, Elizabeth his sister, 9 and Mother. When DGEM had collected about $50, I decided to open a savings account."

George sells some plants and several florists are among the buyers.

Now he has branched out a bit — to plant-sitting.

"We will keep plants for anyone who wants to go on vacation," he said.

Reagan's Architect Gets Mansion Job

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Gov. Ronald Reagan's private architect has been awarded a state contract to plan a new governor's mansion in Sacramento, it was reported today.

William Stephenson, 60, a Los Angeles architect who designed Reagan's seaview Pacific Palisades home, was selected by the Reagan administration to submit what it termed "a program" for the estimated $1 million mansion.

Reagan's press secretary, Edwin Gray, said the $5,000 contract was signed this week. There was no public bidding, but Gray said that was normal for architectural awards.

The contract award was first reported by the Riverside Press-Enterprise, which said Stephenson had two months to complete the work.

State Architect Fred Hummel, who hired Stephenson after his recommendation by the governor's office, told the newspaper he assumed Reagan and his wife "were favorable to him because he did a good job for them."

The 1972 legislature appropriated $150,000 for preliminary plans and site preparation for a mansion to be built on an 11-acre wooded site overlooking the American River east of Sacramento.

The Reagans moved out of the official century-old governor's mansion in downtown Sacramento early in 1967. Mrs. Reagan called the place a noisy firetrap.

Since then the state has been paying the Reagans' $15,000 per year rent for a $150,000 home owned by a group of the governor's close political associates and friends.

Stephenson designed Reagan's Pacific Palisades home in 1956 when Reagan was a television star. The architect also has designed homes for singer Tony Martin, orchestra leader Paul Weston and actress Lorraine Day.

"I thought it was a fine selection," said Hummel, while acknowledging Stephenson was not one of his recommendations.

Stephenson previously drew preliminary architectural plans for a proposed mansion when a group of Reagan supporters conducted an unsuccessful fund- raising campaign to collect $550,000 for a new governor's home in 1968-69. Only $130,000 was collected.

If Stephenson's general architectural proposal wins the approval of the Reagan administration and key legislators, Hummel said, he will be awarded a contract for detailed design.
